RFC Authorizes Half Billion To Free Bank Deposits

STOCKS AND NOTES TO BE PURCHASED

Substantial Progress Made in Freeing Frozen Bank Deposits in Michigan

IMMEDIATE ACTION

Expect to Get Money Into Hands of Small Depositors Before Christmas

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The Reconstruction Finance $540,000,000 for freeing of frozen deposits in closed banks under its $1,000,000,000 bank asset liquidation plan, Jesse Jones, chairman said today.

At the same time, Jones revealed that the RFC had authorized purchase of capital stock and notes in 3,160 banks at a total cost of $608,000,000. That figure compared with total unrestricted banking institutions in the country numbering 14,500.

The preferred stock and capital note purchases of the RFC, Jones said "will not run much over $1,000,000 although there is no limit to the amount we can purchase."

Jones reported substantial progress in the freeing of frozen bank deposits in Detroit. Jones said that Comptroller of Currency O'Connor expected to approve a plan to advance $5,000,000 within the next few days to the Guardian National Bank of Commerce in Detroit in order that 103,000 depositors under $1,000 would be reimbursed by 100 per cent.

Jones said that he expected to get his money into the hands of the small depositors "between now and Christmas."

M'ADOO GETS BACK OF WATER PROJECT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo swung his support behind the proposed $170,000,000 Central Valley water project today in a public statement, urging voters to ballot for the project at tomorrow's special election.

McAdoo characterized the project as necessary to halt the "destruction" by salt water of thousands of acres of fertile land below Stockton.

"If promptly undertaken," he said, "the project will give employment to large numbers of men aside from saving the threatened farms and investment of many thousands of California's best citizens."

LINDBERGHS ON FINAL HOP TO NEWARK TODAY

Plan 1400 Mile Flight in Order to Reach End of Their Long Journey

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 18.—(UP)—Speeding home to spend Christmas with their young son, Jon, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh left here at 9:54 a.m. EST., today in their "globe-trotting" red and black monoplane.

It was assumed the couple was intent on making the final 1400-mile flight to New York today, but they were secretive as usual about their plans and destination, and the possibility was they might make one stop enroute.

The Lindberghs, who left New York last July on an aerial survey of the North Atlantic air routes, progressively extended their leisurely flight until it embraced 21 countries on four continents. They arrived here Saturday after an 880-mile hop from San Domingo.

Col. Lindbergh was pursued by a plane piloted by Karl Boelter, whose plane was chartered by the Miami City Publicity Bureau to make pictures of Lindbergh in flight.

Lindbergh did not have difficulty in eluding him in the speedy monoplane, however, and no aerial dodging occurred as did Saturday when Lindbergh dueled with a newsreel plane for 20 minutes before he landed.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh busied themselves yesterday with preparations for the final hop of their tour, but kept secret all plans for departure.

Lindbergh personally supervised the repainting of the red and black ship and Mrs. Lindbergh, who has served as radio operator on the trip, took keen interest in the radio shop of the airways company.

She was up at sunrise. "I have been awake since daylight," she said. "I guess it's gotten to be a habit. I hope I get over it. It's nice to be home and it will be nice to be home for Christmas," she added.

The Lindberghs declined to mingle with other guests at the Pancoast hotel and had meals served in their room. Lindbergh refused an invitation for a swim in the ocean, "because those photographers would be there." The couple, however, passed unnoticed among hundreds of Sunday motorists on their trip to the seaplane base.

Register To Give Returns On Tuesday

Election returns will be available as usual at The Register office tomorrow night.

Interest centers mainly around the harbor bonds and the city hall bonds and arrangements have been made to cover every precinct in Orange county by experienced workers.

The polls open at 6 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. and with the few propositions to be voted on it is believed that first returns will be available between 7:30 and 8 o'clock.

For returns call 87, 88, 89 or 90.

POLICE STILL BAFFLED OVER SIEVER DEATH

Solution of Pasadena Murder Appears Lost Today in Love Affairs

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 18.—(UP)—Thomas Bennett, 35-year-old hotel employe, was arrested today on a charge of suspicion of murder in connection with the killing of Dr. Leonard Siever, aesthetic dentist, social figure and friend of many women. Bennett is the son of Peter Bennett, caretaker of the Scottish Rite Cathedral, near which Siever was shot during a driving rainstorm Tuesday night.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 18.—(UP)—A solution to the murder of Dr. Leonard Siever appeared lost today in a myriad of love affairs that preceded his death on a rain-splashed parking lot last Tuesday night.

Almost hourly some new feminine figure crept into the investigation but only to confuse the chief theory that jealousy or anger lay behind the mystery of the dentist's violent death.

Cathryn Moodie, young socialite, introduced "the woman scorned" in the case by declaring Siever once told her of a jealous woman who resented his attentions to other women. Miss Moodie, who said she had been a friend of the victim because of their mutual interest in music, said she did not know her name.

The middle-aged dentist whose feminine admirers were legion was closely pursued by this woman who often met him at his office and watched his numerous incursions into the social whirl of local society., Miss Moodie said.

"There were many times when Dr. Siever would mention her in our conversations," she related. "He said he was extremely glad he had never married her because her insane jealousy would have made life

RACKETEERING IN LIQUOR IS CHARGED

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The board of supervisors met today to consider taking the first step for changing state liquor laws to obtain a greater measure of home rule.

The proposal laid before the supervisors provided for a statewide convention of city and county representatives to discuss an amendment restoring both local option and local enforcement.

Charges of "liquor racketeering" by some San Francisco stores were made by the better business bureau which claimed that the offending establishments sold imitation and inferior whiskeys in bottles smaller than the advertised size and refused to sell brands advertised at attractive prices. Prosecution was threatened.

BUSINESS MEN SUPPORT BONDS FOR CITY HALL

Proposition to Erect New Edifice on Old Site to Be Voted on Tuesday

PROMINENT Santa Ana business men today came out with strong endorsements for the proposition to vote bonds for the erection of a new city hall for Santa Ana, aided by a $30,000 government contribution, which will be one of the important matters voters of this city will act upon at the election tomorrow.

The list of business men, contacted at random, showed sentiment of business interests as being decidedly in favor of the plan to erect a $100,000 city hall on the old site at Third and Main streets. The names were added to an imposing array of organizations and others backing the plan.

Otto Haan, automobile dealer and president of the chamber of commerce, declared himself in favor of passage of the proposed bond issue to furnish funds for constructing the city hall.

W. D. Ranney, of the Excelsior Creamery, and prominent civic leader, expressed himself as being unqualifiedly in favor of the city hall construction program.

F. A. Jones, manager of the J. C. Penney company store here, declared that passage of the bond issue would be a good thing for Santa Ana. He said he is for anything of that nature which would contribute to the betterment of the city.

E. L. Madden, prominent local druggist, put himself on record as favoring the city hall bond election.

A. N. Zerman, business man and civic leader, said he is "very much in favor of the bonds being passed by voters in the city." "At Third and Main streets," he declared, "the city hall would be centrally

SEVERE COLD WAVE GRIPS ALL EUROPE

PARIS, Dec. 18.—(UP)—A severe cold wave held its grip on Europe today, causing great damage and imperiling lives in many countries.

Low temperatures were accompanied by storms at sea and snowstorms on land. In warmer climates there were torrential rainfalls, extending as far south as Africa.

A Marseilles-Algiers mail airplane drifting in tremendous seas, was found covered with ice and snow, 40 miles off Marignane. The steamship St. Marguerite saved the crew of three and one passenger.

Gales lashed the English channel and the Bay of Biscay as well as the Mediterranean. More bodies were washed up on the British coast. Four were the last to be found. It was believed they were of the crew of the steamship Broomfleet, when went down with 12 men.

In the French Burgundy country the cold reached 18 below zero.

INDEPENDENCE PLAN IS GIVEN BACKING

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 18.—(UP) A strong opposition party, uniting factions committed to approval of the Hare-Hawes-Cutting independence plan, gained momentum in the Philippine islands today during the absence of the bill's leading critic, Manuel Quezon.

Quezon's bitterest political foes, Sergio Osmena and Manuel Roxas, directed the organization of a new "Nationalista" party while the island's dominant political figure was in Washington seeking a new independence plan.

Refuses To Meet Order For Rehire

Budd Auto Body Company in Letter Says Will Not Rehire Strikers

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18.—(UP) Defying an order of the National Labor Board, the Edward G. Budd Auto Body Manufacturing company today refused to rehire striking workmen until business demanded added employment and declined to permit an election of employe representativs.

A letter announcing the company's stand was made public as more than 2,000 workmen planned to end their eight-weeks strike for union recognition and return to work today in accordance with the board's orders.

Edward G. Budd, the manufacturer, wrote Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the labor board, that employment at the plant now was at near-capacity of 5,404 and that it would be impossible to add more workmen until conditions warranted it. He charged that employment figures for the plant, obtained by the board when it ordered re-employment of the strikers, were erroneous.

The manufacturer also refused to accede to the board's order that a secret ballot be permitted by which the employes might select their representatives.

He pointed out that an election was held in September at which the workers selected their representatives.

The company, Budd said, was doing its utmost to support the President's program by employing as many men as possible and permitting them to select their own representatives.

Be sure and vote tomorrow, and vote for Newport Harbor!

ROOSEVELT GREAT MAN, SAY SCULPTOR

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(UP)—President Roosevelt, with none of the phobias, complexes, and inhibitions which mark other contemporary figures, "is truly a great man," Jo Davidson, celebrated American sculptor said today. Davidson has just finished a head of Mr. Roosevelt.

In plannning the PWA art project, Mr. Roosevelt has done a "Great thing for American art," Davidson concluded. He exhibited somewhat proudly, a portrait of the president inscribed "To Jo Davidson, who did a 'grand job' and must come back soon. From his friend, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

ROLPH HELD TO BE PITIFUL SPECTACLE

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Bishop Arthur J. Moore, San Antonio, Tex., attending the mid-year conference of the College of Bishops, Methodist Episcopal church, South, described Gov. James Rolph jr., of California the "most pitiful spectacle that may be found in American life today."

The Methodist bishop paused in his Sunday sermon to make the remark about California's governor who has been severely criticized for announcing he would pardon anyone convicted for lynching two San Jose kidnap-murderers.

MOTHER GAZES ON HER TWO BABIES WITH SEEING EYES FIRST TIME IN 21 YEARS

GREEN BAY, Wis., Dec. 18.—(UP)—Mrs. Mabel Naylor walked about her small upstairs flat today with a steady step, watching her two small daughters with eyes that were seeing for the first time after 21 years of blindness.

Frequently the young mother stepped to a window for a look at the "funny" automobiles that whizzed past in the street. Each time the sight of a person walking in the street or the blue sky brought fourth exclamations of delight.

Not for long, however, could she keep her attention from her two chubby litle daughters, Mildred, 4, and Laverne, 3.

"They're more beautiful than Thomas, my husband, described them and somehow they're just like I thought they would be," she said.

The mother's sight was restored last week through an operation performed by Dr. M. X. Fuller. The woman had been blind since she was seven years old, when a tumerous growth isolated the optic nerve in her right eye and also blinded the left.

"I didn't think I'd ever be able to see again," she said. "My husband worked to save money for the operation and had great confidence it would restore my sight."

Despite the fact that her husband, a mill worker, has been ill for a week with lung infection and will be unable to play Santa Claus to his children this year because of a thin purse, he said it was the happiest Christmas of his life.

"I guess we have all the Christmas we are going to have, right now," Naylor said "There's been no money coming in and so I haven't been able to get anything for the kids. Of course they're not old enough to know it but they've got Christmas enough right now with their mother home and able to see them."

SIX KILLED IN DISORDERS IN CUBA SUNDAY

Opponents of Government Burn Plant of Leading Havana Newspaper

HAVANA, Cuba., Dec. 18.—(UP)—A mob assaulted and sacked the summer home of Porfirio Franca, former banker and member of the September 4th revolutionary committee at Managua, killing Franca's daughter, Josefine Franca de Gomez.

HAVANA, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Six persons were dead and 21 wounded today after hours of wild disorder climaxed by the burning of the plant of the newspaper El Pais.

Bombs and rifle volleys were heard throughout the night and soldiers and police ferreted out opponents of the government in a series of raids.

The Pais plant was burned by government supporters, and some employes charged that soldiers aided. The persons killed were victims of the looting and burning of the plant. They included a newsboy.

The new outbreak of violence marked a new stage in the political situation—announcement by President Ramon Grau San Martin that he intended to remain in office as provisional ruler until May 20, 1934, when he proposed to hand his resignation to a constituent assembly which would provide for election of a constitutional president.

During the evening First Secretary Mathews of the American embassy visited Grau at the palace and had a long talk. Presumably the conversation concerned the prospective arrival of Jefferson Caffrey, President Roosevelt's personal representative. He will be ambassador as soon as a government is recognized by the United States.

The government, increasingly severe in its suppression of inimical activities as its confidence increases, has arrested more than 100 foreigners suspected of subversive sentiments, and proposes to deport them.

In fear of revolutionary activities, strong patrols of soldiers and police moved through the streets during the night, and all not on actual patrol duty were held in barracks.

FEDERAL PRICE OF GOLD IS INCREASED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The government today raised its price on newly mined American gold to $34.06 an ounce, an increase of five cents an ounce.

Today's Washington price was $1.49 above the world price set in London.

The London price today was 126 shillings 9 pence, up 5 pence above Saturday. On the basis of the opening exchange rate for the pound sterling ($5.14), this was equivalent to $32.57 an ounce.

The dollar was worth 60.69 cents as against 60.78 cents prevailing since December 1.

FEDERAL SALES TAX PROPOSED FOR ADOPTION

Eastern Solons Will Bring Matter Up at Coming Session, Reported

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The battle for a general federal sales tax, defeated at the last two sessions of congress, was revived today by James E. Emery, head of the National Manufacturers association.

"Entering a fourth fiscal year of deficits and enlarging public debt," Emery told the house ways and means committee, "we urge, in the face of the demonstrated unreality of income taxation as a major source of revenue, the serious consideration of a gross federal sales tax with exemptions for food, clothing and medicine, as a substitute for the many existing special taxes and the emergency levies' repeal."

Various house proponents of the sales levy indicated they would fight in the coming session to substitute it for the present nuisance taxes.

Minority Leader Snell said that "if anything could be done about the sales tax, it must be at this session as the states are rapidly

VOTERS WILL GO TO POLLS ON TUESDAY

Two Million Dollar Newport Project is Most Important of Issues

VOTE ON CITY HALL

Central Valley Water Project Also to Be Settled at Polls Tomorrow

WITH THE $1,835,441 Orange county development project of which total amount the county is asked to contribute $640,000 in form of a bond issue, as the principal proposition, voters of the county will go to the polls tomorrow and register their approval or disapproval of bond propositions appearing on the ballot.

The polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m., it was announced. Because of the intense interest that has centered about the harbor project, a heavy vote is expected. Registration lists show approximately 55,000 are eligible to vote.

Next to importance to the harbor improvement project, from the standpoint of local interest here in Santa Ana is the $70,000 city hall bond issue, the proceeds of which, if approved by the voters, will be added to $30,000, contributed by the federal government, for financing the construction of a new city hall on the old site, located at Third and Main streets.

Voters of Orange county, as citizens of the state of California, will also be asked to cast their ballots either for or against the $170,000,000 Central Valley water project to be voted on as a referendum issue because of the widespread opposition to the financial features of the project.

Victory Forecast

An overwhelming victory for the harbor project, amounting to a near landslide, was foreseen today by those favoring the undertaking. From every community in the county came outspoken endorsement of the project by all citizens in all walks of life, from the unemployed to the largest taxpayers. With these endorsements as a criterion of public opinion, a big vote for the harbor is expected.

The fact that it will be a Federal harbor with plans already approved by Government engineers; that the Federal Government will contribute $1,195,441 to the project as an outright gift; and that it will open up hundreds of jobs in the

Open Our Front Door Tomorrow

(AN EDITORIAL)

We, one time, stood on the bridge of a vessel with the captain. There was considerable sea running, a strong wind, and some fog. It was hundreds of miles to the harbor we were endeavoring to reach, and I asked the captain if there was not some other place we could "put in." He replied: "No, this is an uninviting and forbidding coast."

We recall this statement today, as tomorrow we vote upon whether we shall make the entrance to Orange county, from the sea, an inviting and acceptable haven for all those who seek a harbor. Newport Beach is the front of our county home to all the East. Let us serve notice tomorrow upon all tourists, mariners, traders, business men and home seekers, that we are anxious for them to come by sea, as well as by land, and to enter the best land-locked haven between San Francisco and San Diego.

The facts have been completely presented. We know scarcely a man who has not said he would vote to give Uncle Sam, our Federal government, the privilege and opportunity to complete this harbor at once, at the government's expense.

There has been here and there a question asked as to whether these bonds would be used if the government did not do its part. You can rest assured that these bonds will only be sold, and the money used, with the government carrying out its part of the contract. The Board of Supervisors has declared that it will not attempt to sell such bonds, except under that condition. The District Attorney has ruled that they could not legally sell them if they wanted to, except as the government does its part, and the truth is that there is no place where the bonds would be taken, except by the Federal government. You needn't worry about the Federal government buying bonds to waste the money in a partially completed enterprise.

Seventy-five per cent of the people of the county will be directly profited, and the balance of them indirectly profited, several-fold more than any possible cost that this enterprise will be to the county.

Tomorrow let the people in the cities and the country, the wage-earner and the rancher, the employed and the unemployed, join heartily together to rivet our action onto this promise of the government, and make our hope for the South Coast's development and the dream of thousands come true.

Immortal Words Vital Today

(AN EDITORIAL)

The other evening, at a meeting on behalf of the Newport Harbor bonds in South Santa Ana, at which Fred Vollmer presided, Mr. Vollmer recited the poem "Opportunity," written by the late John J. Ingalls of Kansas, long a senator from that state.

Mr. Vollmer was emphasizing the patent fact that the opportunity here to co-operate with the government, in completing the harbor, when the government will furnish all the money, and only require one-third in return, will never come again. Opportunity must now be grasped.

The sentiment expressed by these immortal words of Ingalls applies with singular and striking power to the issue tomorrow. Use the "opportunity"!

The poem follows:

"Master of human destinies am I.
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wa
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and, passing by
Hovel, and mart, and palace, soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate.
If sleeping wake—if feasting lies before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire, and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury, and woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore,
I answer not, and I return no more."

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 18.—(UP)—Speeding home to spend Christmas with their young son, Jon, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh left here at 9:54 a.m. EST., today in their "globe-trotting" red and black monoplane.

It was assumed the couple was intent on making the final 1400-mile flight to New York today, but they were secretive as usual about their plans and destination, and the possibility was they might make one stop en-route.

The Lindberghs, who left New York last July on an aerial survey of the North Atlantic air routes, progressively extended their leisurely flight until it embraced 21 countries on four continents. They arrived here Saturday after an 880-mile hop from San Domingo.

Col. Lindbergh was pursued by a plane piloted by Karl Boelter, whose plane was chartered by the Miami City Publicity Bureau to make pictures of Lindbergh in flight.

Lindbergh did not have difficulty in eluding him in the speedy monoplane, however, and no aerial dodging occurred as did Saturday when Lindbergh dueled with a newsreel plane for 20 minutes before he landed.

POLICE STILL BAFFLED OVER SIEVER DEATH

Solution of Pasadena Murder Appears Lost Today in Love Affairs

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 18.—(UP)—Thomas Bennett, 35-year-old hotel employe, was arrested today on a charge of suspicion of murder in connection with the killing of Dr. Leonard Siever, aesthetic dentist, social figure and friend of many women. Bennett is the son of Peter Bennett, caretaker of the Scottish Rite Cathedral, near which Siever was shot during a driving rainstorm Tuesday night.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 18.—(UP)—A solution to the murder of Dr. Leonard Siever appeared lost today in a myriad of love affairs that preceded his death on a rain-splashed parking lot last Tuesday night.

Almost hourly some new feminine figure crept into the investigation but only to confuse the chief theory that jealousy or anger lay behind the mystery of the dentist's violent death.

Cathryn Moodie, young socialite, introduced "the woman scorned" in the case by declaring Siever once told her of a jealous woman who resented his attentions to other women. Miss Moodie, who said she had been a friend of the victim because of their mutual interest in music, said she did not know her name.

The middle-aged dentist whose feminine admirers were legion was closely pursued by this woman who often met him at his office and watched his numerous incursions into the social whirl of local society, Miss Moodie said.

"There were many times when Dr. Siever would mention her in our conversations," she related. "He said he was extremely glad he had never married her because her insane jealousy would have made life

RACKETEERING IN LIQUOR IS CHARGED

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The board of supervisors met today to consider taking the first step for changing state liquor laws to obtain a greater measure of home rule.

The proposal laid before the supervisors provided for a state-wide convention of city and county representatives to discuss an amendment restoring both local option and local enforcement.

Charges of "liquor racketeering" by some San Francisco stores were made by the better business bureau which claimed that the offending establishments sold imitation and inferior whiskeys in bottles smaller than the advertised size and refused to sell brands advertised at attractive prices. Prosecution was threatened.

BUSINESS MEN SUPPORT BONDS FOR CITY HALL

Proposition to Erect New Edifice on Old Site to Be Voted on Tuesday

PROMINENT Santa Ana business men today came out with strong endorsements for the proposition to vote bonds for the erection of a new city hall for Santa Ana, aided by a $30,000 government contribution, which will be one of the important matters voters of this city will act upon at the election tomorrow.

The list of business men, contacted at random, showed sentiment of business interests as being decidedly in favor of the plan to erect a $100,000 city hall on the old site at Third and Main streets. The names were added to an imposing array of organizations and others backing the plan.

Otto Haan, automobile dealer and president of the chamber of commerce, declared himself in favor of passage of the proposed bond issue to furnish funds for constructing the city hall.

W. D. Ranney, of the Excelsior Creamery, and prominent civic leader, expressed himself as being unqualifiedly in favor of the city hall construction program.

F. A. Jones, manager of the J. C. Penney company store here, declared that passage of the bond issue would be a good thing for Santa Ana. He said he is for anything of that nature which would contribute to the betterment of the city.

E. L. Madden, prominent local druggist, put himself on record as favoring the city hall bond election.

A. N. Zerman, business man and civic leader, said he is "very much in favor of the bonds being passed by voters in the city." "At Third and Main streets," he declared, "the city hall would be centrally

SEVERE COLD WAVE GRIPS ALL EUROPE

PARIS, Dec. 18.—(UP)—A severe cold wave held its grip on Europe today, causing great damage and imperiling lives in many countries.

Low temperatures were accompanied by storms at sea and snowstorms on land. In warmer climates there were torrential rainfalls, extending as far south as Africa.

A Marseilles-Algiers mail airplane drifting in tremendous seas, was found covered with ice and snow, 40 miles off Marignane. The steamship St. Marguerite saved the crew of three and one passenger.

Gales lashed the English channel and the Bay of Biscay as well as the Mediterranean. More bodies were washed up on the British coast. Four were the last to be found. It was believed they were of the crew of the steamship Broomfleet, when went down with 12 men.

In the French Burgundy country the cold reached 18 below zero.

Be sure and vote tomorrow, and vote for Newport Harbor!

INDEPENDENCE PLAN IS GIVEN BACKING

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 18.—(UP) A strong opposition party, uniting factions committed to approval of the Hare-Hawes-Cutting independence plan, gained momentum in the Philippine islands today during the absence of the bill's leading critic, Manuel Quezon.

Quezon's bitterest political foes, Sergio Osmena and Manuel Roxas, directed the organization of a new "Nationalista" party while the island's dominant political figure was in Washington seeking a new independence plan.

MOTHER GAZES ON HER TWO BABIES WITH SEEING EYES FIRST TIME IN 21 YEARS

GREEN BAY, Wis., Dec. 18.—(UP)—Mrs. Mabel Naylor walked about her small upstairs flat today with a steady step, watching her two small daughters with eyes that were seeing for the first time after 21 years of blindness.

Frequently the young mother stepped to a window for a look at the "funny" automobiles that whizzed past in the street. Each time the sight of a person walking in the street or the blue sky brought fourth exclamations of delight.

Not for long, however, could she keep her attention from her two chubby litle daughters, Mildred, 4, and Laverne, 3.

"They're more beautiful than Thomas, my husband, described them and somehow they're just like I thought they would be," she said.

The mother's sight was restored last week through an operation performed by Dr. M. X. Fuller. The woman had been blind since she was seven years old, when a tumerous growth isolated the optic nerve in her right eye and also blinded the left.

"I didn't think I'd ever be able to see again," she said. "My husband worked to save money for the operation and had great confidence it would restore my sight."

Despite the fact that her husband, a mill worker, has been ill for a week with lung infection and will be unable to play Santa Claus to his children this year because of a thin purse, he said it was the happiest Christmas of his life.

"I guess we have all the Christmas we are going to have, right now," Naylor said "There's been no money coming in and so I haven't been able to get anything for the kids. Of course they're not old enough to know it but they've got Christmas enough right now with their mother home and able to see them."

SIX KILLED IN DISORDERS IN CUBA SUNDAY

Opponents of Government Burn Plant of Leading Havana Newspaper

HAVANA, Cuba., Dec. 18.—(UP)—A mob assaulted and sacked the summer home of Porfirio Franca, former banker and member of the September 4th revolutionary committee at Managua, killing Franca's daughter, Josefine Franca de Gomez.

HAVANA, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Six persons were dead and 21 wounded today after hours of wild disorder climaxed by the burning of the plant of the newspaper El Pais.

Bombs and rifle volleys were heard throughout the night and soldiers and police ferreted out opponents of the government in a series of raids.

The Pais plant was burned by government supporters, and some employes charged that soldiers aided. The persons killed were victims of the looting and burning of the plant. They included a newsboy.

The new outbreak of violence marked a new stage in the political situation—announcement by President Ramon Grau San Martin that he intended to remain in office as provisional ruler until May 20, 1934, when he proposed to hand his resignation to a constituent assembly which would provide for election of a constitutional president.

During the evening First Secretary Mathews of the American embassy visited Grau at the palace and had a long talk. Presumably the conversation concerned the prospective arrival of Jefferson Caffrey, President Roosevelt's personal representative. He will be ambassador as soon as a government is recognized by the United States.

The government, increasingly severe in its suppression of inimical activities as its confidence increases, has arrested more than 100 foreigners suspected of subversive sentiments, and proposes to deport them.

In fear of revolutionary activities, strong patrols of soldiers and police moved through the streets during the night, and all not on actual patrol duty were held in barracks.

FEDERAL PRICE OF GOLD IS INCREASED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The government today raised its price on newly mined American gold to $34.06 an ounce, an increase of five cents an ounce.

Today's Washington price was $1.49 above the world price set in London.

The London price today was 126 shillings 9 pence, up 5 pence above Saturday. On the basis of the opening exchange rate for the pound sterling ($5.14), this was equivalent to $32.57 an ounce.

The dollar was worth 60.69 cents as against 60.78 cents prevailing since December 1.

FEDERAL SALES TAX PROPOSED FOR ADOPTION

Eastern Solons Will Bring Matter Up at Coming Session, Reported

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The battle for a general federal sales tax, defeated at the last two sessions of congress, was revived today by James E. Emery, head of the National Manufacturers association.

"Entering a fourth fiscal year of deficits and enlarging public debt," Emery told the house ways and means committee, "we urge, in the face of the demonstrated unreality of income taxation as a major source of revenue, the serious consideration of a gross federal sales tax with exemptions for food, clothing and medicine, as a substitute for the many existing special taxes and the emergency levies' repeal."

Various house proponents of the sales levy indicated they would fight in the coming session to substitute it for the present nuisance taxes.

Minority Leader Snell said that "if anything could be done about the sales tax, it must be at this session as the states are rapidly

VOTERS WILL GO TO POLLS ON TUESDAY

Two Million Dollar Newport Project is Most Important of Issues

VOTE ON CITY HALL

Central Valley Water Project Also to Be Settled at Polls Tomorrow

WITH THE $1,835,441 Orange county development project of which total amount the county is asked to contribute $640,000 in form of a bond issue, as the principal proposition, voters of the county will go to the polls tomorrow and register their approval or disapproval of bond propositions appearing on the ballot.

The polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m., it was announced. Because of the intense interest that has centered about the harbor project, a heavy vote is expected. Registration lists show approximately 55,000 are eligible to vote.

Next to importance to the harbor improvement project, from the standpoint of local interest here in Santa Ana is the $70,000 city hall bond issue, the proceeds of which, if approved by the voters, will be added to $30,000, contributed by the federal government, for financing the construction of a new city hall on the old site, located at Third and Main streets.

Voters of Orange county, as citizens of the state of California, will also be asked to cast their ballots either for or against the $170,000,000 Central Valley water project to be voted on as a referendum issue because of the widespread opposition to the financial features of the project.

Victory Forecast

An overwhelming victory for the harbor project, amounting to a near landslide, was foreseen today by those favoring the undertaking. From every community in the county came outspoken endorsement of the project by all citizens in all walks of life, from the unemployed to the largest taxpayers. With these endorsements as a criterion of public opinion, a big vote for the harbor is expected.

The fact that it will be a Federal harbor with plans already approved by Government engineers; that the Federal Government will contribute $1,195,441 to the project as an outright gift; and that it will open up hundreds of jobs in the

(AN EDITORIAL)

We, one time, stood on the bridge of a vessel with the captain. There was considerable sea running, a strong wind, and some fog. It was hundreds of miles to the harbor we were endeavoring to reach, and I asked the captain if there was not some other place we could "put in." He replied: "No, this is an uninviting and forbidding coast."

We recall this statement today, as tomorrow we vote upon whether we shall make the entrance to Orange county, from the sea, an inviting and acceptable haven for all those who seek a harbor. Newport Beach is the front of our county home to all the East. Let us serve notice tomorrow upon all tourists, mariners, traders, business men and home seekers, that we are anxious for them to come by sea, as well as by land, and to enter the best land-locked haven between San Francisco and San Diego.

The facts have been completely presented. We know scarcely a man who has not said he would vote to give Uncle Sam, our Federal government, the privilege and opportunity to complete this harbor at once, at the government's expense.

There has been here and there a question asked as to whether these bonds would be used if the government did not do its part. You can rest assured that these bonds will only be sold, and the money used, with the government carrying out its part of the contract. The Board of Supervisors has declared that it will not attempt to sell such bonds, except under that condition. The District Attorney has ruled that they could not legally sell them if they wanted to, except as the government does its part, and the truth is that there is no place where the bonds would be taken, except by the Federal government. You needn't worry about the Federal government buying bonds to waste the money in a partially completed enterprise.

Seventy-five per cent of the people of the county will be directly profited, and the balance of them indirectly profited, several-fold more than any possible cost that this enterprise will be to the county.

Tomorrow let the people in the cities and the country, the wage-earner and the rancher, the employed and the unemployed, join heartily together to rivet our action onto this promise of the government, and make our hope for the South Coast's development and the dream of thousands come true.

ENDORSEMENTS POURING IN ON HARBOR BONDS

Endorsements of the Newport harbor bond issue to pay one-third of the cost of the proposed improvement at the port for which the government is to provide the balance of the cost, continue to pour in from the rank and file of Orange county voters, who are expected to go to the polls tomorrow to give the measure hearty approval. Some of them follow:

Carl G. Strock, "When considering the slight cost to each property owner, it would be very foolish to turn down the harbor bonds which with the aid of the federal government will give us a real harbor, and put Orange county on the map."

Sol Gonzales, "I have always been a harbor booster and now I am stronger than ever for the harbor."

T. Fulkerson, "The harbor will bring an influx of wealthy homeowners whose names will soon find their way on the ledgers of our stores. As a business proposition, I am for the harbor."

George S. Smith, "Because of the beneficial features of the harbor project, both from the standpoint of unemployment relief and of attracting new taxable wealth, I shall vote for the bond issue."

Ivie Stein, "The resultant benefits of the harbor proposition, not to mention the fact the Federal Government is extending recognition to the tune of $1,200,000, are too patent to question the advisability of the undertaking. It is the best money-making proposition ever offered Orange county."

W. H. James, "Such an opportunity as the harbor improvement project knocks but once at our door. We cannot afford to let it pass."

Logan Jackson, Sheriff, "I sincerely believe the proposed harbor improvement project, as presented to the voters, will prove a most valuable asset to the county, the full extent of which will only be realized and appreciated in the future. I hope the proposition will have the wholehearted support of the entire county. What helps one section, must necessarily help other sections."

Rev. Father Thomas B. Noonan, pastor of St. Ann's Parish, Santa Ana, "A vote for the harbor improvement project is nothing more or less than an individual endorsement of President Roosevelt's nation-wide program to relieve want and suffering by putting men to work. With this humanitarian objective, I favor the undertaking."

Mrs. Julia Ann Hyde, "Of course I am for the harbor bonds."

C. LaDrue Mantor, "If those yacht harbors on the French and Italian Rivieras have been able to attract thousands of wealthy Americans, there is no good reason why we should not be able to do the same thing with a real harbor."

Rev. Herman Powell, "Interested in social welfare activities, I am naturally for any undertaking that will put men to work, hence I am for the harbor project."

Jess Elliott, Constable, "We are in a state of emergency and any meritorious undertaking that will relieve unemployment and give the taxpayers a fair show for their money, should have the support of every voter."

H. E. Barnes, president, Brea Lions—"It was regularly moved and seconded, and duly carried, that the Brea Lions club go on record as being favorable to the Newport Harbor bonds to be voted on December 19."

Harrison White, Boy Scout executive—"Knowing the needs of boyhood in Orange county from a recreational as well as from a character building program, our chief objective being character building and citizenship training under supervised leadership teaching the boys of this county the proper use of their leisure time, we believe the development of this harbor project will insure most positively the future playground activities of our youth for all time, and is equally as important for them as the pleasure side for adults."

Clyde C. Downing, "From the standpoint of economic development of Orange county, I cannot think of any bigger factor than the proposed harbor development. I am for it."

WILL ROGERS says:

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 18. (To the Editor of The Register:) You sure got to give it to this administration for trying to do something for the down and out. Over in Phoenix, Ariz., the other day, I run onto something that I had not read about but I understand there is quite a few in southwestern States. It's called a government transient camp. I went out to see 'em. There was about 700 men and boys (lots of 'em very young) and they kept 'em there and fed 'em, and gave 'em clothes. They received no money, good food, good cots and blankets. All had to work. Lot of 'em were making wooden toys for the children in Phoenix for Christmas. A taxpayer can't kick on his money being spent if it's on food. Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

BUSINESS MEN SUPPORT BONDS FOR CITY HALL

located and besides, I think it is good business to build the city hall at this time.

James N. Harding, of Chandler's Furniture store, was emphatic in his endorsement of the city hall bonds. "I think it would be a big mistake not to take advantage of the government gift of $30,000 at this time," he asserted. "Locating the city hall at Third and Main streets would provide the utmost convenience for citizens of the city and would serve to improve a vacant lot which is giving no returns now."

Orval Lyon, Goodrich-Silvertown dealer, put himself on record as being 100 per cent for the passage of the city hall bonds.

J. C. Horton, prominent furniture dealer, said he would vote for the bonds and favored a favorable vote on the issue.

Jack Boardman, manager of the Grand Central Market, stood strongly in favor of the matter, pointing out that not only would the city hall prove an asset to the city, but would aid in decreasing unemployment.

John Knox, business man and former mayor, also said he is 100 per cent for the bonds, declaring that the city of Santa Ana may never again have such an opportunity to secure a city hall at such a low cost.

Burr Shafer, music store manager, said he favors the passage of the bond issue.

taking over this field."

Rep. Crowther, Repn, N. Y., and Rep. Treadway, Repn., Mass., have indicated they would lead the fight for a sales tax.

In addition to his sales tax proposal, Emery urged a levy on liquor at such rates as will not encourage bootleggers.

Emery contended that the present electrical energy tax should be paid by municipally owned plants as well as private producers.

The proposed recommendation of the committee in regard to income taxes drew fire from Emery.

"Reverting to the specific recommendations before your committee, we venture the comment that, taken as a whole, they exhibit a startling tenden.. toward predicating income taxes on gross rather than net income. It is, in many instances, on the whole intake of any form of a business."

At no time in our economic history," Emery said, "has our tax policy been of more importance to the realization of the president's great dream of recovery," Emery said.

"Industry is cheerfully carrying heav.. liens in the co-operative effort to realize recovery. The numerous and drastic adjustments required to harmonize the new inter-relations of industry, and which our whole business body is striving to make effective, will have their success greatly threatened by innovations in tax procedure, new and expensive methods of accounting and especially by any serious enlargement which might become financially unendurable for many industries weakened by three years of continuing loss and contracted credit."

PROBE INTO DEATH OF VANCE ORDERED

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Louis Joseph Vance, one of America's better known mystery writers, today was the corpus delecti in a mystery which followers of his tales said was as strange as any he concocted before his death.

Vance was found dead in his hotel room. Windows and the door were locked from the inside. The upper part of his body was burned, and it first was believed he had fallen asleep with a lighted cigarette in his hand which ignited his clothing.

Police started a new investigation on the basis of evidence which led them to suspect that his death might have been other than an accident.

EIGHT INJURED IN SERIES OF MOTOR CRASHES

Six wrecks were reported in Orange county over the week end with eight persons receiving injuries, of which only two required hospital treatment.

Three persons were hurt at 9:30 a. m., Sunday when cars driven by Clyde E. Cave, 40, 2107 North Rose street, and Harman C. Oglesby, 23, Los Angeles, collided at Nineteenth and Broadway. Miss Martha Heemstra, 20, R. D. 1, Buena Park, was taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital for first aid treatment while Marvin Waltin, 24, R. D. 4, Anaheim, and Oglesby, were slightly hurt.

Miss Ann Browning, 19, Los Angeles, was the most seriously hurt when a car driven by Mrs. Ruth E. Edmondson, 30, 1112 South Vancouver street, Los Angeles, skidded from the road in Trabuco canyon eight miles east of El Toro and struck two trees. She received lacerations about the head, face and arms and was given treatment at the Orange County hospital. Others hurt were Ken Bush, 20 and Bill Hoeft, 19, both of Los Angeles.

Don Winkler, 1658 East Fourth street, received cuts about the knees when his bicycle struck a truck driven by F. C. Watkins, 712 West Fourth street, at McClay and East Fourth streets Saturday evening. The cyclist was given treatment by a physician and taken home.

Mrs. Pansy Gardner, 39, R. D. 2, Box 101, Orange, was slightly hurt Saturday at 7 p. m., when a car driven by Mrs. Ree Gardner, of the some address crashed into an electric light pole at Bristol street and Memory lane. Two large transformers were knocked from the pole and fell on the car. The northwestern part of the city was thrown into darkness for nearly an hour before service could be renewed.

No one was hurt but Jack Meadow, 27, 561 North Olive street, was booked for drunk driving as the result of a wreck at Chapman and Center streets Sunday noon. Cars driven by Meadows and Paul Muench collided and Meadows was held by officers, as was Richard Henson, 46, riding with him, who was charged with drunkenness. Meadows was fined $150 in police court this morning and paid $50 to Judge A. W. Swayze.

Ponzi Near World Cue Championship

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia held a commanding lead today in the world's pocket billiards championship tournament over his closest rival, Erwin Rudolph, of Cleveland.

Rudolph's defeat at the hands of Pasquale Natalie of Chicago left him with a record of five victories as against two defeats and with but an outside chance to overtake Ponzi, who had won six while losing one game.

county and stimulate business activity over a wide radius, will spur thinking voters to register an overwhelming majority for the harbor program, it was pointed out.

An overwhelming victory will impel officials at Washington to speed up the appropriations, and enable the development work to be undertaken as soon as legally possible, it was declared.

A full opportunity has been afforded all voters to become informed of all details of the harbor plan, it was pointed out, with the Harbor Association office open every day for the past month with facts, figures and literature available to everyone.

Endorsements

As showing the overwhelming endorsement given the harbor project, is the following partial list of official endorsements given it in recent weeks: Central Labor Council, Unemployed Association Builders Exchange, County Council American Legion, United Spanish War Veterans, Truck Owners Association, Santa Ana Business Men's Asociation, all newspapers board of supervisors, General Contractors Association, many service, religious and civic associations, besides practically all the chambers of commerce throughout the county.

In addition, the bonds for the harbor project are being supported by practically all of the persons throughout the county who in the past have been most active in opposition to bond issues.

Inland ranchers and taxpayers generally have been impressed with the possibilities of the harbor as a means of building up new tax values along the coast in order to relieve the burden borne by inland taxpayers, one of the many telling arguments presented why the harbor should be endorsed. As the proportion of coast taxes increases because of new wealth and population, naturally the proportion borne by taxpayers of Orange, Anaheim, Fullerton, Santa Ana and other interior communities will be lowered, it was pointed out.

While pointing to the immediate returns of new jobs, federal recognition, new wealth, and increased yachting activities to build up the coast's tax values, harbor supporters have not overlooked the great commercial and industrial possibilities of the harbor in the future, with its benefits of payrolls, terminal rates, cheap transportation costs, etc., in addition to naval and coast guard use as may be needed.

INTERVENTION UP BEFORE CONCLAVE

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The delicate question of intervention by one nation in the affairs of another, in which the United States is vitally interested, was temporarily sidetracked at the seventh Pan-American conference today.

Discussion of the international law committee of a resolution denouncing intervention was postponed until tomorrow after a conference between the United States and the A B C powers—Argentina, Brazil and Chile.

Time was thus gained for expected modification of the resolution before it is approved by the committee.

NEW DRIVE STARTED ON CHICAGO GANGS

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The remnant of gangs which sprang into power during the prohibition era were placed "on the spot" today in a new combined state and federal campaign announced by state's attorney Thomas Courtney.

While the drive will be national in its scope it will be centered in Chicago, Courtney said.

Miss Moodie said she had not seen Siever for two months before his death.

New contributions were reported by police in the array of love letters found among the victim's personal effects. Like the others, the letters disclosed additional feminine conquests the dapper dentist counted among his amours.

Despite the mass of correspondence, police failed to find a single author whom they felt harbored a spirit of revenge against the inconstant lover. In consequence they still entertained another theory that some maddened husband dealt death in reprisal.

Police definitely abandoned a robbery theory by declared only one pocket of the victim had been rifled. His wallet and wrist watch were missing but police believed they were stolen to cover up the real motive.

Investigators hoped to unearth some clue in a safety deposit box Siever rented at a local bank when they opened it today to examine his personal papers.

COUNTY SCHOOL TRUSTEES URGE BAN ON TENURE

Unanimously recommending that a movement under way to repeal the state teacher tenure law by initiative petition be endorsed, the Orange County School Trustees association met Saturday afternoon in the auditorium of the Willard Junior high school.

The matter was brought to the attention of the association by W. M. Burke, Santa Ana trustee, who will carry the recommendation to a meeting of the state association of trustees in Fresno Saturday.

Burke described the progress of negotiations of the state association with the California Teachers' association in regard to the tenure law, telling how a plan submitted to the teachers' organization had not been accepted.

The petition being circulated seeks repeal of the present tenure law so that boards of trustees would be able to dismiss teachers by unanimous vote of the board or by a majority of the board with the school superintendent concurring.

Matters of insurance, with special regard to fires and earthquakes, were discussed at the meeting.

Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, spoke at the session, telling of the deplorable condition which exists in many places in the United States where schools have been forced to close because of the lack of funds. He said he was afraid this might happen in California unless something is done to improve the situation.

The highest and lowese points in the United States are in the same county. Inyo county, Cal., they are Mount Whitney, 14,501 feet above sea level, and Death Valley, 276 feet below sea level.

ENDORSEMENTS POURING IN ON HARBOR BONDS

Endorsements of the Newport harbor bond issue to pay one-third of the cost of the proposed improvement at the port for which the government is to provide the balance of the cost, continue to pour in from the rank and file of Orange county voters, who are expected to go to the polls tomorrow to give the measure hearty approval. Some of them follow:

Carl G. Strock, "When considering the slight cost to each property owner, it would be very foolish to turn down the harbor bonds which with the aid of the federal government will give us a real harbor, and put Orange county on the map."

Sol Gonzales, "I have always been a harbor booster and now I am stronger than ever for the harbor."

T. Fulkerson, "The harbor will bring an influx of wealthy homeowners whose names will soon find their way on the ledgers of our stores. As a business proposition, I am for the harbor."

George S. Smith, "Because of the beneficial features of the harbor project, both from the standpoint of unemployment relief and of attracting new taxable wealth, I shall vote for the bond issue."

Ivie Stein, "The resultant benefits of the harbor proposition, not to mention the fact the Federal Government is extending recognition to the tune of $1,200,000, are too patent to question the advisability of the undertaking. It is the best money-making proposition ever offered Orange county."

W. H. James, "Such an opportunity as the harbor improvement project knocks but once at our door. We cannot afford to let it pass."

Logan Jackson, Sheriff, "I sincerely believe the proposed harbor improvement project, as presented to the voters, will prove a most valuable asset to the county, the full extent of which will only be realized and appreciated in the future. I hope the proposition will have the wholehearted support of the entire county. What helps one section, must necessarily help other sections."

Rev. Father Thomas B. Noonan, pastor of St. Ann's Parish, Santa Ana, "A vote for the harbor improvement project is nothing more or less than an individual endorsement of President Roosevelt's nation-wide program to relieve want and suffering by putting men to work. With this humanitarian objective, I favor the undertaking."

Mrs. Julia Ann Hyde, "Of course I am for the harbor bonds."

C. LaDrue Mantor, "If those yacht harbors on the French and Italian Rivieras have been able to attract thousands of wealthy Americans, there is no good reason why we should not be able to do the same thing with a real harbor."

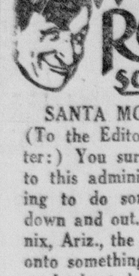

Rev. Herman Powell, "Interested in social welfare activities, I am naturally for any undertaking that will put men to work, hence I am for the harbor project."

Jess Elliott, Constable, "We are in a state of emergency and any meritorious undertaking that will relieve unemployment and give the taxpayers a fair show for their money, should have the support of every voter."

H. E. Barnes, president, Brea Lions—"It was regularly moved and seconded, and duly carried, that the Brea Lions club go on record as being favorable to the Newport Harbor bonds to be voted on December 19."

Harrison White, Boy Scout executive—"Knowing the needs of boyhood in Orange county from a recreational as well as from a character building program, our chief objective being character building and citizenship training under supervised leadership teaching the boys of this county the proper use of their leisure time, we believe the development of this harbor project will insure most positively the future playground activities of our youth for all time, and is equally as important for them as the pleasure side for adults."

Clyde C. Downing, "From the standpoint of economic development of Orange county, I cannot think of any bigger factor than the proposed harbor development. I am for it."

WILL ROGERS says:

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 18. (To the Editor of The Register:) You sure got to give it to this administration for trying to do something for the down and out. Over in Phoenix, Ariz., the other day, I run onto something that I had not read about but I understand there is quite a few in southwestern States. It's called a government transient camp. I went out to see 'em. There was about 700 men and boys (lots of 'em very young) and they kept 'em there and fed 'em, and gave 'em clothes. They received no money, good food, good cots and blankets. All had to work. Lot of 'em were making wooden toys for the children in Phoenix for Christmas. A taxpayer can't kick on his money being spent if it's on food. Yours, WILL ROGERS.

BUSINESS MEN SUPPORT BONDS FOR CITY HALL

located and besides, I think it is good business to build the city hall at this time.

James N. Harding, of Chandler's Furniture store, was emphatic in his endorsement of the city hall bonds. "I think it would be a big mistake not to take advantage of the government gift of $30,000 at this time," he asserted. "Locating the city hall at Third and Main streets would provide the utmost convenience for citizens of the city and would serve to improve a vacant lot which is giving no returns now."

Orval Lyon, Goodrich-Silvertown dealer, put himself on record as being 100 per cent for the passage of the city hall bonds.

J. C. Horton, prominent furniture dealer, said he would vote for the bonds and favored a favorable vote on the issue.

Jack Boardman, manager of the Grand Central Market, stood strongly in favor of the matter, pointing out that not only would the city hall prove an asset to the city, but would aid in decreasing unemployment.

John Knox, business man and former mayor, also said he is 100 per cent for the bonds, declaring that the city of Santa Ana may never again have such an opportunity to secure a city hall at such a low cost.

Burr Shafer, music store manager, said he favors the passage of the bond issue.

taking over this field."

Rep. Crowther, Repn, N. Y., and Rep. Treadway, Repn., Mass., have indicated they would lead the fight for a sales tax.

In addition to his sales tax proposal, Emery urged a levy on liquor at such rates as will not encourage bootleggers.

Emery contended that the present electrical energy tax should be paid by municipally owned plants as well as private producers.

The proposed recommendation of the committee in regard to income taxes drew fire from Emery.

"Reverting to the specific recommendations before your committee, we venture the comment that, taken as a whole, they exhibit a startling tendency toward predicating income taxes on gross rather than net income. It is, in many instances, on the whole intake of any form of a business."

"At no time in our economic history," Emery said, "has our tax policy been of more importance to the realization of the president's great dream of recovery," Emery said.

"Industry is cheerfully carrying heavy burdens in the co-operative effort to realize recovery. The numerous and drastic adjustments required to harmonize the new inter-relations of industry, and which our whole business body is striving to make effective, will have their success greatly threatened by innovations in tax procedure, new and expensive methods of accounting and especially by any serious enlargement which might become financially unendurable for many industries weakened by three years of continuing loss and contracted credit."

PROBE INTO DEATH OF VANCE ORDERED

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Louis Joseph Vance, one of America's better known mystery writers, today was the corpus delecti in a mystery which followers of his tales said was as strange as any he concocted before his death.

Vance was found dead in his hotel room. Windows and the door were locked from the inside. The upper part of his body was burned, and it first was believed he had fallen asleep with a lighted cigarette in his hand which ignited his clothing.

Police started a new investigation on the basis of evidence which led them to suspect that his death might have been other than an accident.

EIGHT INJURED IN SERIES OF MOTOR CRASHES

Six wrecks were reported in Orange county over the week end with eight persons receiving injuries, of which only two required hospital treatment.

Three persons were hurt at 9:30 a. m., Sunday when cars driven by Clyde E. Cave, 40, 2107 North Rose street, and Harman C. Oglesby, 23, Los Angeles, collided at Nineteenth and Broadway. Miss Martha Heemstra, 20, R. D. #1, Buena Park, was taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital for first aid treatment while Marvin Waltin, 24, R. D. 4, Anaheim, and Oglesby, were slightly hurt.

Miss Ann Browning, 19, Los Angeles, was the most seriously hurt when a car driven by Mrs. Ruth E. Edmondson, 30, 1112 South Vancouver street, Los Angeles, skidded from the road in Trabuco canyon eight miles east of El Toro and struck two trees. She received lacerations about the head, face and arms and was given treatment at the Orange County hospital. Others hurt were Ken Bush, 20 and Bill Hoeft, 19, both of Los Angeles.

Don Winkler, 1658 East Fourth street, received cuts about the knees when his bicycle struck a truck driven by F. C. Watkins, 712 West Fourth street, at McClay and East Fourth streets Saturday evening. The cyclist was given treatment by a physician and taken home.

Mrs. Pansy Gardner, 39, R. D. 2, Box 101, Orange, was slightly hurt Saturday at 7 p. m., when a car driven by Mrs. Ree Gardner, of the some address crashed into an electric light pole at Bristol street and Memory lane. Two large transformers were knocked from the pole and fell on the car. The northwestern part of the city was thrown into darkness for nearly an hour before service could be renewed.

No one was hurt but Jack Meadow, 27, 561 North Olive street, was booked for drunk driving as the result of a wreck at Chapman and Center streets Sunday noon. Cars driven by Meadows and Paul Muench collided and Meadows was held by officers, as was Richard Henson, 46, riding with him, who was charged with drunkenness. Meadows was fined $150 in police court this morning and paid $50 to Judge A. W. Swayze.

Ponzi Near World Cue Championship

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia held a commanding lead today in the world's pocket billiards championship tournament over his closest rival, Erwin Rudolph, of Cleveland.

Rudolph's defeat at the hands of Pasquale Natalie of Chicago left him with a record of five victories as against two defeats and with but an outside chance to overtake Ponzi, who had won six while losing one game.

ORANGE COUNTY HARBOR FUTURE UP TO PEOPLE

county and stimulate business activity over a wide radius, will spur thinking voters to register an overwhelming majority for the harbor program, it was pointed out.

An overwhelming victory will impel officials at Washington to speed up the appropriations, and enable the development work to be undertaken as soon as legally possible, it was declared.

A full opportunity has been afforded all voters to become informed of all details of the harbor plan, it was pointed out, with the Harbor Association office open every day for the past month with facts, figures and literature available to everyone.

Endorsements

As showing the overwhelming endorsement given the harbor project, is the following partial list of official endorsements given it in recent weeks: Central Labor Council, Unemployed Association Builders Exchange, County Council American Legion, United Spanish War Veterans, Truck Owners Association, Santa Ana Business Men's Asociation, all newspapers board of supervisors, General Contractors Association, many service, religious and civic associations, besides practically all the chambers of commerce throughout the county.

In addition, the bonds for the harbor project are being supported by practically all of the persons throughout the county who in the past have been most active in opposition to bond issues.

Inland ranchers and taxpayers generally have been impressed with the possibilities of the harbor as a means of building up new tax values along the coast in order to relieve the burden borne by inland taxpayers, one of the many telling arguments presented why the harbor should be endorsed. As the proportion of coast taxes increases because of new wealth and population, naturally the proportion borne by taxpayers of Orange, Anaheim, Fullerton, Santa Ana and other interior communities will be lowered, it was pointed out.

While pointing to the immediate returns of new jobs, federal recognition, new wealth, and increased yachting activities to build up the coast's tax values, harbor supporters have not overlooked the great commercial and industrial possibilities of the harbor in the future, with its benefits of payrolls, terminal rates, cheap transportation costs, etc., in addition to naval and coast guard use as may be needed.

INTERVENTION UP BEFORE CONCLAVE

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The delicate question of intervention by one nation in the affairs of another, in which the United States is vitally interested, was temporarily sidetracked at the seventh Pan-American conference today.

Discusssion of the international law committee of a resolution denouncing intervention was postponed until tomorrow after a conference between the United States and the A B C powers—Argentina, Brazil and Chile.

Time was thus gained for expected modification of the resolution before it is approved by the committee.

NEW DRIVE STARTED ON CHICAGO GANGS

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The remnant of gangs which sprang into power during the prohibition era were placed "on the spot" today in a new combined state and federal campaign announced by state's attorney Thomas Courtney.

While the drive will be national in its scope it will be centered in Chicago, Courtney said.

Miss Moodie said she had not seen Siever for two months before his death.

New contributions were reported by police in the array of love letters found among the victim's personal effects. Like the others, the letters disclosed additional feminine conquests the dapper dentist counted among his amours.

Despite the mass of correspondence, police failed to find a single author whom they felt harbored a spirit of revenge against the inconstant lover. In consequence they still entertained another theory that some maddened husband dealt death in reprisal.

Police definitely abandoned a robbery theory by declared only one pocket of the victim had been rifled. His wallet and wrist watch were missing but police believed they were stolen to cover up the real motive.

Investigators hoped to unearth some clue in a safety deposit box Siever rented at a local bank when they opened it today to examine his personal papers.

COUNTY SCHOOL TRUSTEES URGE BAN ON TENURE

Unanimously recommending that a movement under way to repeal the state teacher tenure law by initiative petition be endorsed, the Orange County School Trustees association met Saturday afternoon in the auditorium of the Willard Junior high school.

The matter was brought to the attention of the association by W. M. Burke, Santa Ana trustee, who will carry the recommendation to a meeting of the state association of trustees in Fresno Saturday.

Burke described the progress of negotiations of the state association with the California Teachers' association in regard to the tenure law, telling how a plan submitted to the teachers' organization had not been accepted.

The petition being circulated seeks repeal of the present tenure law so that boards of trustees would be able to dismiss teachers by unanimous vote of the board or by a majority of the board with the school superintendent concurring.

Matters of insurance, with special regard to fires and earthquakes, were discussed at the meeting.

Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, spoke at the session, telling of the deplorable condition which exists in many places in the United States where schools have been forced to close because of the lack of funds. He said he was afraid this might happen in California unless something is done to improve the situation.

The highest and lowese points in the United States are in the same county. Inyo county, Cal., they are Mount Whitney, 14,501 feet above sea level, and Death Valley, 276 feet below sea level.

3 BURGLARIES REPORTED HERE OVER WEEKEND

Jewelry, groceries, tobacco and dishes were taken in three Santa Ana burglaries over the week nd.

Police believe that th same person may have robbed the home of Mrs. J. Bowen, 843 North Main street and George Wright, 706 West Sixth street, because both homes were entered Saturday evening after the thief had gained entrance by using a pass key to unlock a rear door. In the Wright residence, the house was ransacked, with an amethyst valued at $25 and a set of Haviland china and salt and pepper shakers being taken. Nothing was found missing except in the bedroom and dining room.

From the condition of the house, police think that the thief in the Bowen home may have been frightened away before completing his work. Only the kitchen and dining room were searched with the missing articles including a pie, one pound of butter, one loaf of bread, one carton of sigarettes, 10 ascks of tobacco, and one deck of playing cards.

Nothing was reported missing from the office of Dr. J. J. Jacobs, at Fourth and Main streets, although the office was ransacked sometime yesterday. A glass panel was broken in the door so that the thier could reach in and unlock it. All the desks and drawers were searched for gold and money.

ARRANGE FUNERAL FOR BLAST VICTIM

Funeral services for Charles W. Gates, 69, 279 Redondo avenue, Long Beach, who died Saturday from burns received Thursday when his clothing caught fire in a freak accident, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Baptist church, Third and Obispo streets, in Long Beach, under the direction of the Harrell and Brown Funeral home, Santa Ana.

Gates was burned in White Horse canyon when he lit his pipe after getting his clothing saturated with gasoline while repairing his automobile. With burns over his entire body, he was found by motorists and taken to the Orange county hospital.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Martha Gates; four sons, Harold Gates and Wilbur Gates, Santa Ana; Ernest Gates, Medford, Ore., and Edgar Gates, Reading, Pa.; one daughter, Mrs. Katherine Miller, Lincoln, Neb.; two sisters, Mrs. Lydia Dirks, Medford, Ore., and Mrs. Dell Russ, Burdett, Kans.; three brothers, Clyde Gates, Tustin; Perry Gates, Santa Ana, and Loyal Gates, Long Beach.

HERE'S A CHANCE FOR YOU TO MAKE SOME CHILD HAPPY ON CHRISTMAS; WILL YOU DO IT?

Wistful eyes of boys and girls who may feel some doubt as to whether Santa Claus will remember where they live this year, in spite of large, sprawling words of appeal addressed to the Old Saint, may be bright with happiness on Christmas morning if an opportunity The Register and Broadway theater are giving more fortunate boys and girls to help this year is taken advantage of.

The opportunity really costs nothing. All that is necessary to do is to go to a swell show arranged for youngstere especially by Manager Les Fountain of the Broadway theater. That's easy, isn't it?

And the price of admission is to be easy, too; just a toy to help fill what might be an empty stocking Christmas morning, some food to make Christmas really Christmas or some clothing to keep out the cold and rain.

It is hoped that truckloads of candy, food, toys and clothing will be piled high in the lobby of the theater next Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock when the big two-hour show opens. Arrangements h ve been made for turning the articles donated for Christmas over to a charitable institution which will aid Santa Claus in distributing the t ings which are given for admission to the show.

Perhaps some youngster you know will be unable to go to the show because he won't have something extra to give as his admission ticket. Why not do a double good turn and see that some unfortunate youngster is able to see this big show by providing him with something to take?

YOUTH GROUP TO MEET WEDNESDAY

Plans for Chester Williams to speak to the Orange County American Youth group were completed yesterday afternoon by the executive committee which met in the Santa Ana Methodist church. All persons interested in the organization are invited to attend.

Williams will talk to the group Wednesday, December 20, at 7:30 p. m. at the Santa Ana Methodist church, Spurgeon and Sixth streets, on "Peace." Carl Yost, Brea, is to be chairman of the meeting. Edwin Osher, Anaheim, will sing a solo.

Permanent officers were elected yesterday. Charles Warmer, Santa Ana, was elected president; Yost, Brea, vice president; Rev. Donald Gaylord, Brea, councillor; and Dorothy Copeland, Fullerton, secretary treasurer.

ADDS OFFICER

Earl Shaffer has been appointed a special police officer on the Orange police department by Chief B. F. Richards to serve during the Christmas holidays.

HICKS TO FACE COURT AGAIN ON JANUARY 18

Already serving one year in jail as part of his 10-year probation following conviction on a charge of having committed a statutory offense against a young girl, W. L. Hicks, Santa Ana grocer, will returned to supieror court January 18 to face trial on a similar charge. The new trial date was set this morning by Presiding Judge G. K. Scovel.

Hicks was convicted on one count of a five-count information accusing him of offenses against girls ranging in ages from seven to 14 years. At his trial the jury exonerated him on two counts, found him guilty on one and disagreed on another. The fifth count was dismissed on motion of the district attorney. The trial scheduled for January 18 is a rehearing on the count over which the jury disagreed.

When the case was set for trial today, Defense Attorney Thomas McFadden moved for a special venire of jurors. This move was opposed by Deputy District Attorney James L. Davis, in charge of the prosecution. The court declined to issue an order on the motion ordering the minutes to show that such a request had been made.

Setting of the new trial date followed the granting of probation to Hicks last Friday by Superior Judge Edward Henderson, of Ventura county, who has been sitting in superior court here for the past 30 days.

ENTER KERRY PATCH IN CALIENTE RACE

APPROVAL ON CWA PROJECTS TO BE LISTED

All municipalities in Orange county that have submitted projects for approval of the Civil Works Administration committee will know which projects have been approved by tomorrow, according to announcement today. Lists of the approved projects will be mailed to the various cities and other groups late today, it is planned.

In a letter addressed to all communities and mailed Saturday, notice was given that this approval would be announced by Tuesday and that on Wednesday a meeting of all interested parties would be called to complete plans of operation.

The letter said that the rural districts of Orange county also have a quota assigned to Civil Works Administration work. These men are at present being worked on county projects already submitted. Men from cities that did not file projects also are being employed on the county projects.

In a report sent out with the letter to all communities it was declared that a total of 160 projects have been submitted to the local committee for approval and forwarding to San Francisco for final endorsement. These projects would employ a total of 6154 workers involving expenditure of $849,942.65 in federal funds for labor and $196,907.92 for material.

The 13 municipalities of the county submitted 73 projects that would provide employment for 1833 men at a total payment of $258,696.45 for labor and $105,420.72 for material. There were 26 school district projects to employ 594 men at a total federal wage of $68,505.30 plus $23,145.70 for material. General county projects totalled 61 and would, if approved, provide employment for 3727 men, expenditure of $522,740.90 for labor and $68,341.50 for material.

BERLIN TO BE DISCUSSED AT ROMAN FORUM

"Meditations on Berlin" will be the lecture subject of Dr. Frederick W. Roman in his weekly forum at the Temple Theater, Third and Bush streets, Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. The first hour will be devoted to current event's discussion.

Dr. Roman has been a visitor many times to Germany and its capital city both before the world war, during the German Republic and since the inauguration of the Nazi government. He was also a student in Germany for many years during his collegiate and professional work. He has studied at first hand the background and "kultur" of the German people.

"I have seen the daily parade of Germanic life 'Unter den Linden' and the Berlin boulevards and I have observed the wider march of events under monarchy, republic and dictatorship. I have observed the eternal conflict between the peace loving peasantry and middle class and militaristic spirit which dominated in the world war and now once again under Herr Hitler," says Dr. Roman.

The lecture and the current events forum is free and the public are cordially invited according to the committee headed by B. E. Tarver that are sponsoring Dr. Roman's series of lectures.

BOND CAMPAIGN WORKER LOOKS FOR VICTORY

Predicting the harbor bonds would carry by a large majority, A. B. Rousselle, chairman of the Orange County Harbor association, in a pre-election statement today urged every voter and friend of progress and development to cast his ballot tomorrow.

"Success of this worth-while project will be due entirely to the splendid work and cooperation of the hundreds of loyal workers and citizens who gave their time freely to secure federal aid and relieve unemployment," he said. He also voiced his appreciation of the support extended by the press.

Continuing, the harbor association chairman said:

"The county's registered vote is about 55,000. In many elections an average vote of 40 per cent is cast. I sincerely hope every citizen will go to the polls tomorrow and display an interest in his county's probleme.

"If a 75 per cent vote is recorded and a majority given the harbor project, it will show the United States government that we are united for a harbor and entitled to federal funds."

VOTE 'YES' ON THE CENTRAL VALLEY WATER ACT

It is a self-liquidating program financed entirely in northern and central California, and IS NOT a general bond obligation of the state (Atty. General U. S. Webb's opinion).

Only 26 of the 120 members of the legislature opposed this ENABLING ACT.

The development of a substantial block of power and fear of lower rates had brought on the referendum by selfish interests in the north.

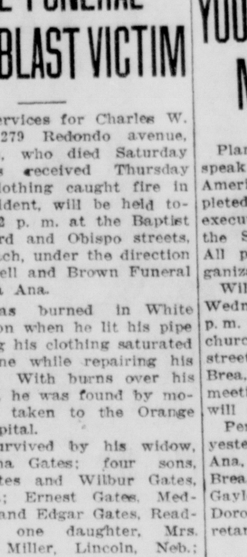

The farmers of Tulare county who are paving for this small ad urge you not to fall for the misleading statements of the opposition.

In a report sent out with the letter to all communities it was declared that a total of 160 projects have been submitted to the local committee for approval and forwarding to San Francisco for final endorsement. These projects would employ a total of 6154 workers involving expenditure of $849,942.65 in federal funds for labor and $196,-907.92 for material.

The 13 municipalities of the county submitted 73 projects that would provide employment for 1833 men at a total payment of $258,696.45 for labor and $105,420.72 for material. There were 26 school district projects to employ 594 men at a total federal wage of $68,505.30 plus $23,145.70 for material. General county projects totalled 61 and would, if approved, provide employment for 3727 men, expenditure of $522,740.90 for labor and $68,-341.50 for material.

BERLIN TO BE DISCUSSED AT ROMAN FORUM

"Meditations on Berlin" will be the lecture subject of Dr. Frederick W. Roman in his weekly forum at the Temple Theater, Third and Bush streets, Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. The first hour will be devoted to current event's discussion.

Dr. Roman has been a visitor many times to Germany and its capital city both before the world war, during the German Republic and since the inauguration of the Nazi government. He was also a student in Germany for many years during his collegiate and professional work. He has studied at first hand the background and "kultur" of the German people.

"I have seen the daily parade of Germanic life 'Unter den Linden' and the Berlin boulevards and I have observed the wider march of events under monarchy, republic and dictatorship. I have observed the eternal conflict between the peace loving peasantry and middle class and militaristic spirit which dominated in the world war and now once again under Herr Hitler," says Dr. Roman.

The lecture and the current events forum is free and the public are cordially invited according to the committee headed by R. E. Tarver that are sponsoring Dr. Roman's series of lectures.

BOND CAMPAIGN WORKER LOOKS FOR VICTORY

Predicting the harbor bonds would carry by a large majority, A. B. Rousselle, chairman of the Orange County Harbor association, in a pre-election statement today urged every voter and friend of progress and development to cast his ballot tomorrow.

"Success of this worth-while project will be due entirely to the splendid work and cooperation of the hundreds of loyal workers and citizens who gave their time freely to secure federal aid and relieve unemployment," he said. He also voiced his appreciation of the support extended by the press.

Continuing, the harbor association chairman said:

"The county's registered vote is about 55,000. In many elections an average vote of 40 per cent is cast. I sincerely hope every citizen will go to the polls tomorrow and display an interest in his county's problems.

"If a 75 per cent vote is recorded and a majority given the harbor project, it will show the United States government that we are united for a harbor and entitled to federal funds."

VOTE 'YES' ON THE CENTRAL VALLEY WATER ACT

It is a self-liquidating program financed entirely in northern and central California, and IS NOT a general bond obligation of the state (Atty. General U. S. Webb's opinion).

Only 26 of the 120 members of the legislature opposed this ENABLING ACT.

COUNTY HEALTH OFFICIAL DIES AT SAWTELLE

Death claimed John B. Bichan, 45, milk inspector of the Orange county health department, when he passed away yesterday at the Sawtelle Veteran's hospital. He had been on a leave of absence from his duties for more than a year, when illness forced him to retire from his activities.

He was born on the Farm of Pool, Parrish of Deerness, Orkney Islands, Scotland, and came to Portland in 1909 where he was associated with the dairy industry. In 1917 he enlisted in the Second Depot Battalion in Canada and was discharged in October, 1918. He was associated with the dairy industry in Southern Oregon at Medford for three years and in 1924 became inspector for Orange county dairies.

In September, 1924, he married Edna Steiner of Medford, Oregon. He was a member and elder of the First Presbyterian church and a member of the Silver Cord lodge F. and A. M., Santa Ana.

He is survived by his widow, his father, William Bichan, sr., six brothers and four sisters, James Bichan and Mrs. Agness Aitken of Scotland, Mrs. George McLachlin, Jean Bichan, William Bichan jr., Thos. D. Bichan, all of Detroit, David B. Bichan, Portland, G. F. S. Bichan of Salt Lake City, A. W. Bichan of Otago, New Zealand, and Mrs. Thos. Harrold, of South Otago, New Zealand.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m. from the chapel of the Smith and Tuthill Funeral home, Sixth and Broadway, with the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, minister of the First Presbyterian church, officiating.

Interment will be made in Fairhaven cemetery.

Money in Bank a Christmas Gift

THE annual question before the house—"What Gifts for the Boys and Girls?"

No gift proves more satisfactory than a bank deposit—the start of a Savings Account.

From long experience we know that many accounts started by gift prove an incentive for thrift. The money is not drawn out and spent, but remains and is added to from year to year.

Nobody was ever disappointed because a gift was money in bank.

Arguments on a motion for a new trial for Jose Sanchez, convicted murderer and pronouncement of judgment were continued this morning by Superior Judge James L. Allen, until Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The continuance was granted at the request of M. L. Spicer, attorney for Sanchez.

Sanchez was convicted of the 16-year-old murder of Loren Eckles at a dance hall in El Toro. This morning in moving for a new trial Spicer said that new evidence has been uncovered since the trial which he believes to be of importance to Sanchez. He asked that arguments on the motion be continued for 20 days in order that he might secure supporting affidavits from newly discovered witnesses who do not live in Orange county. The witnesses, he said, are living in Mexicali, B. J., El Centro and Brawley, California.

The 20-day delay was opposed by District Attorney S. B. Kaufman who, with Deputy District Attorney Leo B. Friis had charge of the prosecution on the grounds that a delay of a period longer than 10 days in hearing arguments on the motion and pronouncing judgment might cause the court to lose jurisdiction. Judge Allen ruled that four days was ample time in which to secure supporting affidavits in connection with the alleged new evidence.

ABLUTION BOWL OF FRA SERRA FOUND

CARMEL, Calif., Dec. 18.—(UP)—The ablution bowl used by Fra. Junipero Serra in the early days of Carmel Mission was uncovered during excavation work amid the historic ruins, it was revealed today.

The masonry bowl, in an excellent state of preservation, was found between what had been the kitchens and dining rooms of the padres who with Serra worked among the Indians in California's early days.

The public will be permitted to see the relic and other historical finds during the annual Christmas pilgrimage to Fra. Serra's tomb.

INSTITUTE REPORTS ON GOLD POLICIES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The Institute of Economics of the Brookings Institution, endowed research organization, said in a report released today that the administration's gold purchase policy could not be relied upon to achieve its objective of restoring prices, and that it might retard national economic recovery.

"No definite predictable rise in the commodity price level can be assumed to follow a given depreciation of the currency," the report said. Hence, it was contended, the result of the gold program is monetary uncertainty and this results in "demoralization and progressive contraction of international trade, impediments to the flotation of capital issues, and possible deterioration of government credit encouraging inflationary pressure."

S. A. STORES OPEN DAILY TILL 9 P. M.

All Santa Ana business houses in the downtown district will adopt the uniform night closing hour of 9 p. m. effective tonight and continuing through Saturday night, it was announced today from the offices of the Santa Ana Merchants' association.

The late closing hour was adopted for the convenience of Christmas shoppers and to help relieve congestion in the stores it was announced.

100 PERSONS HURT IN CHICAGO PARADE

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Ten men and one woman were held today as a result of a massed attack by communist sympathizers on a parade of 3000 Ukrainians, marching as a protest against Soviet Russian "atrocities."

More than 100 persons were injured when bricks, clubs, eggs and other missiles were rained on the marchers from an elevated railway station. Brass knuckles blackjacks, fists and rifle-butts were used in the battle which ended soon after arrival of six squads of police.

POWER OFF AS POLE WRECKED BY AUTO CRASH

Lights and power in the entire northwestern part of Santa Ana were abruptly cut off Saturday night when a car reported to have been driven by Mrs. Ree Gardner, R. D. 2, Orange, crashed into a light pole, breaking it in two and shorting out the circuit which served the territory.

The power was off for nearly an hour when the accident caused power lines of 11,000 and 4000 volts to short as the wires fell to the ground with a blinding flash. The circuits were from the Katella and Washington substations.

According to reports of the spectacular accident, the car said to have been driven by Mrs. Gardner skidded for about 375 feet on one side of the road before it crashed into the light pole on Memory Lane, which runs into North Flower street just this side of the river.

Mrs. Gardner and Pansy Gardner, a passenger, escaped serious injury in the accident, although two heavy transformers on top of the pole fell on the car.

Light service was out from 7 until nearly 8 p. m. when Edison company repair crews straightened out the tangle of wires and repaired the damage.

WELCOME STUDENTS AT VESPER SERVICE

Vesper services of the First Baptist church last evening were devoted to welcoming home college students who are returning for the Christmas vacation. Aside from a brief word of welcome from the Rev. Harry Evan Owings the entire service was devoted to musical numbers and the presentation of a one-act play by Miss Mabel Pruitt.

The Young People's chorus of the church sang "Gounod's "Nazareth" and Miss Naomi Sands sung "The Birthday of a King" by Neidlinger in addition to a group of vocal numbers by the College Girls Octette, before presentation of the playlet.

Following the dramatic presentation Lawrence Patterson sang "On Life's Highway" and was followed by the Cloverleaf Quartet singing a special arrangement of "Silent Night" and "The Living God." Members of the quartet are: Marc Hare, Rutherford Williams, Clark Brown and William Fox. Closing the program the Young People's chorus and an Echo quartet sang "While Shepherds Watched Their Sheep." Members of the quartet were: Mrs. Leslie Steffensen, Mrs. J. P. Williams, Rutherford Williams and R. G. Crouse.

CORONER HOLDS SHOOTING CASE IS ACCIDENTAL

No inquest will be held for Mrs. Mabel McIntyre, 33, 1611 South Van Ness street, pretty matron who shot herself with a revolver Thursday night at her home, it was announced today by Coroner Earl Abbey.

After conferring with Assistant Chief of Police Harry Fink and Deputy Sheriff Earl Nickles, who conducted the investigation into the case, Abbey said that the death of Mrs. McIntyre would be ruled accidental. There was some belief that the woman might have committed suicide but statements from members of her family and of persons attending a small party at her home on the night of the shooting, indicated that she had no apparent reason to commit suicide. It was admitted that liquor was served freely during the evening.

The woman shot herself in the stomach while sitting in the front seat of an auto camp car parked in front of her home. Ray Downs, her nephew, and Mrs. Rena North of Orange, sitting in the back of the car, said she was handling the gun despite the fact that she knew it was loaded. She died seven hours after the shooting at the Santa Ana Valley hospital.

Funeral services were held this morning from the Harrell and Brown funeral home with interment in Pomona cemetery.

NEW CITY HALL

DOES SANTA ANA WANT THIS GIFT FROM THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT THAT WILL PUT MEN TO WORK—HELP BUSINESS IN GENERAL—AND GIVE TO SANTA ANA A MUCH NEEDED MODERN NEW CITY HALL?

TOMORROW—

VOTE "YES"

On Proposition No. 2

Tomorrow (December 19th), when you go to the polls Vote "Yes" on Proposition No. 2. Vote to cooperate with President Roosevelt in reviving business and bring to Santa Ana a new City Hall that will bring credit to the city.

The City of Santa Ana now owns the vacant lot at Third and Main upon which this new hall will be erected. It is paying rent to house the various city departments in inadequate quarters. Vote "Yes" on Proposition No. 2 tomorrow and eliminate this rental expense—place our city departments in efficient quarters—put men to work—and give Santa Ana a building of which every citizen can feel justly proud.

HOW MUCH WILL THE PROPOSED NEW CITY HALL COST?

The proposed structure, which is the very latest in modern architectural design, will cost not to exceed $100,000. Of this amount $30,000 will come direct from the Federal Government—an outright gift to encourage Santa Ana to build now! The balance of $70,000 will be secured by the sale of Santa Ana city bonds to the United States Public Works Board. The Government has set aside Three Billion Three Hundred Million Dollars to relieve unemployment through public works, which we must help to pay whether we use any of this money or not. Why not get a portion of this money . . . help relieve our local unemployment . . . by going forward and voting for these bonds on December 19th, so that work may start on this new building at once.

IF THE BONDS ARE APPROVED WHAT WILL IT COST IN TAXES?

On the present valuation, and with the cost spread over the entire city the cost will be exceedingly small. The cost over the life of the bonds will average only 3½c per $100 on assessed valuation. Therefore property assessed at $1000 would pay but 35c per year to give this convenience and much needed improvement to Santa Ana.

CAN THE BONDS BE SOLD? WHO WILL BUY THEM?

The United States Public Works Board will take the city bonds at par, and advance the money immediately, so there will be no delay in starting to build—putting unemployed men to work and benefiting the local economic conditions at once. The bonds will bear interest at only 4% per annum.

WHY BUILD NOW?

When Santa Ana votes for these bonds on December 19th they will be cooperating with the Administration in the Roosevelt Recovery movement. They will also be securing aid of the United States Government which could not be secured except on account of present conditions and desire on the part of our President to encourage public building as a method of relieving unemployment and aiding business. Also with present low cost of construction the city would be securing a fine building that would be impossible to build at any other time for the proposed amount.

Hundreds of voters are daily seeing the wisdom of accepting the $30,000.00 gift from the United States Government and going forward with this new building now.

Already 2800 voters have petitioned the City Council requesting the new hall be built at Third and Main.

Tomorrow, follow the crowd of progressive citizens, vote for the New City Hall—vote "Yes" on Proposition No. 2.

A Gift to Santa Ana from Uncle Sam!

NEW CITY HALL

DOES SANTA ANA WANT THIS GIFT FROM THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT THAT WILL PUT MEN TO WORK—HELP BUSINESS IN GENERAL—AND GIVE TO SANTA ANA A MUCH NEEDED MODERN NEW CITY HALL?

TOMORROW—

VOTE "YES"

On Proposition No. 2

Tomorrow (December 19th), when you go to the polls Vote "Yes" on Proposition No. 2. Vote to cooperate with President Roosevelt in reviving business and bring to Santa Ana a new City Hall that will bring credit to the city.

The City of Santa Ana now owns the vacant lot at Third and Main upon which this new hall will be erected. It is paying rent to house the various city departments in inadequate quarters. Vote "Yes" on Proposition No. 2 tomorrow and eliminate this rental expense—place our city departments in efficient quarters—put men to work—and give Santa Ana a building of which every citizen can feel justly proud.

HOW MUCH WILL THE PROPOSED NEW CITY HALL COST?

The proposed structure, which is the very latest in modern architectural design, will cost not to exceed $100,000. Of this amount $30,000 will come direct from the Federal Government—an outright gift to encourage Santa Ana to build now! The balance of $70,000 will be secured by the sale of Santa Ana city bonds to the United States Public Works Board. The Government has set aside Three Billion Three Hundred Million Dollars to relieve unemployment through public works, which we must help to pay whether we use any of this money or not. Why not get a portion of this money . . . help relieve our local unemployment . . . by going forward and voting for these bonds on December 19th, so that work may start on this new building at once.

IF THE BONDS ARE APPROVED WHAT WILL IT COST IN TAXES?

On the present valuation, and with the cost spread over the entire city the cost will be exceedingly small. The cost over the life of the bonds will average only 3½c per $100 on assessed valuation. Therefore property assessed at $1000 would pay but 35c per year to give this convenience and much needed improvement to Santa Ana.

CAN THE BONDS BE SOLD? WHO WILL BUY THEM?

The United States Public Works Board will take the city bonds at par, and advance the money immediately, so there will be no delay in starting to build—putting unemployed men to work and benefiting the local economic conditions at once. The bonds will bear interest at only 4% per annum.

WHY BUILD NOW?

When Santa Ana votes for these bonds on December 19th they will be cooperating with the Administration in the Roosevelt Recovery movement. They will also be securing aid of the United States Government which could not be secured except on account of present conditions and desire on the part of our President to encourage public building as a method of relieving unemployment and aiding business. Also with present low cost of construction the city would be securing a fine building that would be impossible to build at any other time for the proposed amount.

Hundreds of voters are daily seeing the wisdom of accepting the $30,000.00 gift from the United States Government and going forward with this new building now.

Already 2800 voters have petitioned the City Council requesting the new hall be built at Third and Main.

JOBLESS GROUP HANDLES 200 TONS OF FOOD

Nearly 200,000 pounds, or to be exact, 196,831 pounds, of various kinds of foodstuffs, were brought into the warehouse of the Co-operative Distributing Committee of Orange county, formerly occupied by the Globe Mills, located on East Fourth street, during the month of November, according to a report prepared by L. E. McGraw, warehouseman, and submitted at the last regular weekly meeting of the committee. Out of the total amount of foodstuffs collected, 174,392 pounds were distributed to about 1500 members throughout the county, it was revealed.

Foodstuffs thus collected and distributed included apples, beets, carrots, cabbage, cauliflower, peppers, lemons, oranges, onions, fish, potatoes, salt, tomatoes, walnuts and other kinds. A considerable portion of the foodstuffs collected for the distribution to families of unemployed men and women was donated by packing houses, individual farmers and private parties. Likewise, a portion of the vegetables collected and distributed, was grown by the local co-operative units in their own gardens. Most of the food, however, was secured under a system of barter whereby the members of the cooperative units give two days of work each in exchange for foodstuffs.

It also was revealed at the meeting, presided over by Frank M. Bungan, vice chairman, that a request has been submitted to the civil works administration for the use of a three-ton truck as well as a small money allowance for incidental expenses, including light, heating and phone service.

Be sure and vote tomorrow, and vote for Newport Harbor!

RAILWAY TO SERVE CHRISTMAS DINNER

Travelers who will be on the road on Christmas day will be able to enjoy the holiday atmosphere on Southern Pacific trains, according to E. B. Sharpley, Santa Ana representative of the railroad.

Hundreds of pounds of turkey, fruits, nuts and other supplies to assure a real Christmas dinner have been arranged for by C. R. Walsh, in charge of the company's dining car service in the territory, it was stated.

The commissary kitchens in Los Angeles are among the busiest anywhere in Southern California, with chefs preparing for the many mince pies, plum puddings, fruit cakes and other delicacies so necessary to complete the holiday feast.

"Our dining cars in this section will require about 2000 pounds of turkey, with proportionate amounts of other choice California products," it was stated by Sharpley. "Holly wreaths and other seasonal decorations will be used to add to the Christmas atmosphere."

PROPOSED MUNITIONS PROBE EXPECTED TO BE SENSATIONAL IF UNDERTAKEN BY CONGRESS

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Register Wahington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The season's most sensational Senate investigation—if it comes off—will probe the secretts of the munitions industry.

The peace lobby is quietly working for it. Many in the administration's liberal group that you've been hearing so much about just would adore it.

Roosevelt is a big navy man, but he also remembers that the munitions lobby licked his arms embargo bill—the one piece of legislation he asked for last spring and didn't get. (Hoover wanted it, too, though his secretary of war, Hurley, and Chief of Staff MacArthur lobbied against it.)

The investigation would delve into: Stock ownership among public officials and guiders of public opinion. Financial support of militaristic organizations. Lobbying. Any efforts that may have been made to defeat the Geneva arms conference similar to those in 1927. Contributions to political parties. Volume of sales to Japan, China, and South America. Profits.

The State Department would like to know more about the industry. Sometimes it receives reports of salesmen abroad believed to be stirring up wars.

Recently it was discovered that Sir John Simon, representing the British at the disarmament conference, owned 1000 shares of Vickers stock. Peace societies would anticipate interesting personal disclosures over here. There's dynamite in their effort.

Kids Prefer "Sistie"

Little Sistie Dall, grandchild of Mrs. Roosevelt, is just "Eleanor" at the private school she attends. The other kids don't like the nickname. They like Sistie, though, and sometimes present their parents with a social etiquet problem by demanding that she be invited to their parties.

Shriking Dollar Hurts

A chorus of groans goes up around the world every time the administration succeeds in driving the dollar down another half cent. It comes from foreign service officers, paid in American dollars.

Dollars were the reason Francis White resigned as minister to Czechosolovakia after 18 years in the service. He found his $10,000 salary cut almost in half.

The dollar abroad is off nearly 40 per cent and salaries also are reduced 15 per cent by the general federal pay cut. Congress may do something about it, rather than lose other foreign service men.

Escape AAA Ogre

Rejoicing was rife in the food industries when most of their codes were transferred from AAA to NRA during the Wallace-Peek row. The retail and wholesale food and grocery codes were rushed through NRA in 48 hours, with features objectionable to the industries removed.

Questions at the AAA hearings had been considered in poor taste. For instance:

"Do you believe a consumer has a right to know what he buys?" Leroy Peterson of the Consumers' Counsel staff asked a General Foods official.

"I know what you're trying to get me to say," was the reply. "And if I'm smart enough, I won't say it for the record."

Rush Will Be Terrific

You can't guess any more how long a session of Congress will last, so Congressional Record subscribers will be charged $1.50 a month instead of $8 for the long session and $4 for the short.

Short sessions, of which there won't be any more, ran three months. Long sessions averaged a little more than six.

URGE STERILIZATION TO CHECK INCREASE IN MENTAL PATIENTS

PASADENA, Dec. 18.—Each year 1200 new beds must be provided in the California mental hospitals, to take care of the increase of patients provided by the courts. Aldeady these hospitals are accommodating 4000 more patients than they were built for.

These figures are stressed by the Human Betterment Foundation of Pasadena, which points to the growing burden on the tax payer.

Unless more vigorous efforts are made to prevent mental disease and mental deficiency in this and future generations, the foundation declares, the cost will soon become intolerable. It urges a wider use of eugenic sterilization, which has been applied successfully under the laws of the state for the past 24 years.

The first symptoms of the dreaded "sleeping sickness" are aching limbs and failing sight.

GOODRICH MAKING GOLDEN PLY TREAD

"An industry of major importance to Southern California is tire manufacturing in the Los Angeles district," states J. E. Wacksmuth, Los Angeles district manager of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company, according to word received here today by Orval Lyon, manager of Goodrich-Silvertown, Inc., First and Broadway.

"With expenditures in pay rolls and disbursements for materials and supplies amounting to many millions of dollars annually, the tire industry plays a vital part in the economic welfare of this section. To realize what this industry means it is necessary only to make a tour through the great Goodrich plant and see hundreds of skilled workers employed in the various processes of tire manufacture."

Lyon pointed out that one of the most fascinating exhibits at the Goodrich factory is that portion of the process where the new Golden Ply is built into Goodrich tires. Goodrich dealers in Santa Ana as elsewhere, are now showing special displays of the new tread.

Let Uncle Sam spend his $1,200,000 on a good enterprise. Vote for Newport Harbor tomorrow!

Editor, Register:

I sincerely hope every voter and property owner in Orange county will go to the polls Tuesday and vote for the harbor bonds. What benefits one part of Orange county cannot help but benefit the entire county. There must be money spent and jobs created to help thrcugh a hard winter. Here is a permanent project that will provide many jobs.

The harbor improvements give to Orange county a portion of the government funds to be expended on a worthy project. We will have to pay those funds back whether they are spent in our own county or in the Maine woods, or on the Florida coast. The community that forges ahead is the one where the people can see an opportunity that is of advantage, and will co-operate to seize such an opportunity.

The magnificent harbor at Galveston, Texas, was built, step by step, over many years. Later the government built a great seawall to protect its valuable harbor there. Thus was Galveston island saved from being turned back to the seagulls for a nesting place.

Los Angeles harbor was not built by one appropriation, nor will it be fully completed for another hundred years. We have to start some time with Newport harbor. We can get away to a fine start by voting the harbor bonds Tuesday. A defeat of the harbor bonds would deter progressive and intelligent investors from making any further investments anywhere in Orange county. Plead with your neighbor to vote for the harbor bonds.

I shall also vote for the state water bonds.

SCHOOL PUPILS GIVE PROGRAM: PASTOR SPEAKS

ORANGE, Dec. 18.—"Every experience in life is educational and has a bearing upon the spiritual life," declared Dr. James Dunning, pastor of the Methodist church, as he addressed members of the Center Street P.-T. A. Friday afternoon.

Choosing as his subject, "Spiritual Training for Children," Dr. Dunning stated, "It is imperative that the home, church and school unite in one common purpose, that every impact made upon the life of a growing child shall contribute to his spiritual growth.

A Christmas program, presented by the children of the school was given in the main hall of the building which was gaily decorated with a huge fireplace and Christmas tree. James Joe Richardson, three and a half year old pupil of Mrs. Audrey Peterson, president of the P.-T. A., gave two musical readings, "The Toy Maker" and "Naughty Boy." He was accompanied by Mrs. Peterson. Little Miss Joane Peterson delighted with a clever musical reading, "Little Pigs' Nose," which was followed by "Jingle Bells", played and sung by the kindergarten band under the direction of their teacher, Miss Marvel Baker. A pianologue entitled, "The Night After Christmas," was presented by Miss Audrey June Peterson, followed by "Santa Claus Song," sung by the first grade and "Merry Christmas", by the first grade girls' quartet.

A story, "Trimming the Tree", was presented in song by the second grade, while the third grade sang, "It's Christmas Time." A clever Christmas play, "Christmas Customs in Other Lands," was presented by the fourth graders, with a piano solo by Ellen Atherton, "Grand March."

Thelma Faith, acompanied by Betty Edmondson, sang Luther's cradle hymn, "Away in a Manger."

The fifth grade presented the closing number on the program with a play, "Santa Buys a New Suit," the leading role taken by Bill Mayes.

At the close of the afternoon, Santa Claus made a visit, leaving a gift of candy and nuts for each child.

FIRST METHODIST CLASS IN SOCIAL

ORANGE, Dec. 18.—Seventy persons shared the party given by members of the Benedictine class of the First Methodist church Friday evening at the Epworth hall. Christmas carols and games were planned as features of the evening and gifts were distributed from the gaily decorated Christmas tree.

Tables were appointed in a Christmas motif with the traditional red candles and sprays of red berries down the center. Games were in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Stuckey and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Adams. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stuckey and Mr. and Mrs. George Bolm were in charge of the Christmas tree.

The covered dish supper opened the event and at each place was a miniature Santa Claus fashioned from red apples and cotton. Ed Englehart is the president of the class and Mrs. C. L. Loptien is the assistant.

Refreshments were in charge of Mesdames Grover Hamil, Ed Englehart, Charles Runbeck, Edith Scriven, Mina Swenson and Mabel Lee.

CHRISTMAS JOY SOURCE TOLD BY REV. KELLY

Declaring that the secret of the joy and happiness of Christmas lies in the spirit of Christ, whose birth the season commemorates, the Rev. Albert Eakin Kelly, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, spoke last night on the topic "Questing the Christmas Spirit." He said in part:

"I am glad with you that Christmas comes at least once a year. I could wish with you that it might be Christmas the whole year through. That thought intrigues us. It stirs the imagination, doesn't it? Christmas every day of the 365 of the year—what a world ours would be!

"You smile as you think of how sick of Christmas candy and would be before the year's ending. How surfeited with gifts. Or how bankrupt from the purchase of them. But coming close to the heart of things, how wonderful, how splendid, how glorious—it is not inappropriate to say, how heavenly—to have it always Christmas. To be looking up, and laughing and loving and lifting, as Howard Arnold Walter has it in his Christmas poem, every day and all the time. Selfishness and unbrotherliness would be gone. Man's inhumanity to man would cease. The prophecy of the heavenly chorus would be fulfilled.

"Christmas every day of the year—then the Christmas spirit will have to possess the heart of humanity. The charm and the cheer and the beauty and the love and the faith and the hope and the inspiration and the glory of Christmas are but outward expressions of the spirit within. And what, we ask, is the secret of Christmas? Where the source of this stream of life that makes the arid places of life blossom as a rose for at least a few days each year?

"A little girl has given us answer. She was taken sick near the Christmas season and lay ill in a hospital bed. While there she heard for the first time the story of the babe born in Bethlehem to be the Saviour. One day she whispered to her nurse, 'I am having real good times here, such good times. Suppose I'll have to go away from here just as soon as I get better. But I'll take the good times along with me, at least some of them. Did you know about Jesus being born?' 'Yes,' replied the nurse. 'But you must not talk.' 'You did? I thought you looked as if you didn't and I was going to tell you.' 'Why, how did I look?' asked the nurse, forgetting her orders. 'Oh, just kind of glum like most folks. I shouldn't think you would ever look glum if you knew that Jesus was born.'

"The little girl had it. The secret of Christmas is in Him. The secret of the Christmas spirit, the Christmas joy the Christmas love, the Christmas unselfishness, the Christmas charm, is to be found in Him who was born to be our Saviour and our Lord. Without Him Christmas could never have been. Without Him no one can ever know a real Christmas. The stream of Christmas blessings flow from Him. We must never forget that after all at Christmas we celebrate the birth of the Son of God who became the Son of Man that He might put away sin and make us right, through faith on our part, with God.

"To study the beautiful story of the birth of the Saviour is to discover that those shepherds watching their flocks that night in the field beyond the little town of Bethlehem, found the Christ by taking three essential steps. They heard the message of the angel visitor and the heavenly chorus. That was first. Then they gave evidence that they believed the message. That was second. And they acted upon their belief. They went as far as Bethlehem and were not content until they stood beside the manger cradle.

"If we would know Christmas—if we would have the Christmas spirit—we must go with those shepherds. We too must hear the message of Him. We too must believe the message of the Gospel. We too must go even to Bethlehem to find Him ourselves, our Saviour and our Lord."

"HELL" TOPIC FOR LECTURE BY EVANGELIST

"Hell. It It Hot?" was the lecture topic last night for Evangelist B. R. Spear at the Princess theater. Mr. Spear suggested it strange that Hell, as generally taught, was not hot enough to consume a person, but only hot enough to blister and torture him. That the headquarters of fire could not do what a burning building in Santa Ana could do, or that Hell could not do what a crematorium does do, reduce a a body to ashes. The speaker made three propositions, and proceeded to meet them: Namely, the wicked is reserved for destruction. Next, that Hell is yet future, and that when Hell is established it will consume, and annihilate all in it forever. The evangelist said in part:

"Jesus taught that there would be a bodily resurrection of the wicked for the purpose of their damnation or destruction. (John 5:28, 29). Thus the lost would be destroyed after a bodily resurrection. The Master further taught that people would go with their bodies, hands and feet, into hell, not as immaterial spirits. Again it is evident that the resurrection of the body must come first.

"Job said in the twenty-first chapter that they were 'reserved to the day of destruction. They shall be brought forth to the day of wrath.' Both David and Isaiah, in Psalms 37 and Isaiah, Chapter One declare that the wicked will be consumed together, and Peter plainly states, 'The Lord knoweth how to—reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment to be punished'."

Fires In Future

Mr. Spear said that the fires of hell were at least 1000 years in the future. He read from Revelation chapter 20. "When the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison, and shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth—and they went up on the breadth of the earth, and encompassed the camp of the saints about, and the beloved city: and fire came down from God out of

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" This question was the subject of the lesson-sermon yesterday at the Santa Ana First Church of Christ, Scientist, yesterday. The Golden Text was from John: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made."

Among the scriptural selections in the lesson-sermon were these verses from Isaiah: "Arise, shine; for the light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee.... The sun shall be no more thy light by day; neither for brightness shall the moon give light unto thee: but the Lord shall be unto thee an everlasting light, and thy God thy glory."

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "Divine science, the Word of God, saith to the darkness upon the face of error, 'God is All-in-all,' and the light of ever-present Love illumines the universe. Hence the eternal wonder,—that infinite space is peopled with God's ideas, reflecting Him in countless spiritual forms."

STOMACH ailments, skin troubles, even sicknesses that prove fatal are resulting from the cheap, "meat refuse" dog foods flooding this market. That's what veterinarians report, and they say they've never been busier than now.

Don't risk your dog's health, perhaps his very life, with cheap, unbalanced food. Know what you're feeding your dog! Get Balto, the safe food selected by 3 out of 4 pet hospitals and breeders in Southern California.

Balto rounds out your dog's diet as no other single food can. It is made from selected, pure ingredients, including fresh-caught, whole fish. And fish, you know, is the chief ration of the Alaskan Huskies, probably the healthiest dogs in the world.

Take the word of a great university which has tested Balto. Rely on the recommendation of breeders, kennel owners, and leading veterinarians. Get Balto from your grocer. Costs only a cent or so more than the cheap, unsafe foods; isn't your little friend's health worth it?

Cheaper in the long run to prevent disease than to try to cure it. Have your dog examined periodically by a veterinarian. Fees are low.

CHRISTMAS JOY SOURCE TOLD BY REV. KELLY

Declaring that the secret of the joy and happiness of Christmas lies in the spirit of Christ, whose birth the season commemorates, the Rev. Albert Eakin Kelly, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, spoke last night on the topic "Questing the Christmas Spirit." He said in part:

"I am glad with you that Christmas comes at least once a year. I could wish with you that it might be Christmas the whole year through. That thought intrigues us. It stirs the imagination, doesn't it? Christmas every day of the 365 of the year—what a world ours would be!

"You smile as you think of how sick of Christmas candy and would be before the year's ending. How surfeited with gifts. Or how bankrupt from the purchase of them. SAINTS LOSE IN BEACH FINALS

Hooks and Slides

by Bill Braucher

AND NO NICKNAME!

Francis Ouimet has come a long jaunt along the fairways since he turned back the mighty Vardon and Ray at Brookline on a foggy day in 1913. The New England veteran even now is tuning up his game at Miami Beach for another whirl at the championship. A championship he re-won in 1931 after 18 years of trying.

He has been one of the strange perennials of sports. What seems to me stranger than his unusual career is the fact that they never have hung a nickname on Francis. He remains Francis Ouimet. In Ouimet's tender youth you'd think some wag of the sports pages would have had the ingenuity to dub him Frankie. Maybe someone did, but it never stuck.

"OLD FRANK?" OH, NO!

When he came back strong two years ago, at the age of 39, and knocked down a fine field to win the amateur title, it might have been assumed such a nickname as "Old Frank" would be appropriate. Several writers did become intimate to the point of calling him that in their leads, but the next day he was Francis Ouimet again.

As soon as Robert Tyre Jones appeared with a mashie he was christened Bobby and the name clung to him. When baseball writers applied the name of George Herman to Ruth, they were omitting the smart exception to what seemed his natural name, "Babe."

Other athletes named Francis have been called Frank easily. Some that come to mind offhand are Francis Hogan, the catcher; Francis T. Hunter, netman, and Francis X. Shields, also a tenniser. But calling Francis Ouimet Frank is just too hard to do.

It can't be that the man himself is too dignified or priestly, attributes many see in him. It happens that Cornelius McGillicuddy is both dignified and priestly, but the boys have shortened his names to Connie Mack.

It is hard to call to mind any other personages in sport during the last decade who have not been pitched to a nickname. Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis' monicker never has been shortened by the sports scribes, but perhaps that is because a front name like Kenesaw Mountain is too good as it is to suggest abbreviation.

Francis goes on year after year as just Francis. He always will be that. And probably he always will be playing a fine game of golf, too.

GOOD LUCK, JESSE

Jesse Harper has gone back to Kansas. His regime at Notre Dame as director of athletics after the death of Knute Rockne has been deemed a failure. This year the team collapsed in most of its games. A new gridiron administration moves in.

But as Jesse moves out and you look back over his record, it is easily apparent that Jesse was a great football man. In the five years from 1913 to 1918, it was Harper who built the athletic prestige by which the South Bend school came to be known.

SCHEDULED HARD ONES

Intersectional games then were few and far between. Notre Dame was obscure. Harper, by refusing to schedule weak teams and seeking at all times outstanding opposition, established rivalries which have become traditional and intense.

Things moved quickly under Harper. The school played 39 games under his coaching during those five years, and won 33 of these. His basketball and baseball productions were great, too.

A great deal has been said about the Rockne system, the Notre Dame system. It is a fact that the system Notre Dame has been using in all the years since Harper first took charge has been the Harper system.

THE INVENTOR

He invented the offense and defense Notre Dame became known for under Rockne. He coached Rockne into a great end, and then developed him as a coach. Rockne contributed an important change in end play, but the rest of the Notre Dame grid scheme is unchanged, as Harper taught it to Rockne. Rockne constantly sought Harper's aid.

The personality of Rockne attracted good players to Notre Dame and made them into stars who regarded Knute with the affection a son gives a father. But it was Harper football that Rock taught.

Not only was Jesse a great football teacher. He was a great fellow, rugged in his honesty, loyal to friends and to Notre Dame ideals.

So insistent was his demand for sportsmanship that he taught players to give the other fellow the breaks and then to go on and win in the knowledge that fair play had been accorded. He coached men to be gentlemen on the field but to play hard.

Jesse leaves the career of a gentleman as a pattern for those who follow him.

SPEARS MAY GO TO DARTMOUTH: MILLER UNEASY

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Unless there has been a change of mind within five days—and five minutes flat is the indoor record for intercollegiate mind-changing—Clarence ("Fat") Spears, 1933 football coach at Wisconsin, is being seriously considered by Dartmouth to succeed Jackson Cannell, recently dispossessed. This isn't idle surmise. Neither does it profess to be downright definite and official.

All that can be said right now is that, a few days ago, Dartmouth had almost made up its mind but wasn't quite sure about Mr. Spears, making at least two parties who weren't. The other is Mr. Spears. He seldom knows where he is going next. Sometimes, in fact, he just waits till he gets there.

Miller To Be Demoted

By contrast, one naturally feels a certain element of assurance in discussing the Naval academy situation; also the Naval academy's plans for "Rip" Miller by saying that it has practically none. The Navy, as I understand it, not only is going back to its own system of football it already has gone. The new head coach, it is said, will be Lieutenant Hamilton who played in the backfield some years ago, with Miller somewhere in the offing.

In other words, it isn't Mr. Miller who is to be dismissed; only his Notre Dame system.

This, I take it, is already arranged. The Navy, it seems, is tired of losing under civilian coaches and is now starting out to lose for itself. At that, there's a certain amount of comfort in knowing where you're going, provided it isn't down an open elevator shaft.

So far, Dartmouth doesn't seem to know. For one thing, it is only in the last few days that the field of candidates has been narrowed down to a mere population, including Harry Stuhldreher of Villanova, and "Hunk" Anderson, the South Bend refugee. For another, there is natural uncertainty about one so impulsive as Mr. Spears.

Dr. Spears Grid Vagabond

He played at Dartmouth before the war. After the war, he coached at Dartmouth, one of his pupils being the aforementioned Cannell. Then, in order, he went to West Virginia, Minnesota, Oregon and Wisconsin, although there may be a few I've forgotten. Maybe Mr. Spears will remember. Maybe he won't. He never lights long enough to get a haircut.

I'd like to go on and say that, if Mr. Spears goes back to Dartmouth, it will be the return of the prodigal, with the fatted calf and everything. In fact, I can almost guarantee that if he doesn't return with the fatted calf, a terrible mistake has been made and it isn't Mr. Spears at all.

As for Mr. Miller at the Naval academy, I understand that he is to remain in somewhat of an advisory capacity.

And no two ways about it, advice is a great thing. The only trouble is that they always listen very intently to what you have to say and then do something else.

Let Uncle Sam spend his $1,200,000 on a good enterprise. Vote for Newport Harbor tomorrow!

Because a Deer Hunter Failed to Look for Antlers

MUIR TECH OF PASADENA WINS TOURNEY, 40-27

Santa Ana high school's surprising basketball team, unheralded and unsung, began the Christmas holidays today, well satisfied with its seasonal progress and its future prospects after finishing in a runner-up position at the fifth annual Huntington Beach prep tournament Saturday night.

Twenty-four high school quintets started play in this elimination classic, and the Saints reached the titular round before they met defeat by Pasadena's Muir Tech, 40 to 27. Chaffey, former Southern California champion, and Orange were schools that Santa Ana eliminated on its road to the finals.

Muir Tech, paced by a flashy forward named Dorn Lester and an alert guard named Tom McGarvin, proved too good for Coach Reese Greene's Santa Anans in the climax contest, however. The Pasadena cagemen led through, 7-5 at the first quarter, 19-9 at half-time, and 28-16 at the end of the third period. Both teams went on a scoring spree in the last quarter, Tech ringing the hoop for 12 points, Santa Ana for 11.

Santa Ana's triumph over Chaffey in the semi-final bracket was due to superior guarding, Tom Lacy, Myron Newton and "Feet" Weimer forcing the Tigers to resort almost entirely to long range shots.

Chino won the Class B championship by defeating Downey, 32-16, while Stan Gould's San Juan Capistrano Missionaries took the "C" division title with a 39-27 decision over Bill Cole's Tustin Tillers. Capistrano pulled away in the last quarter, making nine points to Tustin's one.

After the tournament, officials and coaches picked all-tournament teams in three classes as follows:

Class A—Kraus and Clipper of Muir Tech, forwards; Meek of Chaffey, center; McGarvin (Muir Tech) and Lacy (Santa Ana), guards.

Class B—Moore (Downey) and Bunting (Chino), forwards; Marshall (Bonita) center; Crystal (Chino) and Malloy (Downey), guards.

Class C was composed of A. Avila (Capistrano) and Francis (Tustin), forwards; Magee (Capistrano), center; Dickey (Hemet) and Stoffel (Capistrano), guards.

The results:

WELTY, NORTON ON CONFERENCE ALL-STAR TEAM

Selected by seven head coaches, the annual first and second all-star football teams for the Eastern Junior College conference this year honor five of Coach Bill Cook's Santa Ana Dons, Southern California champions.

Harold Welty, quarter and fullback, and Miles Norton, tackle, were given first string positions. "Porky" Bell, blocking halfback; Ben Slavin, end; and Ray Nowotny, giant guard, were placed on the second team.

Every season some of the finest players in the association are overlooked by the coaches. Bob Smith, sophomore backfield star of the Chaffey Panthers, was not named on either eleven. Sam Tucker and Loren Lukens, Santa Ana guards, were passed up in favor of the husky Nowotny. Bruce Handy, one of the outstanding defensive centers of the league, was overlooked in favor of Joe Wheeler of Chaffey and Marion Becker of San Bernardino, pivotmen he outplayed during the '33 schedule. Krum, San Bernardino's heavyweight fullback; Paul Perinich, Santa Ana's fast-charging end; McMillan, Chaffey's fine blocking back; Nielson and Garth of Riverside; Ray Hapes, Walt Devine and Wilburn Anderson of Santa Ana are other outstanding players the coaches failed to place.

Most of the overlooked ones, however, are freshmen, and will have a chance to display their wares next year.

FIRST TEAM

End	Redfern, Riverside
End	Zwolsman, Fullerton
Tackle	Norton, Santa Ana
Tackle	Hastings, Riverside
Guard	Ewart, Chaffey
Guard	Ackerman, Citrus

REMEMBER THOSE 3 WHALES?

Army's End Sings In Choir, Teaches Sunday School

BANCROFT TO LEAD CINCINNATI

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Putting the sports shot here and there: One of the most amazing triumvirates in the history of sport was the "Whales" . . . Pat McDonald, Matt McGrath and Pat Ryan . . . All policemen, their combined weight was close to 875 pounds and McGrath and McDonald at one time held more than 25 National titles between them. . . . McDonald, incidentally, at 53, is still the best 56-pound hammer thrower in the country. . . .

Pet Kopcsak, Army's star end, besides being a color sergeant, member of the choir, expert rifleman and first class gunner, teaches a Sunday school class . . . Lester Stoefen, the blond giant from Los Angeles, has made faster progress than any other men in the first ten nationally ranked tennis players . . . Unranked in 1930, he was fifteenth in 1931, sixth in 1932, and now rates berth No. 3. . . .

Rogers Hornsby is just one of scores of baseball men who think it little short of an outrage that baseball owners refuse to give Babe Ruth the managerial job he so earnestly craves. . . Last year the Yankees offered the Babe to Chicago, Detroit and Boston, but all refused. . . . Dave Bancroft is expected to get the job of managing Cincinnati's Reds . . . Is John Shibe, Athletics owner, taking an American league team on a world tour next fall in order to cast an eye or two on foreign pitching prospects? . . . Players who have been to Japan say there are a couple of sweet pitchers working the cherry blossom circuits.

Jewels Ens, Cincinnati coach, thinks Joe Moore, Giants outfielder, is the best defensive gardener he has seen since Lloyd Waner came to the big time. . . . The Fordham-St. Mary's football series will come to an end unless the New Yorkers agree to go to the coast or give the Gaels a larger slice of the gate receipts. . . Fordram hardly will allow this game to slip through its fingers, for it drew 55,000 customers this year. . .

Ted Kid Lewis is now refereeing fights in England. . . The backer of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National professional Football league is none other than Fitz Eugene-Dixon, onetime non-playing captain of the U. S. Davis Cup team. . . . Al Mamaux, out as manager of the Newark Bears, is back in vaudeville, crooning. . . . Paul Berlenbach won both the light-heavyweight boxing and wrestling championships on the same night in Madison Square Garden in 1921. . . .

GOOD PITCHING CURBS HITTERS OF A. L.--FOXX

BY PAT ROBINSON
(I.N.S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—The balance of power has certainly swung to the left if the American league batting averages just released are any criterion.

There was a time when center and right fields packed most of the wallop in a team's line-up. Those were the days when Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Earl Combs were in center covering more territory than Sally Rand's fans and when "Shoeless Joe" Jackson and Babe Ruth were in their prime in right and raising blisters on the paint on the fences.

But those lads are either gone or slipped far from their peak and today we find Earl Averill, patrolling the same spot where Speaker once made outfielding an art, hitting a puny .301. And over in right field we find Bob Johnson of the Red Sox leading with .313 and Swanson of the White Sox barging through with .306. Why those two lads would hardly have been allowed to tote Ruth's glove into the park when the Babe was in his prime.

Yes, the balance of power has swung to the left as witness Heinie Manush's fine .336, Simmons' .331, Garms' .317 and Chapman's .312.

All of which tempts us to ask, where are the hitters of yesteryear? And if the lively ball comes back, can real hitting be far away?

The writer chanced to be seated next to Jimmy Foxx at a dinner given by Babe Ruth last night and put these queries to the man whose .356 topped all the hitters. Spacing his words between mouthfuls of fried chicken and foaming beer, the observant Jimmy had a prompt reply for both.

"The hitters," said Jimmy, "are still here but baseball probably never had a year where there were so many fine pitchers. The ball had nothing at all to do with the hitting slump. You can inject twice as much rabbit into the ball as it ever had and there still will be light hitting if the pitching is as good as it was last year.

"It used to be we'd stack up against one or two fine pitchers in a series and the others would be just ordinary. We might get no hits against the stars but we'd sure plaster those ordinary birds and that's the way we fattened up the average.

"But look what we were up against last year. We'd run into four crack pitchers nearly every series and we'd just have to hope that one of them would have an off day. Even the White Sox pitchers made us all moan now and then. A lot of these young fellows like Rowe of Detroit, Pearson of Cleveland and Van Atta of the Yankees had plenty on the apple, believe me. These fellows would have been just about as fefective with a solid rubber ball.

"There may be a few more homers with a livelier ball but there won't be any more base hits until you handicap those throwers".

OREGON STATE GRID SCHEDULE ADOPTED

CORVALLIS, Ore., Dec. 18.—(INS)—Oregon State's completed 1934 football schedule released here today by Carl Lodell, graduate manager, lists seven conference and three non-conference games. Starting Sept. 22, the Orangemen play one of the toughest schedules in years without a rest until the end, on Nov. 24.

Although without the usual Eastern jaunt this season the Orange team makes two trips to Los Angeles, for the Trojan and U. C. L. A. games, and two trips north to meet Washington and Washington State. Washington is listed on the Oregon State schedule for the first time in five years.

The complete schedule:

Sept. 22—Willamette at Corvallis.
Sept. 28—San Francisco at Corvallis (night).
Oct. 6—Stanford at Portland.
Oct. 12—Columbia at Corvallis (night).
Oct. 20.—U. S. C. at Los Angeles.
Oct. 27—Washington State at Pullman.
Nov. 3—Washington at Seattle.
Nov. 10—Oregon at Eugene.
Nov. 17—Montana at Corvallis.
Nov. 24—U. C. L. A. at Los Angeles.

BAILEY NEAR DEATH AFTER 2 OPERATIONS

BOSTON, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Irvin ("Ace") Bailey, Toronto Maple Leafs hockey star, clung to life today, but chances for his recovery were dealt a severe blow when a second emergency operation disclosed that he had suffered a more serious brain injury on the side opposite to which he was struck last Tuesday in a game between his team and the Boston Bruins.

JO CRUICKSHANK RANKED SIXTH IN U. S. TENNIS

Josephine Cruickshank held her own in National tennis for the season of 1933, according to official rankings announced by the American Lawn Tennis association.

Conceded the No. 5 spot in 1932, when Helen Wills Moody was unranked because of non-participation in American tournaments, the Santa Anan dropped to No. 6 this year when Mrs. Moody returned to the lists.

This probably will be Miss Cruickshank's last appearance in U. S. rankings as she does not intend to follow the Eastern tournament trail next summer.

The First Ten in both men's and women's divisions:

Men:
1. Frank X. Shields, New York.
2. Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex.
3. Lester Stoefen, Los Angeles.
4. Clifford Sutter, New Orleans.
5. Gregory Mangin, Newark, N.J.
6. Sidney B. Wood, jr., New York
7. Bryan M. Grant, jr., Atlanta.
8. Frankie Parker, Lawrenceville, N. J.
9. Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara.
10. George M. Lott, jr., Chicago.

Women:
1. Helen H. Jacobs, Berkeley, Cal.
2. Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, Berkeley, Cal.
3. Alice Marble, San Francisco.
4. Sarah Paltrey, Brookline, Mass.
5. Carolin Babcock, Los Angeles.
6. Josephine E. Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Cal.
7. Baroness Maud Levi, New York.
8. Mrs. Marjorie G. Van Ryn, Philadelphia.
9. Virginia Rice, Boston.
10. Mrs. Agnes S. Lamme, Rye, N. Y.

"Y" BASKETBALL

The Mormons of the Junior league earned an easy 27-9 victory over the United Brethren in the only basketball game played at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night. The United Brethren and United Presbyterians won 2-0 forfeits from the First Presbyterians and First Christians, respectively, because their opponents failed to appear for scheduled games in the Senior league.

The lineup:

L. D. Saints (27)		(9) United Brethren
S. Francis (10)	F	(2) Curnutt
Simington (5)	F	(2) Miller
Stanley (6)	C	(5) Mulligan
P. Francis	G	Bates
Bickmore (6)	G	Kadowaki

Substitutions: United Brethren—Bement for Bates. Latter Day Saints—Kidd for Francis.

WESTERN GAS WINS AT LOMITA IN 9TH

Three successive baseknocks—a double by Manager Joe Erwin and singles by Lindsay and J. Koral—gave Santa Ana's Western Gas baseball team a ninth-inning over Lomita, 5-3, at Lomita yesterday, hoisting the local club into the first division of the Inter-City Winter league.

Lomita got a run in the first, and two more in the second when Church homed with Patlano aboard, but its 3-0 lead evaporated in the seventh when Pitcher Dick Moudy lost control, walking the bases full, and then forcing in a run by hitting a batsman. An error started his downfall.

The box score:

Western Gas	AB	R	H	Lomita	AB	R	H

CHICAGO BEARS BAG PRO GRIDIRON TITLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The Chicago Bears vanquished the New York Giants Sunday at Wrigley field before a crowd of 25,000 and retained their National professional football championship.

The score was 23-21 and the game was not won until the last four minutes of play, when the Bears came from behind for the third time in a final superlative rally.

Each member of the champion Bears will receive approximately $300 for his share in the first football world's series purse, it was estimated. Paid attendance was 21,000.

Kentucky Derby's Purse To Be Cut?

CHICAGO, Dec. 18. — (INS)—Rumors were current today that the $50,000 Kentucky Derby purse would be reduced to $25,000 as the American Turf Stockholders association convened here.

SIX REGULARS LOST TO GAEL GRID TEAM

MORAGA, Dec. 18.—(INS) — Coach "Slip" Madigan of St. Mary's refused to look gloomy today after he checked over his 1933 football squad and learned that 20 gridmen, including six regulars, will graduate next May.

Fred and George Canrinus, Carl Jorgensen, Merv Yates, Ed Gilbert, Sid Ahren and Gordon Partee will be missing from the Gael lineup in 1934.

Al Nichelini, the Gael's fast moving back, is slated for the fullback job in 1934. George Wilson, another "ten-flat" man, possibly will be at one of the halfback positions, with Hugh Sill, a sophomore, at quarter.

"The fourth backfield man for 1934 will also be fast," Madigan smiled, "but I don't know who he is going to be yet."

POLLOK, CALIENTE PROMOTER, SUICIDE

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The sports world paid tribute today to Harry Pollok, 61, whose self-inflicted death ended a career that was divided among the realms of wrestling, boxing, bicycle and horse racing.

According to police, he shot himself through the head. His body was found by a neighbor in the driveway of Pollok's home. Some mystery surrounded the cause of a broken right leg but police believed the injury was caused as he fell.

A cryptic note offered this explanation: "I'm beginning to get in my own way. I'm impeding traffic."

Close friends said he had been despondent since he and his wife, Mrs. Meta Rogers Pollok, were divorced in Reno last July.

Ruth Says He'll Never Play Ball In Minor Loops

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Babe Ruth is going to finish his baseball career in the major leagues.

Speaking at a dinner given in his honor by sports writers last night at the New York Athletic club Ruth said:

"After all I have been playing baseball in the big leagues for 20 years. And one thing I want to say and that is I am going to finish my career in the majors."

JEROME AND BAKER WIN AT GOLF CLUB

Don Jerome and George Baker pieced together a 75-8-67 to win best-ball sweepstakes at the Santa Ana Country club Saturday, leading by three strokes the second-place tandem of H. Overmyer and T. B. Talbert, 73-13-70. Other winners: M. N. Thompson and C. R. Furr, 81-8-73, and E. M. Guthier and R. E. Chapman, 90-6-73.

SAINTS LOSE IN BEACH FINALS

Hooks and Slides

by Bill Braucher

AND NO NICKNAME!

Francis Ouimet has come a long jaunt along the fairways since he turned back the mighty Vardon and Ray at Brookline on a foggy day in 1913. The New England veteran even now is tuning up his game at Miami Beach for another whirl at the championship. A championship he re-won in 1931 after 18 years of trying.

He has been one of the strange perennials of sports. What seems to me stranger than his unusual career is the fact that they never have hung a nickname on Francis. He remains Francis Ouimet. In Ouimet's tender youth you'd think some wag of the sports pages would have had the ingenuity to dub him Frankie. Maybe someone did, but it never stuck.

"OLD FRANK?" OH, NO!

When he came back strong two years ago, at the age of 39, and knocked down a fine field to win the amateur title, it might have been assumed such a nickname as "Old Frank" would be appropriate. Several writers did become intimate to the point of calling him that in their leads, but the next day he was Francis Ouimet again.

As soon as Robert Tyre Jones appeared with a mashie he was christened Bobby and the name clung to him. When baseball writers applied the name of George Herman to Ruth, they were committing the smart exception to what seemed his natural name, "Babe."

Other athletes named Francis have been called Frank easily. Some that come to mind offhand are Francis Hogan, the catcher; Francis T. Hunter, netman, and Francis X. Shields, also a tenniser. But calling Francis Ouimet Frank is just too hard to do.

It can't be that the man himself is too dignified or priestly, attributes many see in him. It happens that Cornelius McGillicuddy is both dignified and priestly, but the boys have shortened his names to Connie Mack.

It is hard to call to mind any other personages in sport during the last decade who have not been pitched to a nickname. Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis' monicker never has been shortened by the sports scribes, but perhaps that is because a front name like Kenesaw Mountain is too good as it is to suggest abbreviation.

Francis goes on year after year as just Francis. He always will be that. And probably he always will be playing a fine game of golf, too.

GOOD LUCK, JESSE

Jesse Harper has gone back to Kansas. His regime at Notre Dame as director of athletics after the death of Knute Rockne has been deemed a failure. This year the team collapsed in most of its games. A new gridiron administration moves in.

But as Jesse moves out and you look back over his record, it is easily apparent that Jesse was a great football man. In the five years from 1913 to 1918, it was Harper who built the athletic prestige by which the South Bend school came to be known.

SCHEDULED HARD ONES

Intersectional games then were few and far between. Notre Dame was obscure. Harper, by refusing to schedule weak teams and seeking at all times outstanding opposition, established rivalries which have become traditional and intense.

Things moved quickly under Harper. The school played 39 games under his coaching during those five years, and won 33 of these. His basketball and baseball productions were great, too.

A great deal has been said about the Rockne system, the Notre Dame system. It is a fact that the system Notre Dame has been using in all the years since Harper first took charge has been the Harper system.

THE INVENTOR

He invented the offense and defense Notre Dame became known for under Rockne. He coached Rockne into a great end, and then developed him as a coach. Rockne contributed an important change in end play, but the rest of the Notre Dame grid scheme is unchanged, as Harper taught it to Rockne. Rockne constantly sought Harper's aid.

The personality of Rockne attracted good players to Notre Dame and made them into stars who regarded Knute with the affection a son gives a father. But it was Harper football that Rock taught.

Not only was Jesse a great football teacher. He was a great fellow, rugged in his honesty, loyal to friends and to Notre Dame ideals.

So insistent was his demand for sportsmanship that he taught players to give the other fellow the breaks and then to go on and win in the knowledge that fair play had been accorded. He coached men to be gentlemen on the field but to play hard.

Jesse leaves the career of a gentleman as a pattern for those who follow him.

SPEARS MAY GO TO DARTMOUTH: MILLER UNEASY

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Unless there has been a change of mind within five days—and five minutes flat is the indoor record for intercollegiate mind-changing—Clarence ("Fat") Spears, 1933 football coach at Wisconsin, is being seriously considered by Dartmouth to succeed Jackson Cannell, recently dispossessed. This isn't idle surmise. Neither does it profess to be downright definite and official.

All that can be said right now is that, a few days ago, Dartmouth had almost made up its mind but wasn't quite sure about Mr. Spears, making at least two parties who weren't. The other is Mr. Spears. He seldom knows where he is going next. Sometimes, in fact, he just waits till he gets there.

Miller To Be Demoted

By contrast, one naturally feels a certain element of assurance in discussing the Naval academy situation; also the Naval academy's plans for "Rip" Miller by saying that it has practically none. The Navy, as I understand it, not only is going back to its own system of football it already has gone. The new head coach, it is said, will be Lieutenant Hamilton who played in the backfield some years ago, with Miller somewhere in the offing.

In other words, it isn't Mr. Miller who is to be dismissed; only his Notre Dame system.

This, I take it, is already arranged. The Navy, it seams, is tired of losing under civilian coaches and is now starting out to lose for itself. At that, there's a certain amount of comfort in knowing where you're going, provided it isn't down an open elevator shaft.

So far, Dartmouth doesn't seem to know. For one thing, it is only in the last few days that the field of candidates has been narrowed down to a mere population, including Harry Stuhldreher of Villanova, and "Hunk" Anderson, the South Bend refugee. For another, there is natural uncertainty about one so impulsive as Mr. Spears.

Dr. Spears Grid Vagabond

He played at Dartmouth before the war. After the war, he coached at Dartmouth, one of his pupils being the aforementioned Cannell. Then, in order, he went to West Virginia, Minnesota, Oregon and Wisconsin, although there may be a few I've forgotten. Maybe Mr. Spears will remember. Maybe he won't. He never lights long enough to get a haircut.

I'd like to go on and say that, if Mr. Spears goes back to Dartmouth, it will be the return of the prodigal, with the fatted calf and everything. In fact, I can almost guarantee that if he doesn't return with the fatted calf, a terrible mistake has been made and it isn't Mr. Spears at all.

As for Mr. Miller at the Naval academy, I understand that he is to remain in somewhat of an advisory capacity.

And no two ways about it, advice is a great thing. The only trouble is that they always listen very intently to what you have to say and then do something else.

Because a Deer Hunter Failed to Look for Antlers

A scene of wild life tragedy that tears at the heartstrings is this—a doe cold in death, her fawn starving beside her, victims of man's unthinking cruelty. A deer hunter, intent only on prey, ignored the rule of the woods, never to shoot before looking for antlers. He killed the doe and left the fawn, struck in one hind leg by a heavy slug, to starve or fall victim to a prowling beast. A conservation photographer came upon the scene, near West Branch, Mich., rescued the fawn, and it is being nursed back to health.

WELTY, NORTON ON CONFERENCE ALL-STAR TEAM

Selected by seven head coaches, the annual first and second all-star football teams for the Eastern Junior College conference this year honor five of Coach Bill Cook's Santa Ana Dons, Southern California champions.

Harold Welty, quarter and fullback, and Miles Norton, tackle, were given first string positions. "Porky" Bell, blocking halfback; Ben Slavin, end; and Ray Nowotny, giant guard, were placed on the second team.

Every season some of the finest players in the association are overlooked by the coaches. Bob Smith, sophomore backfield star of the Chaffey Panthers, was not named on either eleven. Sam Tucker and Loren Lukens, Santa Ana guards, were passed up in favor of the husky Nowotny. Bruce Handy, one of the outstanding defensive centers of the league, was overlooked in favor of Joe Wheeler of Chaffey and Marion Becker of San Bernardino, pivotmen he outplayed during the '33 schedule. Krum, San Bernardino's heavyweight fullback; Paul Perinich, Santa Ana's fast-charging end; McMillan, Chaffey's fine blocking back; Nielson and Garth of Riverside; Ray Hapes, Walt Devine and Wilburn Anderson of Santa Ana are other outstanding players the coaches failed to place.

Most of the overlooked ones, however, are freshmen, and will have a chance to display their wares next year.

FIRST TEAM

End	Redfern, Riverside
End	Zwolsman, Fullerton
Tackle	Norton, Santa Ana
Tackle	Hastings, Riverside
Guard	Ewart, Chaffey
Guard	Ackerman, Citrus
Center	Wheeler, Chaffey
Quarterback	Lovine, Riverside
Halfback	Welty, Santa Ana
Halfback	Pryor, Fullerton
Fullback	Brennen, Citrus

SECOND TEAM

End	Slavin, Santa Ana
End	Roquet, Citrus
Tackle	Cosgrove, Citrus
Tackle	Graham, Citrus
Guard	Nowotny, Santa Ana
Guard	Moore, Riverside
Center	Beard, San Bernardino
Quarterback	Keough, Chaffey
Halfback	Bell, Santa Ana
Halfback	Cox, San Bernardino
Fullback	Wise, Chaffey

REMEMBER THOSE 3 WHALES?

Army's End Sings In Choir, Teaches Sunday School

BANCROFT TO LEAD CINCINNATI

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Putting the sports shot here and there: One of the most amazing triumvirates in the history of sport was the "Whales" . . . Pat McDonald, Matt McGrath and Pat Ryan . . . All policemen, their combined weight was close to 875 pounds and McGrath and McDonald at one time held more than 25 National titles between them. . . . McDonald, incidentally, at 53, is still the best 56-pound hammer thrower in the country. . . .

Pet Kopcsak, Army's star end, besides being a color sergeant, member of the choir, expert rifleman and first class gunner, teaches a Sunday school class . . . Lester Stoefen, the blond giant from Los Angeles, has made faster progress than any other men in the first ten nationally ranked tennis players . . . Unranked in 1930, he was fifteenth in 1931, sixth in 1932, and now rates berth No. 3. . . .

Rogers Hornsby is just one of scores of baseball men who think it little short of an outrage that baseball owners refuse to give Babe Ruth the managerial job he so earnestly craves. . . Last year the Yankees offered the Babe to Chicago, Detroit and Boston, but all refused. . . . Dave Bancroft is expected to get the job of managing Cincinnati's Reds . . . Is John Shibe, Athletics owner, taking an American league team on a world tour next fall in order to cast an eye or two on foreign pitching prospects? . . . Players who have been to Japan say there are a couple of sweet pitchers working the cherry blossom circuits.

Jewels Ens, Cincinnati coach, thinks Joe Moore, Giants outfielder, is the best defensive gardener he has seen since Lloyd Waner came to the big time. . . . The Fordham-St. Mary's football series will come to an end unless the New Yorkers agree to go to the coast or give the Gaels a larger slice of the gate receipts. . . Fordram hardly will allow this game to slip through its fingers, for it drew 55,000 customers this year. . .

Ted Kid Lewis is now refereeing fights in England. . . The backer of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National professional Football league is none other than Fitz Eugene-Dixon, onetime non-playing captain of the U. S. Davis Cup team. . . . Al Mamaux, out as manager of the Newark Bears, is back in vaudeville, crooning. . . . Paul Berlenbach won both the light-heavyweight boxing and wrestling championships on the same night in Madison Square Garden in 1921. . . .

GOOD PITCHING CURBS HITTERS OF A. L.--FOXX

BY PAT ROBINSON
(I.N.S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—The balance of power has certainly swung to the left if the American league batting averages just released are any criterion.

There was a time when center and right fields packed most of the wallop in a team's line-up. Those were the days when Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Earl Combs were in center covering more territory than Sally Rand's fans and when "Shoeless Joe" Jackson and Babe Ruth were in their prime in right and raising blisters on the paint on the fences.

But those lads are either gone or slipped far from their peak and today we find Earl Averill, patrolling the same spot where Speaker once made outfielding an art, hitting a puny .301. And over in right field we find Bob Johnson of the Red Sox leading with .313 and Swanson of the White Sox barging through with .306. Why those two lads would hardly have been allowed to tote Ruth's glove into the park when the Babe was in his prime.

Yes, the balance of power has swung to the left as witness Heinie Manush's fine .336, Simmons' .331, Garms' .317 and Chapman's .312.

All of which tempts us to ask, where are the hitters of yesteryear? And if the lively ball comes back, can real hitting be far away?

The writer chanced to be seated next to Jimmy Foxx at a dinner given by Babe Ruth last night and put these queries to the man whose .356 topped all the hitters. Spacing his words between mouthfuls of fried chicken and foaming beer, the observant Jimmy had a prompt reply for both.

"The hitters," said Jimmy, "are still here but baseball probably never had a year where there were so many fine pitchers. The ball had nothing at all to do with the hitting slump. You can inject twice as much rabbit into the ball as it ever had and there still will be light hitting if the pitching is as good as it was last year.

"It used to be we'd stack up against one or two fine pitchers in a series and the others would be just ordinary. We might get no hits against the stars but we'd sure plaster those ordinary birds and that's the way we fattened up the average.

"But look what we were up against last year. We'd run into four crack pitchers nearly every series and we'd just have to hope that one of them would have an off day. Even the White Sox pitchers made us all moan now and then. A lot of these young fellows like Rowe of Detroit, Pearson of Cleveland and Van Atta of the Yankees had plenty on the apple, believe me. These fellows would have been just about as fective with a solid rubber ball.

"There may be a few more homers with a livelier ball but there won't be any more base hits until you handicap those throwers".

MUIR TECH OF PASADENA WINS TOURNEY, 40-27

Santa Ana high school's surprising basketball team, unheralded and unsung, began the Christmas holidays today, well satisfied with its seasonal progress and its future prospects after finishing in a runner-up position at the fifth annual Huntington Beach prep tournament Saturday night.

Twenty-four high school quintets started play in this elimination classic, and the Saints reached the titular round before they met defeat by Pasadena's Muir Tech, 40 to 27. Chaffey, former Southern California champion, and Orange were schools that Santa Ana eliminated on its road to the finals.

Muir Tech, paced by a flashy forward named Dorn Lester and an alert guard named Tom McGarvin, proved too good for Coach Reese Greene's Santa Anans in the climax contest, however. The Pasadena cagemen led through, 7-5 at the first quarter, 19-9 at half-time, and 28-16 at the end of the third period. Both teams went on a scoring spree in the last quarter, Tech ringing the hoop for 12 points, Santa Ana for 11.

Santa Ana's triumph over Chaffey in the semi-final bracket was due to superior guarding. Tom Lacy, Myron Newton and "Feet" Weimer forcing the Tigers to resort almost entirely to long range shots.

Chino won the Class B championship by defeating Downey, 32-16, while Stan Gould's San Juan Capistrano Missionaries took the "C" division title with a 39-27 decision over Bill Cole's Tustin Tillers. Capistrano pulled away in the last quarter, making nine points to Tustin's one.

After the tournament, officials and coaches picked all-tournament teams in three classes as follows:

Class A—Kraus and Clipper of Muir Tech, forwards; Meek of Chaffey, center; McGarvin (Muir Tech) and Lacy (Santa Ana), guards.

Class B—Moore (Downey) and Bunting (Chino), forwards; Marshall (Bonita) center; Crystal (Chino) and Malloy (Downey), guards.

Class C was composed of A. Avila (Capistrano) and Francis (Tustin), forwards; Magee (Capistrano), center; Dickey (Hemet) and Stoffel (Capistrano), guards.

The results:

OREGON STATE GRID SCHEDULE ADOPTED

CORVALLIS, Ore., Dec. 18.—(INS)—Oregon State's completed 1934 football schedule released here today by Carl Lodell, graduate manager, lists seven conference and three non-conference games. Starting Sept. 22, the Orangemen play one of the toughest schedules in years without a rest until the end, on Nov. 24.

Although without the usual Eastern jaunt this season the Orange team makes two trips to Los Angeles, for the Trojan and U. C. L. A. games, and two trips north to meet Washington and Washington State. Washington is listed on the Oregon State schedule for the first time in five years.

The complete schedule:

Sept. 22—Willamette at Corvallis.
Sept. 28—San Francisco at Corvallis (night).
Oct. 6—Stanford at Portland.
Oct. 12—Columbia at Corvallis (night).
Oct. 20.—U. S. C. at Los Angeles.
Oct. 27—Washington State at Pullman.
Nov. 3—Washington at Seattle.
Nov. 10—Oregon at Eugene.
Nov. 17—Montana at Corvallis.
Nov. 24—U. C. L. A. at Los Angeles.

JO CRUICKSHANK RANKED SIXTH IN U. S. TENNIS

Josephine Cruickshank held her own in National tennis for the season of 1933, according to official rankings announced by the American Lawn Tennis association.

Conceded the No. 5 spot in 1932, when Helen Wills Moody was unranked because of non-participation in American tournaments, the Santa Anan dropped to No. 6 this year when Mrs. Moody returned to the lists.

This probably will be Miss Cruickshank's last appearance in U. S. rankings as she does not intend to follow the Eastern tournament trail next summer.

The First Ten in both men's and women's divisions:

Men:
1. Frank X. Shields, New York.
2. Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex.
3. Lester Stoefen, Los Angeles.
4. Clifford Sutter, New Orleans.
5. Gregory Mangin, Newark, N.J.
6. Sidney B. Wood, jr., New York
7. Bryan M. Grant, jr., Atlanta.
8. Frankie Parker, Lawrenceville, N. J.
9. Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara.
10. George M. Lott, jr., Chicago.

Women:
1. Helen H. Jacobs, Berkeley, Cal.
2. Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, Berkeley, Cal.
3. Alice Marble, San Francisco.
4. Sarah Palfrey, Brookline, Mass.
5. Carolin Babcock, Los Angeles.
6. Josephine E. Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Cal.
7. Baroness Maud Levi, New York.
8. Mrs. Marjorie G. Van Ryn, Philadelphia.
9. Virginia Rice, Boston.
10. Mrs. Agnes S. Lamme, Rye, N. Y.

WESTERN GAS WINS AT LOMITA IN 9TH

Three successive baseknocks—a double by Manager Joe Erwin and singles by Lindsay and J. Koral—gave Santa Ana's Western Gas baseball team a ninth-inning over Lomita, 5-3, at Lomita yesterday, hoisting the local club into the first division of the Inter-City Winter league.

Lomita got a run in the first, and two more in the second when Church homed with Patlano aboard, but its 3-0 lead evaporated in the seventh when Pitcher Dick Moudy lost control, walking the bases full, and then forcing in a run by hitting a batsman. An error started his downfall.

The box score:

CHICAGO BEARS BAG PRO GRIDIRON TITLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The Chicago Bears vanquished the New York Giants Sunday at Wrigley field before a crowd of 25,000 and retained their National professional football championship.

The score was 23-21 and the game was not won until the last four minutes of play, when the Bears came from behind for the third time in a final superlative rally.

Each member of the champion Bears will receive approximately $300 for his share in the first football world's series purse, it was estimated. Paid attendance was 21,000.

Kentucky Derby's Purse To Be Cut?

CHICAGO, Dec. 18. — (INS)—Rumors were current today that the $50,000 Kentucky Derby purse would be reduced to $25,000 as the American Turf Stockholders association convened here.

TENNIS

After a tournament that began at 8:20 a. m. and finished at 5 p. m., the Class B division of the Santa Ana Tennis club and the Valencia Tennis club tied, 13-13, at Anaheim Sunday. Two of the matches accredited to Anaheim were won by default. The results:

SIX REGULARS LOST TO GAEL GRID TEAM

MORAGA, Dec. 18.—(INS) — Coach "Slip" Madigan of St. Mary's refused to look gloomy today after he checked over his 1933 football squad and learned that 20 gridmen, including six regulars, will graduate next May.

Fred and George Canrinus, Carl Jorgensen, Merv Yates, Ed Gilbert, Sid Ahren and Gordon Partee will be missing from the Gael lineup in 1934.

Al Nichelini, the Gael's fast moving back, is slated for the fullback job in 1934. George Wilson, another "ten-flat" man, possibly will be at one of the halfback positions, with Hugh Sill, a sophomore, at quarter.

"The fourth backfield man for 1934 will also be fast," Madigan smiled, "but I don't know who he is going to be yet."

POLLOK, CALIENTE PROMOTER, SUICIDE

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The sports world paid tribute today to Harry Pollok, 61, whose self-inflicted death ended a career that was divided among the realms of wrestling, boxing, bicycle and horse racing.

According to police, he shot himself through the head. His body was found by a neighbor in the driveway of Pollok's home. Some mystery surrounded the cause of a broken right leg but police believed the injury was caused as he fell.

A cryptic note offered this explanation: "I'm beginning to get in my own way. I'm impeding traffic."

Close friends said he had been despondent since he and his wife, Mrs. Meta Rogers Pollok, were divorced in Reno last July.

DIEGEL WINS CAL. OPEN AT LAKEWOOD

Leo Diegel, Philadelphia pro, was off to a flying start today in the annual contest for money and titles in the Southern California golfing wars.

He opened the winter season by annexing the California Open championship in the 36-hole finals at Long Beach's Lakewood course, beating out Olin Dutra of Los Angeles and Ky Laffoon of Denver by four strokes. A dazzling 69 on the final round gave him an aggregate of 70-71-72-69—282, six strokes under par. Dutra and Laffoon each carded 286.

Willie Hunter, former British Amateur champion, moved into fourth place with a 287, a stroke ahead of Ben Coltrin, young San Francisco pro. Mac Smith of Nashville, Tenn., turned in a 289, Oliver Sleppy of Long Beach and Joe Hunter, Pasadena, each had 292, and Fay Coleman, Los Angeles, 293, to complete the list of money winners.

Johnny Dawson of Chicago paced the amateur ranks with a 295. Ernie Combs of Long Beach had 302 and Dr. Cliff Baker, Portland dentist, 304.

The campaign will be resumed Thursday when the $4000 Pasadena Open gets under way.

Ruth Says He'll Never Play Ball In Minor Loops

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(UP)—Babe Ruth is going to finish his baseball career in the major leagues.

Speaking at a dinner given in his honor by sports writers last night at the New York Athletic club Ruth said:

"After all I have been playing baseball in the big leagues for 20 years. And one thing I want to say and that is I am going to finish my career in the majors."

HOLLYWOOD MAN AND FULLERTON GIRL MARRIED

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—Beautiful in its simplicity was the wedding Saturday night of Miss Nancy Hezmalhalch to Irvin Jay, solemnized at the Hezmalhalch home on Yale street at 8 o'clock, with the Rev. Thomas Hezmalhalch, grandfather of the bride, reading the simple single ring ceremony.

The bride was attended by her father, Fred Hezmalhalch, who gave her away. Mrs. Alice Hezmalhalch, a sister-in-law of the bride, played softly on the piano during the ceremony.

Miss Hezmalhalch, who graduated from Fullerton schools, was gowned in a rust colored dinner dress and wore a corsage of gardenias and lilies of the valley. She has been employed at the court house, Santa Ana, the past three years. The bridegroom, of Hollywood, is employed as a technician by the Warner Brothers' studio. After a short honeymoon, the young couple will make their home on Highland street, Hollywood.

Following the wedding, the guests were served a wedding supper by Mr. and Mrs. Hezmalhalch. Attending the ceremony and supper were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gantz, Hollywood, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom; Mrs. Webber, Mr. Jay's grandmother, and Mrs. Howland, an aunt, of Los Angeles; three guests, Gordon Davis, of Hollywood; Miss Virginia Cooper, of San Pedro, and Miss Alice Bloodgood, of Fullerton, and Mr. and Mrs. Hezmalhalch, parents of the bride; her brothers and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Thoele, Mrs. Alice Hezmalhalch, Charles Hezmalhalch, Jeanne Hezmalhalch, William Hezmalhalch, the only member absent being Robert Hezmalhalch, who is in Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay left by automobile for a short trip before he returns to work. She wore a simple and lovely grey tailored suit with grey accessories.

NEED NEW MIND IN CHURCH, PASTOR SAYS IN SERMON ON CONDITIONS IN WORLD TODAY

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—"Today we are bitterly disillusioned, and our woes and griefs are multiplied, and it is easy to understand why men are skeptical, and why bitter suspicions fill the minds of the masses everywhere," the Rev. E. Dow Hoffman, pastor of Fullerton Methodist church, said yesterday in a powerful sermon on affairs of today, taking as his text Matt. 3:2, "Repent ye; for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand."

In the course of the sermon he pointed out that all griefs are upon us "Because Americans made the mistake of believing might is right, and that if we have material things, nothing else matters much."

He struck a warning when he said, "Americans have forgotten that Jesus Christ, the Son of God said, 'man shall not live by bread alone, but by every work that proceedeth out of the mouth of God' we have neglected that word, and now hunger and want stalk the land."

At the opening of the sermon he said, "The world today is in a dangerous mood. Everywhere we go, there is a rumbling of discontent, suspicion and hatred. During the World war, the nations arose to a mighty height of idealism, 'a war to end war', 'to make the world safe for democracy', "for God and humanity' were the slogans. Millions leaped to arms at that challenge, believing that out of the bitter struggle a better world would arise.

"Today, disillusioned millions who stepped forth proudly to do battle for government and God are stepping forth as beggars along our highways, and their families, and families of thousands of others, are crying for bread.

"Not many years ago, any man who raised a voice against capitalism was branded as a radical and 'red.' Now government itself is challenging capitalism to produce service, or go out of existence. The complete breakdown of the social and economic order has shaken the doctrine of 'rugged individualism' until socialism and communism stand hand in hand just around the corner.' "

After making profound comment on the impossibility of serving both God and Mammon, the pastor said that the people have been more concerned about food and raiment than about the "Kingdom of God."

"Our loyalty first is not to party, to government, to church, but to the Kingdom of God," the pastor said. "Repent, ye Americans, for putting all things first except first things. The business of the church is to put forth the Kingdom of God, and to live it so thoroughly, that state and nation will be compelled to take notice and do the things that make for righteousness and peace, for social and economic justice. Instead of this we are floundering, and trying at all costs, and with all sorts of temporary expedients, to keep the social structure from collapsing altogether."

He criticized bitterly the government for letting loose upon the whose, "a tide of evil inherent in liquor traffic, for the sake of a little revenue, forgetting, apparently that multitudes must suffer and die through ravages of the traffic, in order that a few paltry dollars might be garnered in as tax money."

"This letting down of the standards has resulted in the horrible tragedy at San Jose, and many other such, the one at San Jose particularly terrible, he said, because of the mob violence that followed."

In closing he said, "We need a new mind in politics, in social groups, in economic relationship; we need a new mind in the church. Coming right down to where we live, what is the chief anxiety of the members of this church? Is it that the Kingdom of God might come? Is it that men and women might learn of Jesus and his love for them? Is it that the church might prosper and grow and get out of debt? Rather we find the chief anxiety of most to be that we 'save our investments,' forgetting we shall seek the Kingdom of God and the welfare of His people.

"The hardest battle the preacher has to face today in Fullerton is not the active antagonism of the wet press and the underworld which it represents. It is not the open sneerings and ridicule of those who would exploit the community for the sake of a few miserable dollars. The real battle which I and every other preacher in Fullerton faces is the prolonged indifference, the selfishness, and the carelessness, the actual sinfulness of the professing church member who daily betrays his Lord. The average church member is too careless, or afraid, or too sinful to protest against the evils that surround us.

"The church should raise a powerful voice against evil in all places. Yet we let the voices of a few drown the protest of many. We are told we must not hear Norman Thomas, because he is socially minded. Personally, there are things that Norman Thomas says that do not fit my philosophy of life, but although I do not agree with what he says, entirely yet I maintain he has a right to say, and I have a right to listen. I for one do not intend to leave the choice of whom I shall hear, or what I shall say in the hands of any group whose Americanism and idealism has fallen so low that they delight in exhibitions that are a disgrace to decent fold, and a shame and a reproach to the mothers that reared them to manhood."

ALL STARS AND MERCHANTS IN TIE GAME, 1-1

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—Fullerton Merchants received a draw in a brilliant and hard fought game of 12 innings with the La Habra All-Stars on the Fullerton diamond yesterday afternoon and the only winner was darkness. Each team made one run.

Both teams scored early in the game. La Habra scored on a walk to McKinney and a hit by McGaught, outfielder. Fullerton tallied in the third inning with doubles by Goodrich and Brandle.

Poor base running by Fullerton cost them the game. Joyce, Fullerton, caught a beautiful game, taking the place of Wilkinson who with Lem and Flanigan is on the injured list.

Young Eddie Harker, mascot for the Merchants, was called on for outfield play, which he did in great style and saved the game by a spectacular catch of a line drive. Griffith, La Habra, made some good stops at third base.

Ryan pitched for La Habra and Silva caught. The result was one run, seven hits and two errors.

Stoner pitched for Fullerton and Joyce caught; one run, 10 hits, and no errors were made.

Next Sunday the Fullerton Merchants will play the fast Bellflower club. Bus Callan, former star catcher with the Anaheim Elks, is the manager.

MERCHANTS IN 5-4 WIN OVER FOSTER TEAM

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—Fullerton Merchants won, 5-4, from Kenney Foster's All-Star team Saturday afternoon on the Fullerton field.

Joe Mene started his first game with the Merchants and pitched a good game. Dick Joyce hit four balls for four runs. Foster, Callan and Hershberger did some strong hitting for the All-Star team.

Goodrich came through with a home run to win the game. McKinney pitched and Callan caught for the All-Stars, making four runs, seven hits and no errors.

Mene pitched and Wilkinson caught for the Merchants. The team made five runs, 10 hits three errors.

YULE PROGRAM OF SOCIETY TONIGHT

A Christmas tree and Santa Claus are on the program and each person present is to bring a small, inexpensive gift. A dinner will be served at 6 p. m.

Let Uncle Sam spend his $1,-200,000 on a good enterprise. Vote for Newport Harbor tomorrow!

METHODIST CHURCH GROUPS IN PARTIES

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—Three groups of women from the Methodist church met recently for their Christmas gatherings. The Kingdom Builders met at the home of Mrs. Homer Bemis, where they exchanged gifts and sang carols. Twenty-five adults and 16 children were at the party.

Individual cakes with tiny red candles on them were served with tea and candies by the hostesses, Mrs. Archie Ellis, Mrs. Hilda Vanderburg, Mrs. Harvey Otis and Mrs. Ruth Richardson. The next meeting will be in January, at the home of Mrs. Easton.

The Eastside circle of Women's Aid gathered at the home of Mrs. Eunice White, 414 East Amerige, where after a short business meeting, the rest of the afternoon was spent in a social time.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses. Those present were Mrs. Hartley Daniels, Mrs. C. H. Kenniston, Mrs. Boyce, Mrs. J. L. McCulloch, Mrs. Emma Shultz, Mrs. C. A. Burney, Mrs. Miser, Mrs. Eddy, Mrs. McGee, Mrs. Scribner, Mrs. Chambers and Mrs. Penrod.

The Westside circle of Women's Aid gathered in the church parlors, where they sewed on quilts and talked.

Refreshments of tea and cookies were served by the hostesses, Mrs. A. Hiltsher and Mrs. M. J. Farley.

YULE ORATORIO PRESENTED BY CHURCH CHOIRS

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—Before a packed house, members of the choirs of the four churches that are united under a ministerial association last night presented their annual Christmas offering at the Methodist church.

The group, comprising about 80 voices, presented Handel's "Messiah" under direction of Glenn Lewis, director of the Methodist choir, with Mrs. J. B. Horner, Mrs. Florence Tozier, Miss Esther Schultz, sporanos; Miss Elsie Moore, Mrs. Frances Montague and Miss Corrinne Bush, altos; D. Lyman Harpster and P. C. Bowne, tenors, and Stanley Berkey, Dr. H. R. Wildman and William Holbrook, bassos, taking the solo parts. Mrs. Harold Nielson, organist of the Methodist church, presented the organ numbers included in the oratorio and for the preludes and postlude numbers as well.

The Rev. Francis E. Hawes, of the Baptist church, opened the service with Scripture readings; the Rev. George Tinsley, of the Christian church, gave the opening prayer, and the Rev. E. Dow Hoffman, of the hostess church, presided and gave the announcements, while the Rev. Graham C. Hunter dismissed the large groups.

Let Uncle Sam spend his $1,-200,000 on a good enterprise. Vote for Newport Harbor tomorrow!

Couple Honored By Church Group

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—The Rev. and Mrs. D. Rand Pierce, who returned to Fullerton Friday, following their marriage November 30 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Tousley at McLeansboro, Ill., were honored by a group of church members, families and friends Friday evening with a reception at the H. M. Johnson home on South Highland avenue. The Rev. Mr. Pierce is to be associated with his wife in the Nazarene pastorate here.

Auxiliary Plans To Aid Veterans

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—The Fullerton auxiliary of Veterans of Foreign Wars will distribute 75 boxes of food and gifts among needy veterans.

Plans have been made for the department president's official visit to Fullerton January 11. The Christmas party for members, their families and veterans is set for December 23. A tree and entertainment are planned.

BICYCLES repaired and painted. Fix-It Shop, 105 E. 3rd St.—Adv.

MERCHANTS IN 5-4 WIN OVER FOSTER TEAM

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—Fullerton Merchants won, 5-4, from Kenney Foster's All-Star team Saturday afternoon on the Fullerton field.

Joe Mene started his first game with the Merchants and pitched a good game. Dick Joyce hit four balls for four runs. Foster, Callan and Hershberger did some strong hitting for the All-Star team.

Goodrich came through with a home run to win the game. McKinney pitched and Callan caught for the All-Stars, making four runs, seven hits and no errors.

Mene pitched and Wilkinson caught for the Merchants. The team made five runs, 10 hits three errors.

YULE PROGRAM OF SOCIETY TONIGHT

FULLERTON, Dec. 18. — The Northern Orange County Panhellenic society will have its Christmas program and an exchange of small gifts this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Don Cruickshank, 609 North Golden. Mrs. Raymond Terry, Mrs. Virginia Hodges and Miss Winifred Hardy compose the hostess committee.

Be sure and vote tomorrow, and vote for Newport Harbor!

Garden Section Of Ebell Plans Party Thursday

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—Fullerton Ebell garden section plans a Christmas program meeting next Thursday at 2 p. m. in the home of Mrs. J. W. Hetebrink, East Chapman avenue.

Music and discussion are planned. An exchange of inexpensive gifts is scheduled. Mrs. Daisy Reese, section chairman, will conduct a brief business section.

Christmas Party For Classes Held On Tuesday Night

FULLERTON, Dec. 18. — A Christmas party will be given for members of the Intermediate classes, seventh and eighth grades, of the Presbyterian church tomorrow at 5:30 o'clock in the church parlors. The party is given by the teachers of that department, with Mrs. Arthur C. Terrill, superintendent, directing.

A Christmas tree and Santa Claus are on the program and each person present is to bring a small, inexpensive gift. A dinner will be served at 6 p. m.

Let Uncle Sam spend his $1,-200,000 on a good enterprise. Vote for Newport Harbor tomorrow!

METHODIST CHURCH GROUPS IN PARTIES

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—Three groups of women from the Methodist church met recently for their Christmas gatherings. The Kingdom Builders met at the home of Mrs. Homer Bemis, where they exchanged gifts and sang carols. Twenty-five adults and 16 children were at the party.

Individual cakes with tiny red candles on them were served with tea and candies by the hostesses, Mrs. Archie Ellis, Mrs. Hilda Vanderburg, Mrs. Harvey Otis and Mrs. Ruth Richardson. The next meeting will be in January, at the home of Mrs. Easton.

The Eastside circle of Women's Aid gathered at the home of Mrs. Eunice White, 414 East Amerige, where after a short business meeting, the rest of the afternoon was spent in a social time.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses. Those present were Mrs. Hartley Daniels, Mrs. C. H. Kenniston, Mrs. Boyce, Mrs. J. L. McCulloch, Mrs. Emma Shultz, Mrs. C. A. Burney, Mrs. Miser, Mrs. Eddy, Mrs. McGee, Mrs. Scribner, Mrs. Chambers and Mrs. Penrod.

The Westside circle of Women's Aid gathered in the church parlors, where they sewed on quilts and talked.

Refreshments of tea and cookies were served by the hostesses, Mrs. A. Hiltsher and Mrs. M. J. Farley.

YULE ORATORIO PRESENTED BY CHURCH CHOIRS

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—Before a packed house, members of the choirs of the four churches that are united under a ministerial association last night presented their annual Christmas offering at the Methodist church.

The group, comprising about 80 voices, presented Handel's "Messiah" under direction of Glenn Lewis, director of the Methodist choir, with Mrs. J. B. Horner, Mrs. Florence Tozier, Miss Esther Schultz, sporanos; Miss Elsie Moore, Mrs. Frances Montague and Miss Corrinne Bush, altos; D. Lyman Harpster and P. C. Bowne, tenors, and Stanley Berkey, Dr. H. R. Wildman and William Holbrook, bassos, taking the solo parts. Mrs. Harold Nielson, organist of the Methodist church, presented the organ numbers included in the oratorio and for the preludes and postlude numbers as well.

The Rev. Francis E. Hawes, of the Baptist church, opened the service with Scripture readings; the Rev. George Tinsley, of the Christian church, gave the opening prayer, and the Rev. E. Dow Hoffman, of the hostess church, presided and gave the announcements, while the Rev. Graham C. Hunter dismissed the large groups.

Let Uncle Sam spend his $1,-200,000 on a good enterprise. Vote for Newport Harbor tomorrow!

Couple Honored By Church Group

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—The Rev. and Mrs. D. Rand Pierce, who returned to Fullerton Friday, following their marriage November 30 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Tousley at McLeansboro, Ill., were honored by a group of church members, families and friends Friday evening with a reception at the H. M. Johnson home on South Highland avenue. The Rev. Mr. Pierce is to be associated with his wife in the Nazarene pastorate here.

APPROACH

The President is getting ready to try through George Peek what he intended to pull on the London Economic Conference—until that party blew up over monetary differences.

When the erstwhile Agricultural Administrator was put to work building up a new organization "to coordinate all government relations to American foreign trade," the way was being paved toward a number of reciprocal trade agreements designed to open new markets for our surpluses.

The method of approach is what will prove most interesting.

At the moment, administration strategists are considering the idea of getting reciprocal agreements by operating under the flexible provision of the Tariff Act.

It has been suggested to the White House that we merely enter into negotiations with any given country through diplomatic channels. We could say, for instance, we will purchase a certain amount of your goods if you will take a like amount of specified American product off our hands. It would be agreed privately that the President would exercise his flexible tariff authority in favor of the foreign goods.

Thus no pact would have to be drafted that would need ratification by Congress.

The alternative will be a draft on Congress for advance authority to negotiate such trade agreements. A fifty per cent tariff-regulating provision would be necessary to make action of this kind Constitutional. Otherwise Congress in effect would be ratifying foreign agreements before they were consummated.

Mr. Roosevelt debated the wisdom of asking such authority from last spring's special session. He wanted to send our delegation to Lo[illegible] with power to make commi[illegible]. At the last minute the ide[illegible] was vetoed. It was feared Congress would be thrown into a prolonged debate that would do the emergency recovery program no good.

Whether the situation on Capitol Hill is now brighter for such a grant is problematical.

BREAKS

In dealing with foreign countries on reciprocal trade we'll run into the most-favored nation clause that lies at the heart of most existing commercial treaties. Under this clause signatories agree to give the same break on tariff concessions to each other that they might accord a third nation.

Our experts believe we can vault this barrier too for all practical purposes.

For example it is pointed out that Scotch whiskey comes largely from England. We could make a trade involving a reduced tariff on Scotch that theoretically would apply to other nations, too. The hitch is they don't happen to make Scotch.

PEEK

This new job will be George Peek's lifetime chance to prove his theory that the real solution of our farm problem lies in marketing surpluses.

He has spent a sizeable chunk of his personal fortune already in the effort.

Now he is split clean from Secretary Wallace and the Brain Trusters who think foreign markets are largely gaseous and have turned instead to crop reduction at home. Peek's ideas will either make or break in the next few months.

JITTERY

Speaker Rainey already is laying quiet lines to get Congress out of Washington by April or May at the latest. This may be too much of a job for any man, but he's going to try.

The veteran from Illinois has in mind what happened during the troubled wartime when Woodrow Wilson kept Congress in session virtually all the time. History shows us the Democrats stayed here despite their better judgment because Mr. Wilson felt the emergency too grave to be without them.

At the last minute they went home and took a licking from the Republicans.

Rainey's idea is a short session but a merry one.

His motto will be "do something but do it fast. Then go home and keep close to your people."

Such an idea certainly will draw White House approval. Presidents get jittery when Congress hangs around too long.

THINKERS

Apparently all the so-called liberal minds aren't confined to the Department of Agriculture.

Some of the most progressive thinkers working under Public Works Administrator Ickes are cooking up assorted plans for still more public works running as high as ten billion dollars.

Their theory is we must spend our way out of the depression. They point to all the money blown in the World War when the enemy was 3000 miles away and say we should be at least half as loose with the enemy right on home ground.

Progressive members of Congress probably will support one or more of these plans.

Whether President Roosevelt and Ickes will is regarded by most observers as doubtful.

The $3,300,000,000 allotted this year will take more than another year to spend. Furthermore we are rapidly approaching a time when a much more nearly balanced budget is going to come in handy if we want to talk stabilization, etc., to foreign powers.

Still when the Civil Works funds run out in mid-February there is quite apt to be a movement in and out of Congress for renewal.

NOTES

Dr. Arthur MacDonald, who acquired some publicity by doing a brain test of Congress, has a new idea. . . . He proposes Fiorello LaGuardia, Mayor-elect of New York, as a fusion candidate for President in 1936. . . . Doc Copeland never forgets his vitamins even when presiding over a Senate hearing. . . . He calmly interrupted proceedings when the merits and demerits of the Food and Drug Bill were being aired to drink a bottle of milk, first making sure it had been thoroughly shaken up.

SAVINGS BANKS

The directors' meetings of many savings banks are the setting for private pitched battles these days. They center on the question whether the savings banks should join the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Probably the majority of directors are opposed to any such tie-up with commercial banks. For a while they thought they had an out with a collective organization of their own. But now the issue has been actively revived and decisions must be made before deposit insurance goes into effect the first of the year.

When the tumult and the shouting die you will find most of these banks have joined. A few of the big ones will set the pace and the rest won't care to be left out in the rain even though they swear when they sign.

Henry Bruer has been a powerful factor in getting his associates to see it the government's way. He is sharply criticized in some quarters for swallowing the Washington prescription whole.

INSURANCE

Local bankers understand that Winthrop Aldrich's suggestion for continuing temporary deposit insurance indefinitely and forgetting about the permanent plan is acceptable to the Senate Committee and will probably be recommended to Congress. It is one of the few things Aldrich has done for which they are sincerely grateful.

Most of the big banks would be willing to accept this compromise without argument. They realize the futility of urging complete repeal of the measure at present.

GLASS

New York hears that Senator Carter Glass has Professor Kemmerer and H. Parker Willis—former Secretary of the Federal Reserve Board—hard at work digging up statistical ammunition for his use at the next session. Kemmerer and Willis are 33rd degree sound moneyites. Part of their research is aimed to discredit the administration's monetary policy. Another part is to prove that the Stock Exchange sinned worse than the Federal Reserve system in fostering speculation.

For once the bankers crave to see the Senator's plume in the thick of battle. Their new-found affection for him is astonishing.

MARKETS

Keen local observers like the way the security markets acted in early December and have more than a hunch that Washington likes it, too. They haven't behaved so prettily in a long time. A slow but steady climb without fancy fireworks mirrors beautifully the broad improvement picture which the administration is trying to paint.

This isn't entirely accidental. Banking interests are back in the stock market and come pretty close to determining its trend in these days of slim trading. They are the same interests howling bloody murder about gold purchases a few short weeks ago. But there are strong men who are out to smash the mirror.

HARRIMAN

The conservator of the Harriman Bank is planning legal action against the New York Clearing House banks for failing to redeem their pledge to keep the Harriman out of trouble. Suit is likely to be instituted in a week or so. The government will not be a direct party to the proceedings but will have more than an academic interest in the outcome.

New York State's Milk Control Board is having its woes. Its price-fixing policy has kept the farmers happy so far but is being undermined by distributors who bootleg more than their quota of cheaper milk from other states for the New York City market. Production control is difficult for the same reason.

The AAA has held back on a marketing code for this district to give state authorities a chance. Several codes were submitted from here but none were satisfactory to Washington authorities and an imposed code will probably be the answer. If state control breaks down before the AAA is ready to step in it will be just too bad.

The Chicago district is the largest now operating under an AAA milk code. There has been a good bit of chiseling. Several distributors' licenses have been revoked and more are to follow. The Philadelphia district has had communist troubles and there is some

Keen local observers like the way the security markets acted in early December and have more than a hunch that Washington likes it, too. They haven't behaved so prettily in a long time. A slow but steady climb without fancy fireworks mirrors beautifully the broad improvement picture which the administration is trying to paint.

This isn't entirely accidental. Banking interests are back in the stock market and come pretty close to determining its trend in these days of slim trading. They are the same interests howling bloody murder about gold purchases a few short weeks ago. But there are strong men who are out to smash the mirror.

HARRIMAN

The conservator of the Harriman Bank is planning legal action against the New York Clearing House banks for failing to redeem their pledge to keep the Harriman out of trouble. Suit is likely to be instituted in a week or so. The government will not be a direct party to the proceedings but will have more than an academic interest in the outcome.

MILK

New York State's Milk Control Board is having its woes. Its price-fixing policy has kept the farmers happy so far but is being undermined by distributors who bootleg more than their quota of cheaper milk from other states for the New York City market. Production control is difficult for the same reason.

The AAA has held back on a marketing code for this district to give state authorities a chance. Several codes were submitted from here but none were satisfactory to Washington authorities and an imposed code will probably be the answer. If state control breaks down before the AAA is ready to step in it will be just too bad.

The Chicago district is the largest now operating under an AAA milk code. There has been a good bit of chiseling. Several distributors' licenses have been revoked and more are to follow. The Philadelphia district has had communist troubles and there is some

County First In Per Acre Value All Fruits And Nuts

U. S. STATISTICS SHOW ORANGE COUNTY LEADS

Agriculturally, Orange county is the richest county in the United States, according to figures received today from the department of commerce, bureau of the census, at Washington. The figures were based on the 1930 official census.

More actual cash per acre was returned to growers in Orange county than in any other county in the nation, it was revealed. During the year, returns from Orange county's 63,977 acres in fruits and nuts averaged $673.72. Los Angeles county, which ranked first in total receipts with a total acreage of 91,333 producing fruits and nuts, was second in the per acre figures with an average of $496.86.

The total value of fruits and nuts produced in Orange county for the year was $43,102,274. This county led every county in the nation in the per acre produced value of fruits and nuts in spite of the fact that it ranked ninth in the nation in the number of acres of land devoted to the production of fruits and nuts. Los Angeles county returned $45,405,615 to growers with fruits and nuts as their products. Los Angeles county has 7406 more acres planted to fruits and nuts than has Orange county, while the returns to growers were but $2,303,341 greater for the total. Oranges are the principal fruit produced in both counties.

Figures furnished by the bureau of the census listed the 65 leading counties of the nation, of which Orange county led all the rest in returned value per acre.

These counties were located in 15 states, one or more in each geographic division, except the west central and the east south central division. California had 28 counties, Florida 8, New York and Washington six each and Oregon and Virginia three each. California had the six leading counties, Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino, Tulare, Fresno and Ventura.

The total value of the crop of fruits and nuts in the United States was $655,706,389 with a total of 6,472,840 acres in production. The value of fruits and nuts represented 8.1 per cent of the value of all crops, exclusive of forest, nursery and greenhouse products.

While the average return per acre for fruits and nuts in Orange county was $673.72, the average for the 65 leading counties of the nation amounted to but $100.06.

NEW POISON FUNGUS FOUND

HOOD RIVER, Ore.—(UP)—Discovery that a certain member of the Boletus (pore) variety of fungus, thought harmless, is poisonous was made here by J. R. Keinholz, federal pathologist. Keinholz ate a small bit of the fungus and later became violently ill. A heart stimulant was necessary to save his life.

STORK SURPRISED MOTHER

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa —(UP)—Mrs. Doriz Torrez expected an increase in her family of six to seven, but was totally unprepared when the stork brought triplets. The new arrivals were placed in oatmeal boxes by Dr. Mary Tinley, who hurried them to Mercy hospital where they were placed in a baby incubator.

WILL SANTA MISS HIM?

Not for this lad and hundreds like him in Santa Ana are the shiny new toys that bring excited cries to Santa Claus from more fortunate youngsters. But just one toy, one bag of candy, would help a lot, and warm clothes might be a blessing. Bring your contribution to the big Register-Broadway Christmas benefit show next Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock and share your Christmas joys with a boy or girl and his family. Any toys, food or article of clothing will admit a boy or girl for the big two-hour special show.

SPEAKERS TO MAKE APPEAL FOR SEAL SALE

Speakers who will appeal for support of the sale of Christmas Seals for work against tuberculosis, who will address radio audiences over KREG from 12 noon till 12:15 p.m. the week before Christmas were announced today. The schedule follows:

December 19: C. B. Baldwin, Huntington Beach, to speak on "What is Back of the Christmas Seal." Musical program by Jean Baldwin.

December 20: Question and answer program by member of county medical association. Music by Miss Theo Swigart.

December 21: Program by R. W. Balch, Anaheim, president of the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association, Ltd.

December 22: Rev. Robert Burns McAulay, Orange, to talk in behalf of seal sale support. Program of Christmas songs by Miss Josephine Durgan, accompanied by Miss Ruth Bower.

December 23: Mrs. Glen A. Young, Santa Ana, secretary of the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association, Ltd. Musical program by Santa Ana Girl Reserves.

"With only a few days before Christmas we hope that the Yule Log of the Christmas seal campaign of the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association will be pulled in successfully by the support of our Orange county residents," A. J. Cruickshank, treasurer of the association, said today. "Financial support at this time is most necessary to carry on the much needed program to prevent and cure tuberculosis as this association has adopted as its objective to further better community health."

He asks that all who have not yet paid for their seals do so as early as possible, to the Christmas Seal headquarters, First National bank building, Santa Ana.

COAST GROUP TO ASK AID IN TREE PLANTING

Making its first official move toward its object, the Coast Council on Highway Beautification, meeting Saturday afternoon at the Hotel Laguna, named a committee of three to suggest to the board of supervisors that a project for planting 20 miles of trees along Coast Highway be included in the county CWA program. This would tie in with six miles of highway planting already secured through the same source by the city of Newport Beach, and which will extend from the Santa Ana river to Corona del Mar and the project which will be presented today for the planting of the Cliffs section of Laguna Beach by the newly organized park and tree board.

Dr. Thomas Spencer Miller, president of the council; Dr. C. G. Huston of Costa Mesa, father of the movement that led to the organization of the council through the Orange County Coast association, and R. L. Patterson, city engineer of Newport Beach, comprise the committee that will urge the improvement. Cooperation of the state planning commission has been promised.

At Saturday's meeting the council adopted a constitution and bylaws and perfected its organization. Dr. Miller was elected president; Mr. Huston, vice president, and J. Sherman Denny of Huntington Beach, secretary-treasurer. The officers will form the executive committee and were granted ad interim powers. W. C. Watkins of Coast Royal was appointed chairman of a committee on eligible organizations, with power to name other members. Under the constitution, all members, unless elected at large, must be the accredited representatives of organizations such as civic and service clubs. The following publicity committee was named: Hal Forrest and A. C. Peterson, Laguna Beach; Mrs. Stella White, Huntington Beach; Charles Crawford, Newport Beach and K. P. Frederick, Long Beach.

Children's Party Tree Is Prepared

A huge Christmas tree in Birch park was ablaze with a myriad of twinkling colored lights Saturday night on the scene of the big Christmas Tree party for all children in Santa Ana under 12 years of age which will be held next Sunday at 1:30 p.m. and which is sponsored by Santa Ana American Legion post No. 131, it was announced today by Commander Charles S. Swanner.

The tree will be lighted each night from now on until after the party, which is expected to attract hundreds of Santa Ana children.

Announcement was made in all schools Friday inviting children to participate in the gala holiday event and George Kellogg, chairman of the committee in charge, is arranging to care for the huge crowd.

An attractive program of entertainment will be offered from the band stand, and Santa Claus will be on hand to add to the enjoyment of the day for children.

Pleasant Event Marks Fortieth Wedding Anniversary

Eloquent of a California garden on a sunny midwinter day were floral decorations yesterday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus G. Lassiter, 1209 West Sixth street, where a delightful at home was given to observe the 40th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Lassiter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clem of 1068 West Third street.

Carnations and other flowers, many of which had been sent in as gifts, made the home a bower of bloom. There was a prominence of sunny yellow blossoms. An especially graceful effect had been achieved through the use of yellow baby 'mums intertwined with ferns at a lattice archway arranged between the living and dining rooms. A miniature bride and bridegroom in appropriate attire were in memory of the wedding day of 40 years ago.

More than 65 friends of Mr. and Mrs. Clem, including former acquaintances in Anderson, Indiana, their home city, took part in the pleasant observance. Many members of Sarah A. Rounds tent, D. U. V., in which Mrs. Clem is an active member, were present.

The two little granddaughters of the honor guests, the Misses Phyllis Jean Schultz and Drucilla May Clem met guests at the door, presenting them with corsage bouquets of yellow baby 'mums. Phyllis Jean and Drucilla May also assisted in dispensing punch and cookies throughout the afternoon. Mrs. Lassiter, Mrs. Charles Schultz and Mrs. Virgil Clem presided over the serving.

Numbered in the group of brothers and sisters taking part in the event with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clem, were Elmer Clem, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Clem and daughter and son, Drucilla May and Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Lassiter and son, Marcus jr., (Skippy), of Santa Ana; Dr. Kenneth Clem, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schultz and daughter and son, Phyllis Jean and Charles, of Torrance.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clem are well known here, where they have lived for the past 22 years. They were married in Anderson, Indiana, December 17, 1893.

Calumpit Auxiliary

Sewing Circle

During their all-day meeting held last week with Mrs. John Markwalder, 949 West Chestnut street, members of Calumpit Auxiliary Sewing Circle presented an electric iron to Miss Louise Markwalder, daughter of the home. She is to become the bride of Orville Bachman in the very near future.

Snapdragons and other flowers decked the home for the occasion. Beneath a decorated Christmas tree members placed articles of food for needy families, making these contributions instead of holding a gift exchange.

The day was spent in sewing. At noon a covered-dish luncheon was served. Special guests were Mr. Markwalder, W. W. Tantlinger and Warren Du Bois, members of Calumpit camp.

Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Cora Graham, who sang several solos.

On the committee in charge were Mesdames John Markwalder, Nannie Reed and Estelle Dresser. Others present were Mesdames Katherine Reagan, Eleanor Shaw, Luella Randel, Elizabeth Schmitt, May Glaze, Julia Williams, Cora Graham, Jean Tantlinger, Hazel Hall, Clo Showalter, Mamie McDonnell, Neva Weekly, Minnie Norman, Laura B. Du Bois, Maude M. Brown and Miss Louise Markwalder.

Church Societies

Spurgeon Methodist

Baskets of poinsettias brightened the L. W. Slaback home, 418 West Pine street, for a Christmas program held last week by the Women's Missionary society of Spurgeon Memorial church. Lights glowed from a decorated Christmas tree in the library.

Following Scripture reading by Mrs. Walter Fine and prayer by Mrs. A. A. Jones, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Ernest Layton, program chairman. Mrs. C. M. Aker told a Christmas story, after which Jane Zink, Glenn Layton and Jim Gulledge formed a trio playing selections on Hawaiian guitars.

Mary Willeigh Hunter and Lela Slaback played a piano duet; Irma Baxter Owen sang solos, accompanied at the piano by Frances Nuckolls; Lela Slaback played a piano solo.

During the day a silk quilt pieced by Mrs. Henry Donan and finished by members of the Louise Aker circle, was on display.

Refreshments were served by a committee including Mesdames Ernest Layton, W. O. Lewis, Walter Fine, Leond Elliott, C. E. Olson and the hostess, Mrs. Slaback.

Fifty-six members and guests attended.

Young People's Affair

Following a business meeting this week at the church, members of the Upward and Onward Bible class of Orange Avenue Christian church entertained young people of the community with a program.

The Rev. Lertis R. Elliott of San Bernardino was speaker on the interesting program, in charge of J. J. Kelly, president of the class. There were songs by the congregation; vocal solos, "Thanks Be to God" and "Desert Song" by Lewis Riehl of Fullerton, accompanied by Mrs. George Riehl; a song, "Just Outside the Door," by Cleland Harbaugh, Lloyd Stevens, Ollie Beale, Joe Grimshaw, Charlie Morgan, William Harmon and Warren Bradley, with Miss Alta Hoff at the piano. The Rev. C. F. Martin, church pastor, concluded the meeting with prayer.

A reception followed in the dining hall, where cake, coffee and chocolate were served at tables decorated in Christmas colors. Mrs. H. B. Lindley, Mrs. E. B. Moritz, Mrs. Kenneth Green, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bartholomew, J. B. Smith and A. R. Browning were on the committee in charge of refreshments.

Party Guests Shower Bride-elect With Kitchen Ware

For the final pre-nuptial party honoring Miss Esther Jamieson, who tonight will be wedded to William T. Brown, Mrs. Clyde Cathcart and Mrs. Fred Pearson entertained Saturday evening at a shower in the Cathcart home on East Third street.

Amidst gay red and green holiday decorations which included many poinsettias and ferns, the guests spent a merry evening, part of which was devoted to games and part to the hemming of towels for the honor guest. The shower features of the evening seemed in keeping with decorations, for gifts were of pretty kitchenware, almost exclusively in green.

In serving refreshments of French pasteries with red and green decorations, beaten jello with whipped cream and fruit punch, the hostesses used clever nutcups which they had fashioned in poinsettia form to hold nuts and candies.

Invited to share this enjoyable compliment to a bride-elect were Miss Jamieson's mother, Mrs. E. E. Jamieson, and Mrs. David Brown, mother of her fiance; Mesdames Lauretta Jones, Millard Boyd, R. D. Baxter, Myrtle Stewart, Mae Woodside, Nell Thompson, Fern Waite, Nathan Hughes, L. J. Ward, G. W. Hunton, Don Crumley, Gordon Evanson, Tom Hogland, A. H. Jamieson, Melvin Marshall, Fred Devenney, Laudenbach, Mae Langseth, Margaret Evans, the Misses Mae Chilcoat, Opal Chilcoat, Vivin Devenney, Alice Ward, Ruth Cathcart, Margaret Jamieson, Thelma Jamieson and Marie Stewart, with Mrs. Pearson, Mrs. Cathcart and Miss Jamieson to complete the merry group.

Daughters Meet For December Tea

Members of Sarah A. Rounds tent Daughters of Union Veterans, found their December tea an event of special enjoyment last week in the home of the Misses Bertha and Emma Belt at Garden Grove.

Contributing to a pleasant setting was the blazing fire on the hearth. As guests arrived they placed packages on a decorated tree for a gift exchange which followed. During the afternoon the group did needlework.

Refreshments of plum pudding, coffee, popcorn balls and candy were served on individual trays lighted with tiny Christmas candles. On the committee in charge were the Misses Bertha and Emma Belt, Mrs. Cora Graham, Miss Grace Grigsby and Miss Adda Cowan.

Jaysee Alumni Dance Draws Large Crowd Of Students

Exceeding in charm and brilliance previous junior college functions of the year, the Santa Ana Junior college Christmas Alumni dance was held Friday night in Virginia Country club, Long Beach. Striking decorations in the seasonal colors of red, silver and green, in the clubhouse found their complement in the dance programs designed by Miss Mary Louise Wallace.

During dancing to Cally Holden's orchestra rhythms, an intermission brought Santa Claus (Charles Tibbetts, of the faculty) who distributed balloons and added to the gayety of the evening. Bridge was played by patrons and patronesses. Punch was served throughout the evening.

Miss Kathryn Bement, social commissioner, was responsible for the success of the semi-formal affair and had the cooperation of Miss Irene Boyer, Jack Havens and Miss Frances Wilbur.

Patrons and patronesses attending were Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. McKee Fisk, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Bruff, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tibbetts, Mr. and Mrs. John McCoy, Mrs. John Tessmann, Mrs. Robert Northcross, Miss Agness Todd Miller and Harry Jackson.

Holiday Decorations Used for Bridge Breakfast

Entertaining members of her bridge club last week, Mrs. Frank Ey was hostess at a pleasant affair in her home, 201 East Ninth street. Lighted red tapers and bouquets of holly had been arranged throughout the rooms in readiness for the enjoyable event.

At 11:30 o'clock a delicious breakfast was served at small tables, each brightened with a Christmas taper and holly berries. Bridge games followed, with Mrs. H. W. Rust and Mrs. Connors scoring first and second high. Mrs. Henry Jacobs was consoled.

Mrs. Ey invited a group of members of St. Joseph P.-T. A. to take part in the affair with the club. They include Mrs. Wm. Maag, Mrs. U. J. Engelman, Mrs. Charles Borchard and Mrs. Conners. Others present were Mrs. H. Wells, Mrs. R. Waterman, Mrs. M. Chapman, Mrs. John Huff, Mrs. Harry Lykke and Mrs. George Rhinehart, Tejunga; Mrs. Margaret Gilligan, Mrs. Henry Jacobs and Mrs. Alfred Read, Los Angeles; Mrs. H. W. Rust and Miss Margaret Rust, Tustin.

During the day the group made a contribution to the treasury of St. Joseph P.-T. A.

NEW NOTE IN NECKLINE INTEREST

PATTERN 1722

BY ANNE ADAMS

There are so many ways of making the neckline of your new afternoon frock becoming—but we think this one the darling of them all! Here a deep V vestee with a high cowl neckline lends a striking note of contrast against the dark, rich monotone of the frock. Three artificial flowers worn under the chin add an irresistible touch of chic. The new drop shoulder line is deftly asserted, and tucked sleeves achieve moderate fullness; hips are infinitely slimmed with smart skirt panels. You'll love it of satin, velvet, faille or mossy crepe, using bengaline, lame or satin for contrast.

Pattern 1722 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 3 1-8 yards 39 inch fabric and 7-8 yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Parent-Teachers

Three hundred and fifty bags of candy prepared by Spurgeon P.-T. A. and friends were distributed last week to children at Spurgeon school following a program put on by the students for their mothers and friends.

In the morning, lower grades of The school gave the program which included a play, "Santa Claus," put on by the kindergarten and first and second grades, with the assistance of a fourth grade student as Santa Claus, under the direction of Miss Maurie Hamil.

Kindergarten students sang "A Strike of Christmas Toys;" second grade students, directed by Inez Hickman, gave a play; Herbert Lee gave readings; first grade boys and girls, wearing white gowns and carrying candles, sang; Miss Osborn's second grade presented a play, "Waiting for the Carol Singers."

The afternoon program, in charge of Mrs. Minnie McVey, opened with a play by the sixth grade. Mrs. Butterfield's fifth grade sang; Ruth Hawley gave readings; Betty Jean Koster played a waltz number, with fifth grade students singing an appropriate chorus; Jimmie Hull and James Cruz played a Christmas medley on violins, with David Craighead accompanying; Eugenia Bond and Nancy Steinberger gave readings; Eugene Frisby played a piano accordion solo; Barbara Thwaite and Irma Jean May gave readings. The entire audience joined in singing carols at the close of the program. Candy was distributed from a large Christmas tree in the auditorium.

Executive Board

Candy given to the students had been wrapped at a meeting of Spurgeon P.-T. A. executive board held earlier in the week.

At this time, the citizenship committee, headed by Mrs. Jerry McCain, appeared requesting that flood lights be installed on the school grounds for the Boy Scout Cub troop. The committee reported that its members would guarantee the cost of inside wiring, and that interested friends would donate equipment for outside wiring. The board voted to let the committe go ahead with its plans for flood lights.

Mrs. James Givens, president, was in charge of the meeting.

McKinley

McKinley P.-T. A. made its December meeting the occasion for an evening Christmas program in Willard auditorium.

First and second grade students opened the program with "The Woman and the Shoe," under the direction of Miss Wilma Plavan, Miss Artie Cleveland and Mrs. Evangeline Stark. Robert Williams gave a reading, "I'll Be Glad When Christmas Is Over."

Upper grades, under the direction of Mrs. Ruby Drake and Miss Beryl Hatch, presented a Christmas pageant written by Mrs. Drake.

Mrs. John J. Mills, president, was in charge of the P.-T. A. business meeting.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Breakfast

1-2 grapefruit, no sugar
4 canned apricots with
2 Tbsps. syrup
1 coddled egg
1 thin slice bran toast
1 tsp. butter
1 cup coffee with
1-4 cup hot skim milk, no sugar.

Calory total, 345.

Substitute 1-2 of a saccharine tablet for each teaspoonful of sugar used in coffee. In baking apples allow 2 tablets for each apple.

Eggs are coddled by dropping them into rapidly boiling water, the vessel immediately taken off the fire, covered, and let stand from eight to twelve minutes, depending on the way one likes eggs cooked.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Pineapple-Cheese Salad

1 cup crushed pineapple
4 Tbsps. sugar
Juice of 1 1-2 lemons
2 Tbsps. gelatine
1-2 cup water
Pinch of salt
1 cup grated cheese
2 egg whites beaten stiff
1 cup whipped cream

Heat slowly, pineapple, lemon juice and sugar. Soften the gelatine in the half-cup of cold water, stir into the hot mixture and continue stirring until the gelatine has completely dissolved. Remove from the fire and cool. Hasten this process by putting the dish in a pan of cold water. As soon as the bottom shows signs of jellying, stir in the cup of grated cheese.

Beat the whites very stiff—so that a knife can be sliced through them—and whip through the jelling mixture. Add the whipped cream last of all, and be sure that it is quite, quite chilled, if you wish to avoid a greasy, butter-y salad. (Fold in the whipped cream, do not beat it in.)

Pile the salad into a ring mould rinsed with cold water, chill until well set (about 3 hours in refrigerator).

To serve: Dip the mould in and out of a pan of hot water, invert on a bed of shredded lettuce and serve with this special mayonnaise mix:

To one cup of thick mayonnaise add the juice of 1 lemon and 2 tablespoonfuls of pineapple juice. Fold through the dressing 1 tablespoonful, each, of finely shaved green pepper and canned pimiento.

This salad serves eight generously. With 2 tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise for each serving, the individual calory value totals 400.

Cream and mayonnaise put this salad definitely into the energy-making class. If your energy needs cannot utilize these calories AS ENERGY, the prudent body banks these units as FAT.

CHURCH CLUBS FRATERNAL WOMEN ~ SOCIETY ~ THE HOME WEDDINGS FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

Pleasant Event Marks Fortieth Wedding Anniversary

Eloquent of a California garden on a sunny midwinter day were floral decorations yesterday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus G. Lassiter, 1209 West Sixth street, where a delightful at home was given to observe the 40th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Lassiter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clem of 1068 West Third street.

Carnations and other flowers, many of which had been sent in as gifts, made the home a bower of bloom. There was a prominence of sunny yellow blossoms. An especially graceful effect had been achieved through the use of yellow baby 'mums intertwined with ferns at a lattice archway arranged between the living and dining rooms. A miniature bride and bridegroom in appropriate attire were in memory of the wedding day of 40 years ago.

More than 65 friends of Mr. and Mrs. Clem, including former acquaintances in Anderson, Indiana, their home city, took part in the pleasant observance. Many members of Sarah A. Rounds tent, D. U. V., in which Mrs. Clem is an active member, were present.

The two little granddaughters of the honor guests, the Misses Phyllis Jean Schultz and Drucilla May Clem met guests at the door, presenting them with corsage bouquets of yellow baby 'mums. Phyllis Jean and Drucilla May also assisted in dispensing punch and cookies throughout the afternoon. Mrs. Lassiter, Mrs. Charles Schultz and Mrs. Virgil Clem presided over the serving.

Numbered in the group of brothers and sisters taking part in the event with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clem, were Elmer Clem, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Clem and daughter and son, Drucilla May and Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Lassiter and son, Marcus jr., (Skippy), of Santa Ana; Dr. Kenneth Clem, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schultz and daughter and son, Phyllis Jean and Charles, of Torrance.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clem are well known here, where they have lived for the past 22 years. They were married in Anderson, Indiana, December 17, 1893.

Calumpit Auxiliary

Sewing Circle

During their all-day meeting held last week with Mrs. John Markwalder, 949 West Chestnut street, members of Calumpit Auxiliary Sewing Circle presented an electric iron to Miss Louise Markwalder, daughter of the home. She is to become the bride of Orville Bachman in the very near future.

Snapdragons and other flowers decked the home for the occasion. Beneath a decorated Christmas tree members placed articles of food for needy families, making these contributions instead of holding a gift exchange.

The day was spent in sewing. At noon a covered-dish luncheon was served. Special guests were Mr. Markwalder, W. W. Tantlinger and Warren Du Bois, members of Calumpit camp.

Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Cora Graham, who sang several solos.

On the committee in charge were Mesdames John Markwalder, Nannie Reed and Estelle Dresser. Others present were Mesdames Katherine Reagan, Eleanor Shaw, Luella Randel, Elizabeth Schmitt, May Glaze, Julia Williams, Cora Graham, Jean Tantlinger, Hazel Hall, Clo Showalter, Mamie McDonnell, Neva Weekly, Minnie Norman, Laura B. Du Bois, Maude M. Brown and Miss Louise Markwalder.

Church Societies

Spurgeon Methodist

Baskets of poinsettias brightened the L. W. Slaback home, 418 West Pine street, for a Christmas program held last week by the Women's Missionary society of Spurgeon Memorial church. Lights glowed from a decorated Christmas tree in the library.

Following Scripture reading by Mrs. Walter Fine and prayer by Mrs. A. A. Jones, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Ernest Layton, program chairman. Mrs. C. M. Aker told a Christmas story, after which Jane Zink, Glenn Layton and Jim Gulledge formed a trio playing selections on Hawaiian guitars.

Mary Willeigh Hunter and Lela Slaback played a piano duet; Irma Baxter Owen sang solos, accompanied at the piano by Frances Nuckolls; Lela Slaback played a piano solo.

During the day a silk quilt pieced by Mrs. Henry Donan and finished by members of the Louise Aker circle, was on display.

Refreshments were served by a committee including Mesdames Ernest Layton, W. O. Lewis, Walter Fine, Leond Elliott, C. E. Olson and the hostess, Mrs. Slaback.

Fifty-six members and guests attended.

Young People's Affair

Following a business meeting this week at the church, members of the Upward and Onward Bible class of Orange Avenue Christian church entertained young people of the community with a program.

The Rev. Lertis R. Elliott of San Bernardino was speaker on the interesting program, in charge of J. J. Kelly, president of the class. There were songs by the congregation; vocal solos, "Thanks Be to God" and "Desert Song" by Lewis Riehl of Fullerton, accompanied by Mrs. George Riehl; a song, "Just Outside the Door," by Cleland Harbaugh, Lloyd Stevens, Ollie Beale, Joe Grimshaw, Charlie Morgan, William Harmon and Warren Bradley, with Miss Alta Hoff at the piano. The Rev. C. F. Martin, church pastor, concluded the meeting with prayer.

A reception followed in the dining hall, where cake, coffee and chocolate were served at tables decorated in Christmas colors. Mrs. H. B. Lindley, Mrs. E. B. Moritz, Mrs. Kenneth Green, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bartholomew, J. B. Smith and A. R. Browning were on the committee in charge of refreshments.

Party Guests Shower Bride-elect With Kitchen Ware

For the final pre-nuptial party honoring Miss Esther Jamieson, who tonight will be wedded to William T. Brown, Mrs. Clyde Cathcart and Mrs. Fred Pearson entertained Saturday evening at a shower in the Cathcart home on East Third street.

Amidst gay red and green holiday decorations which included many poinsettias and ferns, the guests spent a merry evening, part of which was devoted to games and part to the hemming of towels for the honor guest. The shower features of the evening seemed in keeping with decorations, for gifts were of pretty kitchenware, almost exclusively in green.

In serving refreshments of French pastries with red and green decorations, beaten jello with whipped cream and fruit punch, the hostesses used clever nutcups which they had fashioned in poinsettia form to hold nuts and candies.

Invited to share this enjoyable compliment to a bride-elect were Miss Jamieson's mother, Mrs. E. E. Jamieson, and Mrs. David Brown, mother of her fiance; Mesdames Lauretta Jones, Millard Boyd, R. D. Baxter, Myrtle Stewart, Mae Woodside, Nell Thompson, Fern Waite, Nathan Hughes, L. J. Ward, G. W. Hunton, Don Crumley, Gordon Evanson, Tom Hogland, A. H. Jamieson, Melvin Marshall, Fred Devenney, Laudenbach, Mae Langseth, Margaret Evans, the Misses Mae Chilcoat, Opal Chilcoat, Vivin Devenney, Alice Ward, Ruth Cathcart, Margaret Jamieson, Thelma Jamieson and Marie Stewart, with Mrs. Pearson, Mrs. Cathcart and Miss Jamieson to complete the merry group.

Busy Bee Club Enjoys Luncheon With Two Hostesses

Mrs. A. B. Gardner and Mrs. Anna Pendleton joined as hostesses at a delightful Christmas luncheon recently, entertaining members of the Busy Bee Sewing club in their home, 1602 North Broadway.

A table centered with a tiny Christmas tree and brightened with favors and red tapers, was utilized for the luncheon hour, when turkey and dressing were prominent features of the delicious menu served. A large Christmas tree served as setting for exchange of gifts which followed.

Those present other than Mrs. Gardner and Mrs. Pendleton, were Mesdames G. N. Greer, Roy Beall, Clarence White, Jack Miller, A. J. Lasby, Will J. Lindsay, David McBurney, W. R. McBurney, June Smiley, Ida Kimball and Lula Johnson.

Daughters Meet For December Tea

Members of Sarah A. Rounds tent Daughters of Union Veterans, found their December tea an event of special enjoyment last week in the home of the Misses Bertha and Emma Belt at Garden Grove.

Contributing to a pleasant setting was the blazing fire on the hearth. As guests arrived they placed packages on a decorated tree for a gift exchange which followed. During the afternoon the group did needlework.

Refreshments of plum pudding, coffee, popcorn balls and candy were served on individual trays lighted with tiny Christmas candles. On the committee in charge were the Misses Bertha and Emma Belt, Mrs. Cora Graham, Miss Grace Grigsby and Miss Adda Cowan.

Jaysee Alumni Dance Draws Large Crowd Of Students

Exceeding in charm and brilliance previous junior college functions of the year, the Santa Ana Junior college Christmas Alumni dance was held Friday night in Virginia Country club, Long Beach. Striking decorations in the seasonal colors of red, silver and green, in the clubhouse found their complement in the dance programs designed by Miss Mary Louise Wallace.

During dancing to Cally Holden's orchestra rhythms, an intermission brought Santa Claus (Charles Tibbetts, of the faculty) who distributed balloons and added to the gayety of the evening. Bridge was played by patrons and patronesses. Punch was served throughout the evening.

Miss Kathryn Bement, social commissioner, was responsible for the success of the semi-formal affair and had the cooperation of Miss Irene Boyer, Jack Havens and Miss Frances Wilbur.

Patrons and patronesses attending were Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. McKee Fisk, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Bruff, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tibbetts, Mr. and Mrs. John McCoy, Mrs. John Tessmann, Mrs. Robert Northcross, Miss Agness Todd Miller and Harry Jackson.

In addition to the large number of students sharing the merry evening alumni members attending included the Misses Dorothy Harmon, Mary Helen Bell, Hazel Hushman, Althea Lembke, Helen Bower, Florence Brownridge, Irene Ross, Mildred Congden, Clara Kate Owens, Ruth Owens, Velma Bishop, Louise Dalton, Betty Hawk, Frances Bowman, Ophelia Frost, Florence Cokeley, Mr. and Mrs. E. Holiday Decorations Used for Bridge Breakfast

Entertaining members of her bridge club last week, Mrs. Frank Ey was hostess at a pleasant affair in her home, 201 East Ninth street. Lighted red tapers and bouquets of holly had been arranged throughout the rooms in readiness for the enjoyable event.

At 11:30 o'clock a delicious breakfast was served at small tables, each brightened with a Christmas taper and holly berries. Bridge games followed, with Mrs. H. W. Rust and Mrs. Connors scoring first and second high. Mrs. Henry Jacobs was consoled.

Mrs. Ey invited a group of members of St. Joseph P.-T. A. to take part in the affair with the club. They include Mrs. Wm. Maag, Mrs. U. J. Engelman, Mrs. Charles Borchard and Mrs. Conners. Others present were Mrs. H. Wells, Mrs. R. Waterman, Mrs. M. Chapman, Mrs. John Huff, Mrs. Harry Lykke and Mrs. George Rhinehart, Tejunga; Mrs. Margaret Gilligan, Mrs. Henry Jacobs and Mrs. Alfred Read, Los Angeles; Mrs. H. W. Rust and Miss Margaret Rust, Tustin.

During the day the group made a contribution to the treasury of St. Joseph P.-T. A.

PATTERN 1722

BY ANNE ADAMS

There are so many ways of making the neckline of your new afternoon frock becoming—but we think this one the darling of them all! Here a deep V vestee with a high cowl neckline lends a striking note of contrast against the dark, rich monotone of the frock. Three artificial flowers worn under the chin add an irresistible touch of chic. The new drop shoulder line is deftly asserted, and tucked sleeves achieve moderate fullness; hips are infinitely slimmed with smart skirt panels. You'll love it of satin, velvet, faille or mossy crepe, using bengaline, lame or satin for contrast.

Pattern 1722 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 3 1-8 yards 39 inch fabric and 7-8 yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Parent-Teachers

Three hundred and fifty bags of candy prepared by Spurgeon P.-T. A. and friends were distributed last week to children at Spurgeon school following a program put on by the students for their mothers and friends.

In the morning, lower grades of The school gave the program which included a play, "Santa Claus," put on by the kindergarten and first and second grades, with the assistance of a fourth grade student as Santa Claus, under the direction of Miss Maurie Hamil.

Kindergarten students sang "A Strike of Christmas Toys;" second grade students, directed by Inez Hickman, gave a play; Herbert Lee gave readings; first grade boys and girls, wearing white gowns and carrying candles, sang; Miss Osborn's second grade presented a play, "Waiting for the Carol Singers."

The afternoon program, in charge of Mrs. Minnie McVey, opened with a play by the sixth grade. Mrs. Butterfield's fifth grade sang; Ruth Hawley gave readings; Betty Jean Koster played a waltz number, with fifth grade students singing an appropriate chorus; Jimmie Hull and James Cruz played a Christmas medley on violins, with David Craighead accompanying; Eugenia Bond and Nancy Steinberger gave readings; Eugene Frisby played a piano accordion solo; Barbara Thwaite and Irma Jean May gave readings. The entire audience joined in singing carols at the close of the program. Candy was distributed from a large Christmas tree in the auditorium.

Executive Board

Candy given to the students had been wrapped at a meeting of Spurgeon P.-T. A. executive board held earlier in the week.

At this time, the citizenship committee, headed by Mrs. Jerry McCain, appeared requesting that flood lights be installed on the school grounds for the Boy Scout Cub troop. The committee reported that its members would guarantee the cost of inside wiring, and that interested friends would donate equipment for outside wiring. The board voted to let the committe go ahead with its plans for flood lights.

Mrs. James Givens, president, was in charge of the meeting.

McKinley

McKinley P.-T. A. made its December meeting the occasion for an evening Christmas program in Willard auditorium.

First and second grade students opened the program with "The Woman and the Shoe," under the direction of Miss Wilma Plavan. Miss Artie Cleveland and Mrs. Evangeline Stark. Robert Williams gave a reading, "I'll Be Glad When Christmas Is Over."

Upper grades, under the direction of Mrs. Ruby Drake and Miss Beryl Hatch, presented a Christmas pageant written by Mrs. Drake.

Mrs. John J. Mills, president, was in charge of the P.-T. A. business meeting.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Breakfast

1-2 grapefruit, no sugar
4 canned apricots with
2 Tbsps. syrup
1 coddled egg
1 thin slice bran toast
1 tsp. butter
1 cup coffee with
1-4 cup hot skim milk, no sugar.

Calory total, 345.

Substitute 1-2 of a saccharine tablet for each teaspoonful of sugar used in coffee. In baking apples allow 2 tablets for each apple.

Eggs are coddled by dropping them into rapidly boiling water, the vessel immediately taken off the fire, covered, and let stand from eight to twelve minutes, depending on the way one likes eggs cooked.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Pineapple-Cheese Salad

1 cup crushed pineapple
4 Tbsps. sugar
Juice of 1 1-2 lemons
2 Tbsps. gelatine
1-2 cup water
Pinch of salt
1 cup grated cheese
2 egg whites beaten stiff
1 cup whipped cream

Heat slowly, pineapple, lemon juice and sugar. Soften the gelatine in the half-cup of cold water, stir into the hot mixture and continue stirring until the gelatine has completely dissolved. Remove from the fire and cool. Hasten this process by putting the dish in a pan of cold water. As soon as the bottom shows signs of jellying, stir in the cup of grated cheese.

Beat the whites very stiff—so that a knife can be sliced through them—and whip through the jelling mixture. Add the whipped cream last of all, and be sure that it is quite, quite chilled, if you wish to avoid a greasy, butter-y salad. (Fold in the whipped cream, do not beat it in.)

Pile the salad into a ring mould rinsed with cold water, chill until well set (about 3 hours in refrigerator).

To serve: Dip the mould in and out of a pan of hot water, invert on a bed of shredded lettuce and serve with this special mayonnaise mix:

To one cup of thick mayonnaise add the juice of 1 lemon and 2 tablespoonfuls of pineapple juice. Fold through the dressing 1 tablespoonful, each, of finely shaved green pepper and canned pimiento.

This salad serves eight generously. With 2 tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise for each serving, the individual calory value totals 400.

Cream and mayonnaise put this salad definitely into the energy-making class. If your energy needs cannot utilize these calories AS ENERGY, the prudent body banks these units as FAT.

H. B. CITIZENS CO-OPERATE TO HELP LIBRARY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 18.—Coming to the aid of the public library, the Teachers' Reading club and other book reading clubs are cooperating to provide books that are in popular demand. A rental library has been formed where patrons may obtain the latest popular publications in fiction at a low rental, the charge being 5 cents for five days, payable in advance.

Mrs. T. B. Talbert, member of the library board, and prominent in club and social life, who took a prominent part in the new rental library plans, made personal solicitations and her efforts with those of others resulted in a fund which has provided most of the new books of fiction.

Having to economize in city expenditures the city budget provided less money for the library and this necessitated curtailment of purchases.

Following are the books placed on the shelves recently: "Its Up to the Women," by Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt; "The Shape of Things to Come," H. G. Wells; "Mutiny of the Bounty," James Norman and Charles Nordhoff; "Looking Forward," Franklin Roosevelt; "Mellon's Millions," Harvey O'Connor; "No Second Spring," Janet Beith; "Long Pennant," Oliver Lafarge; "Comrades of the Storm," Peter B. Kyne.

"Bonfire," Dorothy Canfield; "The Farm," Louis Bromfield; "Miss Bishop," Bess Streeter Aldrich; "Shifting Sands," Sara Ware Bassett; "Hilltops Clear," Emilie Loring; "Life, Love and Jeanette," Louise Platt Hauck; "Walls of Gold," Kathleen Norris.

"There's Always Another Year," Martha Ostensor; "Jonathon's Daughter," Lida Larrimore; "Adobe Walls," William P. White; "The Harsh Knife Outfit," Zane Grey; "Enchanted Ground," Temple Bailey; "Oil for the Lamps of China," Alice Tisdale Hobart; "Vanessa," Hugh Walpole; "The Beloved Stranger," Grace L. Hill; "Master of Jalua," Maza de la Roche; "The Old Man Dies," Elizabeth Sprigge; "Under Northern Stars," William McLeod Raine; "The Boat of Longing," O. E. Rolvaag; "Let the Hurricane Roar," Rose Wilder Lane; "Imitation of Life," Fannie Hurst.

"Two Black Sheep," Warwick Deeping; "Girl From Glengarry," Ralph Connor.

"Ranchero," Stewart Edward White; "I Cover the Waterfront," Max Miller; "The Proselyte," Susan Ertz; "Anthony Adverse," Hervey Allen; "Love's a Puzzle," Faith Baldwin; "Angle in the House," Kathleen Norris; "Grubstake," Mark Requa; "Ida Elizabeth," Sigrid Undset; "Fault of the Angels," Paul Horgan; "Ann Vickers," Sinclair Lewis; "Pong Wee's Harvest," Louise Jordon Miln; "The Great Crooner," Clarence B. Kelland; "Lost Laughter," Mateel Howe Farnham; "Jeremiah and the Princess," E. P. Oppenheim; "The Kennel Murder Case," S. S. Van Dine.

Books given to the library include: "A Set of Six," Joseph Conrad; "The Children," Edith Wharton; "The Green Hat," Michael Arlen; "Contraband," Clarence Kelland; "The Beast," Luke Allen; "The Last Adam," James Cozzens.

LAGUNA TO SEEK CWA FUNDS FOR TREES IN CLIFF SECTION

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 18.—A plan to plant all streets in the Cliffs section of Laguna Beach through CWA labor was revealed Saturday at the Hotel Laguna at a luncheon given by the shade tree committee of the Garden club to celebrate the appointment by the city council of a park and tree board.

Mayor Frank B. Champion, Senator William E. Brown, Stephen Chalmers and members of the park board, Miss Ann B. Mason, president; H. H. Henshaw, vice president, and C. E. Burnett, secretary, were guests of honor. Burnett told that the Civil Works administration will be asked to provide 640 trees, 2000 man hours of unskilled and 300 hours of skilled labor. The trees are to be spaced 100 feet apart. Material for the project will not cost more than $350.

Dr. Thomas Spencer Miller, chairman of the committee, presided. Each of the honor guests was called upon to speak as were Henry S. MacKay, noted architect; A. C. Peterson, Laguna publisher; J. Sherman Denny, of Huntington Beach; Dr. C. G. Huston, Costa Mesa; Frank W. Cuprien, artist; R. L. Patterson, Newport Beach, and F. A. Fletcher, Laguna Beach.

Stephen Chalmers read an original poem inspired by the death of a tree more than 30 years old and which he dedicated to Dr. Miller.

Work Started On Spanish Village State Park Road

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 18.—Paving of the San Clemente State park street from the Coast Highway to the caretaker's residence on the grounds started today. Dan Mulherron received authority to begin work from the state highway commissioners, who met in Long Beach last week.

Materials are being furnished by the state and labor expense is to be allowed by CWA. Five or six extra men will be given employment on this job for about four weeks. Several of the 35 men now enmployed at the park also will be employed on the work.

The double street will be fully paved, with parking in the middle.

Building of the caretaker's house is delayed until architect's plans are received here.

Vote without fail tomorrow!

YULE PROGRAM HELD BY MESA WOMEN'S CLUB

COSTA MESA, Dec. 18.—Informal games, Christmas carols and a pianologue, followed by a tea in the clubhouse sunroom, made up the Christmas program when members of the Friday Afternoon club met in the Woman's clubhouse Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Florence Morrill gave "Why the Chimes Ring," by Alden, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Edith Manderay. Carol singing was directed by Mrs. Carl R. Jackson, with Mrs. Manderay at the piano. The games were directed by Mrs. Lena Russell. Mrs. Jackson won first prize in the games, and Mrs. Ruth Raymond second. Mrs. Dolorese Morrison, in costume, depicted Santa Claus.

The clubhouse was decorated in the Christmas motif, many small evergreen trees, and much cotoneaster and poinsettia being used in the arrangements. Tea and cake were served by Mrs. E. N. Gage, assisted by Mrs. C. Plas. Mrs. Gage was chairman of decorations and refreshments.

Announcement was made that the music section will not meet again in December as per a previous announcement, but will meet next time January 22. The life and works of the composer, Edward McDowell, will be studied. Announcement was made that the Arts and Crafts section will hold its next meeting with Mrs. Ray Stedman, of Santa Ana. The meeting will be held on January 3. Mrs. Harry Schick is chairman of the section.

INSTALLATION CONDUCTED BY EASTERN STAR

GARDEN GROVE, Dec. 18.—An impressive ceremony was conducted at the K. of P. hall in Anaheim Friday evening, when officers of Garden Grove chapter of the Eastern Star were installed.

Charles B. Henry was master of ceremonies. Installing musician was Helen Edwards, of Fullerton; installing marshal, Mrs. Pauline Merchant; installing chaplain, Mrs. Ann Haster. Other officers were installed by the retiring worthy matron, Mrs. Mabel Doig, gowned in yellow chiffon, and retiring worthy patron, W. B. Merchant, with assistant installing officers, Mrs. Amber Burke, of Santa Ana, wearing blue crepe, and Mrs. Elsie Gillogly, of Orange, dressed in pink satin.

Officers installed were, worthy matron, Emma Kearns; worthy patron, Donald R. E. Waters; associate matron, Mrs. Ethel Schauer; associate patron, Ernest Fulsom; conductress, Alice T. Smith; associate conductress, Alice Keele; treasurer, Miss Marica Carmichael; secretary, Mrs. Mignon Waters.

Points of the star installed were: Electra, Mrs. Hattie Holmes; Ruth, Mrs. Erma Doosing; Esther, Mrs. Ella Wheeler, proxy for Pauline Merchant; Martha, Ann Ashley; Ada, Mrs. Clara Bryan; chaplain, Mrs. Emma Henry, proxy for Mrs. Ann Haster; marshal, Mrs. Camille Nichols; organist, Mrs. Otile Feamster; warden, Mrs. Dorothy Jentges; sentinel, R. E. Johnson, flag bearer, Mrs. Annabel Bryan; soloist, Mrs. Louise Lake.

All of the officers were dressed in white and carried yellow chrysanthemums and blue delphinium. The chapter room was decorated in a yuletide motif with baskets of cotoneaster berries and poinsettias.

During the evening a musical program was presented. Miss Frances Merchant played a violin cello solo "Berceuse," from the opera Jocelyn. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Donita Jordon. Mrs. Louise Lake sang, "Star of the East." The losing song, "Good Night," was rendered by Mrs. Otile Feamster.

Mrs. Mabel Doig was presented with a past matron's jewel by Mrs Mae Pearson, and W. B. Merchant received his past patron's jewel from Charles B. Henry. Mrs. Pearson and Mr. Henry held the respective offices of worthy matron and worthy patron when the local chapter was organized and Mrs. Doig was received into the order at that time.

Mrs. Mae Henry, of Garden Grove, 57th district deputy grand matron, and Mrs. Myrtle Clayton, of Brea 56th district deputy grand matron, were escorted to the east as were the matrons and patrons of 1933 and 1934, while the past matrons and past patrons of Garden Grove chapter were honored by introduction

SATURN, VENUS DRAW TOWARD CONJUNCTION

BY HAL FORREST

Saturn and Venus are drawing close together in the southwestern part of the evening sky and will be close to conjunction Wednesday evening. The actual conjunction takes place at 2 a. m. Thursday, when they will be separated in the sky by 20 minutes of arc (about two-thirds of the apparent diameter o fthe moon). However, they will be nearly as close Wednesday evening—so close in fact that the stargazers will be able to see them in prospective. Venus will be the bright star and will be below Saturn. Saturn will shine as a first magnitude star while Venus will be more than 80 times as bright as Saturn.

Although Venus will outshine Saturn as mortal eyes search the eveing sky wonderingly, so far as planets go the goddess of love is only a pigmy, like the earth, in comparison with the far away planet. While the equatorial diameter of the earth is approximately 8000 miles and that of Venus smaller by 300 miles, Saturn boasts an equatorial diameter of more than 75,000 miles and is second in size to Jupiter of the planets in the solar system.

Astronomers know very little about the planet Venus because it is surrounded by a heavy envelope of cloud-like vapor that accounts for its great brilliance. Because of this condition, astronomers have not been about to identify surface markings. The nearest approach of Venus to the earth, when it comes between the earth and the sun, is about 28,000,000 miles. Its mean distance from the sun is about seven-tenths of the earth's while Saturn's mean distance is 9.5 times that of the earth or close to 900,000,000 miles. Venus makes a revolution about the sun in less than 225 days while Saturn's journey requires about 29 1-2 years.

COAST COMMUNITIES JOIN IN CHRISTMAS LIGHTING PROGRAM

COSTA MESA, Dec. 18.—Reports coming from the committeemen along the 40 miles of coast line from Seal Beach to San Clemente, who have charge of this year's arrangement for the annual Christmas lighting program, indicate that a deeper interest is being taken in the event than before, Dr. C. G. Huston, who is directing the program, stated today. Considerable activity is being shown all along the line, he said, some communities having a portion of their lights on Sunday evening. The date set for the judging is Wednesday evening.

Reports are that Huntington Beach has Main street light posts decorated with lighted trees for two blocks through the business district, and has arranged a community tree at the corner of Main and Walnut streets. Newport Beach is planting a huge 16-foot live tree in a new city park that is being built on a cliff-side in Newport Heights. The tree will be ornamented in time for the judging Wednesday evening, it was said by John Siegel, assisting street superintendent, who is overseeing the job. Laguna Beach has planted a large tree in city-owned parking space opposite the Art gallery along the Coast highway, and will have it ready for inspection.

Several business places and civic organizations in Costa Mesa will participate. Some work has been done in Seal Beach and Sunset Beach, and locations south of Laguna Beach report considerable progress. Dr. Huston calls attention to the fact those participating for awards must make an entry, placing an application with their respective chamber of commerce heads or others directing the work.

A Christmas radio program, supplementing the lights fiesta, is being arranged over a Southern California network, it was announced.

Willard Smith, Ray Baldwin and V. D. Johnson will act as judges.

NEW OIL COMPANY FORMED AT BEACH

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 18.—The Oil Transit and Export company has been organized here by C. M. Rood, president; H. M. McVicar, vice president, and H. C. Cameron.

Reports that the new company planned to erect a refinery met with a denial from Rood, who said the company has no immediate plans for operations.

THIRD ANNUAL ARTISTS' BALL HELD SATURDAY

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 18.—Encouraged by the success of last year's event, which was attended by a large number of young people, the board of directors of the Laguna Beach Art association is planning big things for the third annual artists' costume ball to be held at the gallery, Coast boulevard and Cliff drive, next Saturday night.

"Cally" Holden's orchestra will furnish the music. President Louis Danz, of Anaheim, has urged on the board the need for more entertainment and he already has engaged a number of singers and dancers who will appear not only on the ballroom floor but during the supper to be served in the basement.

The floor of the basement is being paved with cement. It is laid out in blocks one yard square and the names of those who donated to the fund are being inscribed on the squares. The fund was started by the Junior Art association, through entertainments. The name of each member will appear in a square. The other squares were sold to individuals at $1.50 each. Some organizations subscribed. There are a few squares left but they must be purchased before Wedneeday of this week, it was stated.

Instead of the buffet supper served in previous years, tables will be laid in the basement and guests will not have to wait on themselves. The supper will be in charge of Mrs. Betty Repine. Mrs. Elinor Hutchings is co-operating with the board and will provide facilities for the handling and trying on of costumes which will be brought from Pasadena.

The door prize will be a beautiful landscape by W. Galen Doss, one of the better known of the Laguna Beach painters. Six other paintings will be given away as costume prizes.

Dancing will start at 9 p. m. and supper will be served continuously from 11 p. m. until the ball closes. The proceeds will go toward the building fund.

Be sure and vote tomorrow, and vote for Newport Harbor!

LEG BROKEN IN FALL

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 18.—Mrs. P. W. Smith, president of the San Clemente Woman's club, had the misfortune to fall while working about her home recently, suffering a leg fracture. She was taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital for treatment and is reported as doing well.

For the LOVE of EVE

by Lucy Walling

© 1933 BY NEA SERVICE INC

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Eve Bayless, pretty assistant to Earle Barnes, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, marries Dick Rader, a construction superintendent.4 Dick is sent to take charge of a construction job in the Adirondacks. It will require at least a year to complete but Eve refuses to go with him.

Mona Allen, copy writer, dislikes Eve and is constantly causing trouble at the office. She is responsible for several mistakes for which Eve is blamed.

Unknown to Dick, Eve has been playing the stock market, borrowing money from her mother and sister. She loses this, as well as all her own savings and $400 Dick left in the bank.

Following a misunderstanding at Christmas, weeks pass in which Eve does not hear from Dick. She is too stubborn to admit that she was wrong and apologize. Eve works harder at the office, trying to forget her troubles. Her mother comes to visit her and tries to persuade her to give up her job. Then Eve learns that Barnes, the advertising manager, is resigning and that she has been selected to take his place.

On a doctor's advice she takes her vacation early and decides to go to Pine Forest to see Dick. Eve feels they must arrive at some understanding about their future.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLVI

Dick was not at the boarding house when Eve arrived there. A servant answered the bell and invited Eve into the living room to wait for him. A moment later Mrs. Williams entered. Her blue eyes looked kindly and she settled herself for a chat but Eve neither disclosed the purpose of her visit or asked questions about Dick.

Presently Mrs. Williams excused herself and returned to the kitchen. Eve grew nervous and restless. Then she saw Dick's yellow roadster coming around the bend of the road. She sat stockstill. Dick stopped the car before the door and his companion—an attractive girl—stepped out, entered the house and passed down the center hall.

Dick drove on but soon reappeared. A moment later he stood in the great arched doorway of the hall, staring at Eve.

"Why, Eve!" he cried. Plainly he was embarrassed and Eve immediately thought of the girl who had been with him.

"Well, this is a surprise!" Dick was saying.

Eve's composure left her. She began to cry and this only increased Dick's embarrassment.

"Not here," he said. "Come up to my room." He led the way to a large upstairs bedroom. It was comfortable looking room—not at all as Eve had pictured life near a construction camp.

"You don't seem very pleased to see me," she said in a trembling voice.

"I'm surprised, that's all."

"Well, you may as well know I saw you with your girl friend," she said accusingly. "I'm sorry now that I came."

Dick laughed. "You needn't be," he said easily. "I was out at the job this morning and picked her up on the way back. She's one of the neighbors who live here and she was walking home from church. It wouldn't have been very polite to pass her by, would it?"

"It looked odd to me."

"See here!" Dick said hotly. "I'll not be put on the defensive just for giving a person a lift."

"Oh, Dick—we're quarrelling again and I didn't want to."

He turned away from her and looked out the window.

"Dick," Eve began timidly. He half-turned. "Dick, I was so lonely!" she added wistfully. He turned and she was in his arms.

Ebe found the little town of Pine Forest enchanting. It had been setled by enterprising sons and daughters of New England pioneers, hence its architecture was strictly colonial. All of the houses were painted white. Some had green blinds. Grouped at the Four Corners were the important buildings—the town hall, one story high and quaintly formed of cobblestones, a little cobblestone church, another church of wide white clapboards with a tall steeple, and a truly modern school house of red brick trimmed in white.

In the afternoon Dick took Eve for a drive into the woodland. The unpaved road wound in and out among the trees, downhill and up until they came to a clearing high above a lake. Below them the water, blue-black from the dense shadows resembled a huge mirror banked by foliage. Eve stood entranced and Dick's arm gently slipped about her.

"Like it, sweetheart," he asked.

"It's heavenly," she answered softly.

That night she slept more soundly than she had slept for months and awakened refreshed and eager for the new day.

They took more trips into the woods in the days that followed. "To think," Eve said one evening, "that you have been enjoying all this while I've been cooped up in an office worrying about petty jealousies and having general grief!"

"You didn't have to, you know," Dick reminded her. "And you need not go back."

"Oh, but I'm going!" she said instantly regretting her outburst. "You don't think I'm going to be within sight of my goal and then not stay to have the glory, do you?"

"No," she continued. "Some of my acquaintances will sit up and take notice when June first comes and Bixby's announce the name of their new advertising manager!"

Dick had often spoken of his Aunt Sophronia and he had promised to take Eve to see her some day. Since Aunt Sophronia's home was not far distant they set out early Saturday morning and drove south through the mountains and foothills into the Cherry Valley.

They followed the turnpike over rolling farm country until they came to a little village nestled among the hills.

"Oh, it's another green and white village!" cried Eve. "That's just the sort of background I had imagined for Aunt Sophronia."

Dick smiled. Eve's enthusiasm always pleased him.

They drove into the yard before a small colonial cottage and parked the car. Then Dick pulled the old-fashioned bell and set its ring pealing through the house.

A tall, wiry woman dressed in tight-fitting black greeted them.

"We are Aunt Sophronia's niece and nephew," Dick announced.

From an inner room a commanding voice called, "Send them in Hannah! Send them in!"

Sophronia Rader greeted her nephew affectionately, then turned to peer at Eve who went forward and graciously extended her hand.

"This is Eve, my wife," said Dick.

"Well glory be!" ejaculated the 90-year-old aunt. "I never expected to see you! Never expected Dick to marry in the first place. Bet you had to ask him."

Eve laughed. "Well that's just what my grandmother said."

Aunt Sophronia and Eve became friends immediately. Eve's heart warmed to the aged woman who had broken a hip at the age of 80 and lived to continue her cheerful philosophy.

Looking about the room Eve's eyes brightened and she cried out "Dick, look at that lovely whatnot—with spool turnings, too!"

Aunt Sophronia glanced around "Humph—that old thing!" she said. "Why I've had it for 60 years. Neighbor gave it to me for helping her when she was sick. If you like it you can have it."

"Why, you darling!" Eve said and kissed her.

"So you like antiques, eh?" Aunt Sophronia said. "Well, I'm tired of them. Lived with them all my life. I like newfangled things better. But I have something I want to show you and if you like it you can have it too. It's old but it's right pretty. Hannah!" she called. But this time Hannah must have been in the basement for she did not answer.

"I don't know what's the matter with that woman," Aunt Sophronia complained. "I have such a time finding the right person for a companion. This one would be perfect but she has a cat. And everywhere that Hannah goes the kitty goes along. I'd like to get rid of the cat, but if the cat goes Hannah will follow. And then I'd have all the trouble of finding someone else."

Finally Hannah responded. "Go into my room and bring the upper drawer of the chiffonier to me," Sophronia said briskly. Hannah came back lugging the mahogany drawer. Dick rose to help and they set it on a chair before the aunt. The fragrance of violets rose from its depths as the white-haired lady tenderly lifted delicate linens and bits of lace.

"There!" she said triumphantly when she had found what she sought. "I made this when I was only 16. It's a bedspread with two pillow shams."

They held the spider-web lace over a mahogany table and Eve cried aloud. "Oh, it's too beautiful and too delicate for a bedspread! It should be used for a table cover. It's just too beautiful! But are you sure you want me to have it?"

"Yes," said Aunt Sophronia. "I've been saving it for Dick. I wasn't quite sure, though, what kind of a wife he'd take. You know some of these young folks only appreciate what comes from a department store."

"Oh, I love it!" Eve assured her.

"Well, at last I'll see it in use," said Aunt Sophronia. "Now that you have come to settle in these parts maybe I'll get up there for a little visit."

"We'd love to have you," Dick interposed hastily, "but you see I live at a boarding house and Eve is just spending her vacation with me."

Eve blushed before the steady gaze of Aunt Sophronia.

Finally the old lady said quite candidly, "What the matter? Ain't your husband earning enough?"

All the way home Eve was silent. Dick had announced so casually that he was there for only two weeks. She was going back of course but she wanted him to show concern about it. Was he tired of her already? Eve pondered thus as they went through the sweet smelling spring countryside. She was uncomfortable and ill at ease.

H. B. CITIZENS CO-OPERATE TO HELP LIBRARY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 18.—Coming to the aid of the public library, the Teachers' Reading club and other book reading clubs are cooperating to provide books that are in popular demand. A rental library has been formed where patrons may obtain the latest popular publications in fiction at a low rental, the charge being 5 cents for five days, payable in advance.

Mrs. T. B. Talbert, member of the library board, and prominent in club and social life, who took a prominent part in the new rental library plans, made personal solicitations and her efforts with those of others resulted in a fund which has provided most of the new books of fiction.

Having to economize in city expenditures the city budget provided less money for the library and this necessitated curtailment of purchases.

Following are the books placed on the shelves recently: "Its Up to the Women," by Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt; "The Shape of Things to Come," H. G. Wells; "Mutiny of the Bounty," James Norman and Charles Nordhoff; "Looking Forward," Franklin Roosevelt; "Mellon's Millions," Harvey O'Connor; "No Second Spring," Janet Beith; "Long Pennant," Oliver Lafarge; "Comrades of the Storm," Peter B. Kyne.

"Bonfire," Dorothy Canfield; "The Farm," Louis Bromfield; "Miss Bishop," Bess Streeter Aldrich; "Shifting Sands," Sara Ware Bassett; "Hilltops Clear," Emilie Loring; "Life, Love and Jeanette," Louise Platt Hauck; "Walls of Gold," Kathleen Norris.

"There's Always Another Year," Martha Ostensor; "Jonathon's Daughter," Lida Larrimore; "Adobe Walls," William P. White; "The Harsh Knife Outfit," Zane Grey; "Enchanted Ground," Temple Bailey; "Oil for the Lamps of China," Alice Tisdale Hobart; "Vanessa," Hugh Walpole; "The Beloved Stranger," Grace L. Hill; "Master of Jalua," Maza de la Roche; "The Old Man Dies," Elizabeth Sprigge; "Under Northern Stars," William McLeod Raine; "The Boat of Longing," O. E. Rolvaag; "Let the Hurricane Roar," Rose Wilder Lane; "Imitation of Life," Fannie Hurst.

"Two Black Sheep," Warwick Deeping; "Girl From Glengarry," Ralph Connor.

"Ranchero," Stewart Edward White; "I Cover the Waterfront," Max Miller; "The Proselyte," Susan Ertz; "Anthony Adverse," Hervey Allen; "Love's a Puzzle," Faith Baldwin; "Angle in the House," Kathleen Norris; "Grubstake," Mark Requa; "Ida Elizabeth," Sigrid Undset; "Fault of the Angels," Paul Horgan; "Ann Vickers," Sinclair Lewis; "Pong Wee's Harvest," Louise Jordon Miln; "The Great Crooner," Clarence B. Kelland; "Lost Laughter," Mateel Howe Farnham; "Jeremiah and the Princess," E. P. Oppenheim; "The Kennel Murder Case," S. S. Van Dine.

Books given to the library include: "A Set of Six," Joseph Conrad; "The Children," Edith Wharton; "The Green Hat," Michael Arlen; "Contraband," Clarence Kelland; "The Beast," Luke Allen; "The Last Adam," James Cozzens.

LAGUNA TO SEEK CWA FUNDS FOR TREES IN CLIFF SECTION

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 18.—A plan to plant all streets in the Cliffs section of Laguna Beach through CWA labor was revealed Saturday at the Hotel Laguna at a luncheon given by the shade tree committee of the Garden club to celebrate the appointment by the city council of a park and tree board.

Mayor Frank B. Champion, Senator William E. Brown, Stephen Chalmers and members of the park board, Miss Ann B. Mason, president; H. H. Henshaw, vice president, and C. E. Burnett, secretary, were guests of honor. Burnett told that the Civil Works administration will be asked to provide 640 trees, 2000 man hours of unskilled and 300 hours of skilled labor. The trees are to be spaced 100 feet apart. Material for the project will not cost more than $350.

Dr. Thomas Spencer Miller, chairman of the committee, presided. Each of the honor guests was called upon to speak as were Henry S. MacKay, noted architect; A. C. Peterson, Laguna publisher; J. Sherman Denny, of Huntington Beach; Dr. C. G. Huston, Costa Mesa; Frank W. Cuprien, artist; R. L. Patterson, Newport Beach, and F. A. Fletcher, Laguna Beach.

Stephen Chalmers read an original poem inspired by the death of a tree more than 30 years old and which he dedicated to Dr. Miller.

Work Started On Spanish Village State Park Road

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 18.—Paving of the San Clemente State park street from the Coast Highway to the caretaker's residence on the grounds started today. Dan Mulherron received authority to begin work from the state highway commissioners, who met in Long Beach last week.

Materials are being furnished by the state and labor expense is to be allowed by CWA. Five or six extra men will be given employment on this job for about four weeks. Several of the 35 men now enmployed at the park also will be employed on the work.

The double street will be fully paved, with parking in the middle.

Building of the caretaker's house is delayed until architect's plans are received here.

YULE PROGRAM HELD BY MESA WOMEN'S CLUB

COSTA MESA, Dec. 18.—Informal games, Christmas carols and a pianologue, followed by a tea in the clubhouse sunroom, made up the Christmas program when members of the Friday Afternoon club met in the Woman's clubhouse Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Florence Morrill gave "Why the Chimes Ring," by Alden, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Edith Manderay. Carol singing was directed by Mrs. Carl R. Jackson, with Mrs. Manderay at the piano. The games were directed by Mrs. Lena Russell. Mrs. Jackson won first prize in the games, and Mrs. Ruth Raymond second. Mrs. Dolorese Morrison, in costume, depicted Santa Claus.

The clubhouse was decorated in the Christmas motif, many small evergreen trees, and much cotoneaster and poinsettia being used in the arrangements. Tea and cake were served by Mrs. E. N. Gage, assisted by Mrs. C. Plas. Mrs. Gage was chairman of decorations and refreshments.

Announcement was made that the music section will not meet again in December as per a previous announcement, but will meet next time January 22. The life and works of the composer, Edward McDowell, will be studied. Announcement was made that the Arts and Crafts section will hold its next meeting with Mrs. Ray Stedman, of Santa Ana. The meeting will be held on January 3. Mrs. Harry Schick is chairman of the section.

INSTALLATION CONDUCTED BY EASTERN STAR

GARDEN GROVE, Dec. 18.—An impressive ceremony was conducted at the K. of P. hall in Anaheim Friday evening, when officers of Garden Grove chapter of the Eastern Star were installed.

Charles B. Henry was master of ceremonies, installing musician was Helen Edwards, of Fullerton; installing marshal, Mrs. Pauline Merchant; installing chaplain, Mrs. Ann Haster. Other officers were installed by the retiring worthy matron, Mrs. Mabel Doig, gowned in yellow chiffon, and retiring worthy patron, W. B. Merchant, with assistant installing officers, Mrs. Amber Burke, of Santa Ana, wearing blue crepe, and Mrs. Elsie Gillogly, of Orange, dressed in pink satin.

Officers installed were, worthy matron, Emma Kearns; worthy patron, Donald R. E. Waters; associate matron, Mrs. Ethel Schauer; associate patron, Ernest Fulsom; conductress, Alice T. Smith; associate conductress, Alice Keele; treasurer, Miss Marica Carmichael; secretary, Mrs. Mignon Waters.

Points of the star installed were: Electra, Mrs. Hattie Holmes; Ruth, Mrs. Erma Doosing; Esther, Mrs. Ella Wheeler, proxy for Pauline Merchant; Martha, Ann Ashley; Ada, Mrs. Clara Bryan; chaplain, Mrs. Emma Henry, proxy for Mrs. Ann Haster; marshal, Mrs. Camille Nichols; organist, Mrs. Otile Feamster; warden, Mrs. Dorothy Jentges; sentinel, R. E. Johnson, flag bearer, Mrs. Annabel Bryan; soloist, Mrs. Louise Lake.

All of the officers were dressed in white and carried yellow chrysanthemums and blue delphinium. The chapter room was decorated in a yuletide motif with baskets of cotoneaster berries and poinsettias.

During the evening a musical program was presented. Miss Frances Merchant played a violin cello solo 'Berceuse," from the opera Jocelyn. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Donita Jordon. Mrs. Louise Lake sang, "Star of the East." The losing song, "Good Night," was rendered by Mrs. Otile Feamster.

Mrs. Mabel Doig was presented with a matron's jewel by Mrs Mae Pearson, and W. B. Merchant received his past patron's jewel from Charles B. Henry. Mrs. Pearson and Mr. Henry held the respective offices of worthy matron and worthy patron when the local chapter was organized and Mrs. Doig was received into the order at that time.

Mrs. Mae Henry, of Garden Grove, 57th district deputy grand matron, and Mrs. Myrtle Clayton, of Brea 56th district deputy grand matron, were escorted to the east as were the matrons and patrons of 1933 and 1934, while the past matrons and past patrons of Garden Grove chapter were honored by introduction

Astronomers know very little about the planet Venus because it is surrounded by a heavy envelope of cloud-like vapor that accounts for its great brilliance. Because of this condition, astronomers have not been about to identify surface markings. The nearest approach of Venus to the earth, when it comes between the earth and the sun, is about 28,000,000 miles. Its mean distance from the sun is about seven-tenths of the earth's while Saturn's mean distance is 9.5 times that of the earth or close to 900,000,000 miles. Venus makes a revolution about the sun in less than 225 days while Saturn's journey requires about 29 1-2 years.

COAST COMMUNITIES JOIN IN CHRISTMAS LIGHTING PROGRAM

COSTA MESA, Dec. 18.—Reports coming from the committeemen along the 40 miles of coast line from Seal Beach to San Clemente, who have charge of this year's arrangement for the annual Christmas lighting program, indicate that a deeper interest is being taken in the event than before, Dr. C. G. Huston, who is directing the program, stated today. Considerable activity is being shown all along the line, he said, some communities having a portion of their lights on Sunday evening. The date set for the judging is Wednesday evening.

Reports are that Huntington Beach has Main street light posts decorated with lighted trees for two blocks through the business district, and has arranged a community tree at the corner of Main and Walnut streets. Newport Beach is planting a huge 16-foot live tree in a new city park that is being built on a cliff-side in Newport Heights. The tree will be ornamented in time for the judging Wednesday evening, it was said by John Siegel, assisting street superintendent, who is overseeing the job. Laguna Beach has planted a large tree in city-owned parking space opposite the Art gallery along the Coast highway, and will have it ready for inspection.

Several business places and civic organizations in Costa Mesa will participate. Some work has been done in Seal Beach and Sunset Beach, and locations south of Laguna Beach report considerable progress. Dr. Huston calls attention to the fact those participating for awards must make an entry, placing an application with their respective chamber of commerce heads or others directing the work.

A Christmas radio program, supplementing the lights fiesta, is being arranged over a Southern California network, it was announced.

Willard Smith, Ray Baldwin and V. D. Johnson will act as judges.

NEW OIL COMPANY FORMED AT BEACH

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 18.—The Oil Transit and Export company has been organized here by C. M. Rood, president; H. M. McVicar, vice president, and H. C. Cameron.

Reports that the new company planned to erect a refinery met with a denial from Rood, who said the company has no immediate plans for operations.

THIRD ANNUAL ARTISTS' BALL HELD SATURDAY

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 18.—Encouraged by the success of last year's event, which was attended by a large number of young people, the board of directors of the Laguna Beach Art association is planning big things for the third annual artists' costume ball to be held at the gallery, Coast boulevard and Cliff drive, next Saturday night.

"Cally" Holden's orchestra will furnish the music. President Louis Danz, of Anaheim, has urged on the board the need for more entertainment and he already has engaged a number of singers and dancers who will appear not only on the ballroom floor but during the supper to be served in the basement.

The floor of the basement is being paved with cement. It is laid out in blocks one yard square and the names of those who donated to the fund are being inscribed on the squares. The fund was started by the Junior Art association, through entertainments. The name of each member will appear in a square. The other squares were sold to individuals at $1.50 each. Some organizations subscribed. There are a few squares left but they must be purchased before Wednesday of this week, it was stated.

Instead of the buffet supper served in previous years, tables will be laid in the basement and guests will not have to wait on themselves. The supper will be in charge of Mrs. Betty Repine. Mrs. Elinor Hutchings is co-operating with the board and will provide facilities for the handling and trying on of costumes which will be brought from Pasadena.

The door prize will be a beautiful landscape by W. Galen Doss, one of the better known of the Laguna Beach painters. Six other paintings will be given away as costume prizes.

Dancing will start at 9 p. m. and supper will be served continuously from 11 p. m. until the ball closes. The proceeds will go toward the building fund.

Be sure and vote tomorrow, and vote for Newport Harbor!

For the LOVE of EVE

by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Eve Bayless, pretty assistant to Earle Barnes, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, marries Dick Rader, a construction superintendent.4 Dick is sent to take charge of a construction job in the Adirondacks. It will require at least a year to complete but Eve refuses to go with him.

Mona Allen, copy writer, dislikes Eve and is constantly causing trouble at the office. She is responsible for several mistakes for which Eve is blamed.

Unknown to Dick, Eve has been playing the stock market, borrowing money from her mother and sister. She loses this, as well as all her own savings and $400 Dick left in the bank.

Following a misunderstanding at Christmas, weeks pass in which Eve does not hear from Dick. She is too stubborn to admit that she was wrong and apologize. Eve works harder at the office, trying to forget her troubles. Her mother comes to visit her and tries to persuade her to give up her job. Then Eve learns that Barnes, the advertising manager, is resigning and that she has been selected to take his place.

On a doctor's advice she takes her vacation early and decides to go to Pine Forest to see Dick. Eve feels they must arrive at some understanding about their future.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLVI

Dick was not at the boarding house when Eve arrived there. A servant answered the bell and invited Eve into the living room to wait for him. A moment later Mrs. Williams entered. Her blue eyes looked kindly and she settled herself for a chat but Eve neither disclosed the purpose of her visit or asked questions about Dick.

Presently Mrs. Williams excused herself and returned to the kitchen. Eve grew nervous and restless. Then she saw Dick's yellow roadster coming around the bend of the road. She sat stockstill. Dick stopped the car before the door and his companion— an attractive girl —stepped out, entered the house and passed down the center hall.

Dick drove on but soon reappeared. A moment later he stood in the great arched doorway of the hall, staring at Eve.

"Why, Eve!" he cried. Plainly he was embarrassed and Eve immediately thought of the girl who had been with him.

"Well, this is a surprise!" Dick was saying.

Eve's composure left her. She began to cry and this only increased Dick's embarrassment.

"Not here," he said. "Come up to my room." He led the way to a large upstairs bedroom. It was a comfortable looking room—not at all as Eve had pictured life near a construction camp.

"You don't seem very pleased to see me," she said in a trembling voice.

"I'm surprised, that's all."

"Well, you may as well know I saw you with your girl friend," she said accusingly. "I'm sorry now that I came."

Dick laughed. "You needn't be," he said easily. "I was out at the job this morning and picked her up on the way back. She's one of the farmers who live here and she was walking home from church. It wouldn't have been very polite to pass her by, would it?"

"It looked odd to me."

"See here!" Dick said hotly. "I'll not be put on the defensive just for giving a person a lift."

"Oh, Dick—we're quarrelling again and I didn't want to."

He turned away from her and looked out the window.

"Dick," Eve began timidly. He half-turned. "Dick, I was so lonely!" she added wistfully. He turned and she was in his arms.

Ebe found the little town of Pine Forest enchanting. It had been setled by enterprising sons and daughters of New England pioneers, hence its architecture was strictly colonial. All of the houses were painted white. Some had green blinds. Grouped at the Four Corners were the important buildings—the town hall, one story high and quaintly formed of cobblestones, a little cobblestone church, another church of wide white clapboards with a tall steeple, and a truly modern school house of red brick trimmed in white.

In the afternoon Dick took Eve for a drive into the woodland. The unpaved road wound in and out among the trees, downhill and up until it came to a clearing high above a lake. Below them the water, blue-black from the dense shadows resembled a huge mirror, banked by foliage. Eve stood entranced and Dick's arm gently slipped about her.

"Like it, sweetheart," he asked.

"It's heavenly," she answered softly.

That night she slept more soundly than she had slept for months and awakened refreshed and eager for the new day.

They took more trips into the woods in the days that followed. "To think," Eve said one evening, "that you have been enjoying all this while I've been cooped up in an office worrying about petty jealousies and having general grief!"

"You didn't have to, you know," Dick reminded her. "And you need not go back."

"Oh, but I'm going!" she said instantly regretting her outburst. "You don't think I'm going to be within sight of my goal and then not stay to have the glory, do you?"

"No," she continued. "Some of my acquaintances will sit up and take notice when June first comes and Bixby's announce the name of their new advertising manager!"

Dick had often spoken of his Aunt Sophronia and he had promised to take Eve to see her some day. Since Aunt Sophronia's home was not far distant they set out early Saturday morning and drove south through the mountains and foothills into the Cherry Valley.

They followed the turnpike over rolling farm country until they came to a little village nestled among the hills.

"Oh, it's another green and white village!" cried Eve. "That's just the sort of background I had imagined for Aunt Sophronia."

Dick smiled. Eve's enthusiasm always pleased him.

They drove into the yard before a small colonial cottage and parked the car. Then Dick pulled the old-fashioned bell and set its ring pealing through the house.

A tall, wiry woman dressed in tight-fitting black greeted them.

"We are Aunt Sophronia's niece and nephew," Dick announced

From an inner room a commanding voice called, "Send them in Hannah! Send them in!"

Sophronia Rader greeted her nephew affectionately, then turned to peer at Eve who went forward and graciously extended her hand.

"This is Eve, my wife," said Dick.

"Well glory be!" ejaculated the 90-year-old aunt. "I never expected to see you! Never expected Dick to marry in the first place. Bet you had to ask him."

Eve laughed. "Well, if it's just what my grandmother said."

Aunt Sophronia and Eve became friends immediately. Eve's heart warmed to the aged woman who had broken a hip at the age of 80 and lived to continue her cheerful philosophy.

Looking about the room Eve's eyes brightened and she cried out "Dick, look at that lovely whatnot—with spool turnings, too!"

Aunt Sophronia glanced around "Humph—that old thing!" she said. "Why I've had it for 60 years. Neighbor gave it to me for helping her when she was sick. If you like it you can have it."

"Why, you darling!" Eve said and kissed her.

"So you like antiques, eh?" Aunt Sophronia said. "Well, I'm tired of them. Lived with them all my life. I like newfangled things better. But I have something I want to show you and if you like it you can have it too. It's old but it's right pretty. Hannah!" she called. But this time Hannah must have been in the basement for she did not answer.

"I don't know what's the matter with that woman," Aunt Sophronia complained. "I have such a time finding the right person for a companion. This one would be perfect but she has a cat. And everywhere that Hannah goes the kitty goes along. I'd like to get rid of the cat, but if the cat goes Hannah will follow. And then I'd have all the trouble of finding someone else."

Finally Hannah responded. "Go into my room and bring the upper drawer of the bureau to me," Sophronia said briskly. Hannah came back lugging the mahogany drawer. Dick rose to help and they set it on a chair before the aunt. The fragrance of violets rose from its depths as the white-haired lady tenderly lifted delicate linens and bits of lace.

"There!" she said triumphantly when she had found what she sought. "I made this when I was only 16. It's a bedspread with two pillow shams."

They held the spider-web lace over a mahogany table and Eve cried aloud. "Oh, it's too beautiful and too delicate for a bedspread! It should be used for a table cover. It's just too beautiful! But are you sure you want me to have it?"

"Yes," said Aunt Sophronia. "I've been saving it for Dick. I wasn't quite sure, though, what kind of a wife he'd take. You know some of these young girls only appreciate what comes from a department store."

"Oh, I love it!" Eve assured her.

"Well, at last I'll see it in use," said Aunt Sophronia. "Now that you have come to settle in these parts maybe I'll get up there for a little visit."

"We'd love to have you," Dick interposed hastily, "but you see I live at a boarding house and Eve is just spending her vacation with me."

Eve blushed before the steady gaze of Aunt Sophronia.

Finally the old lady said quite candidly, "What the matter? Ain't your husband earning enough?"

All the way home Eve was silent. Dick had announced so casually that he was there for only two weeks. She was going back of course but she wanted him to show concern about it. Was he tired of her already? Eve pondered thus as they sped through the sweet-smelling spring countryside. She was uncomfortable and ill at ease.

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

The candy canes all turned out fine, and as they hung down from a line, wee Dotty cried, "Gee, they look good! How soon can I eat one?"

"Oh, very shortly," said the cook. "But, not right now, young lady! Look! There are some more canes to be hung, before you have your fun."

And so the whole bunch worked away until they heard a deep voice say, "I see you all are working hard. You've earned a little treat.

"I'll call some elves to carry on with candy cane work, when you've gone." 'Twas Santy, and he added, "Each one take a cane to eat."

A wild rush followed. My, oh my, 'twas funny, Duncy shouted, "I know where the biggest cane is hanging, 'cause I put it there." He took it and began to eat. And then he said, "It's nice and sweet. 'Twill take me hours to eat it all, but, shucks, what do I care?"

"Well, listen here," said Santa Claus. "You'd better hurry, lad, because I think I have a plan in mind that you will like real well.

"Not far from here I have a gift. I want someone to give a lift at testing it. Now, eat your cane real fast, and more I'll tell."

Real curious wee Duncy grew. He said, "I'll gladly go with you. I'll put my cane away and finish it some other day."

"All right," said Santa. "We'll have sport. Of course it's of a different sort, but I am sure you'll love it. Come on, lad, we're on our way."

They shortly reached a playroom and a rocking horse that looked just grand was pulled out for wee Duncy. Then he heard kind Santa say:

"Hop on and ride with all your might, and make sure that the horse rocks right. And, also, be real careful that it doesn't run away."

The Discovery That May Answer: "HOW OLD IS MAN in NORTH AMERICA?"

Hundreds of gigantic beasts walked into the murder trap of quicksand in Arizona. Today their fossilized bones are being dug up.

How the accidentally-found "lake of death" in the bad lands of Arizona may at last unlock the secret that archeologists have debated over for years

DISCOVERY in the "bad lands" of Arizona of a mysterious "Lake of Death" which once treacherously sucked powerful and weird monsters into quicksand tombs beneath the earth's surface is revealing another chapter in a fascinating tale laid in the long ago.

Baked by a scorching sun into sandstone after some cataclysmic upheaval thousands of years ago, a land that scientists believe is another Gobi desert is expected to answer a question much disputed, "How old is man in North America?"

Within the last few months, excavators have unearthed evidence at a number of widely-separated places that man's history in North America dates back at least 500,000 and perhaps 15,000,000 years.

The most recent and outstanding of these discoveries, and the one that is expected to unravel more definitely the tangled threads of the prehistoric past, is that of the new "Gobi Desert" in Arizona.

In a country much similar to the great Manchurian wastes where so much of the story of a lost world is written in the rocks, Homer Tate, an Arizona archaeologist, has found an ancient quicksand lake stretching more than 10 miles in length. This vast quagmire lured to death the mastodons, imperial elephants and other Gargantuans of the animal kingdom in the early part of the Great Ice Age, from 500,000 to 1,000,000 years ago.

MANY fossils of the mastodons and imperial elephants have been dug out of the rock since the discovery. But the most sensational development, Mr. Tate points out, is that positive evidences of human beings were found in the same strata of the sandstone as the mammoths.

To the scientists this means that man lived alongside these towering hulks of flesh and was a cousin to the famed Mr. and Mrs. Neanderthal of the Old World, and even the famous "Pithecanthropus Erectus."

The upper jaw of an imperial elephant, a massive block weighing about 150 pounds, led to the finding of the "Lake of Death." Some boys who had been hunting rattlesnakes 120 miles southeast of Tucson reported to Mr. Tate that a "large cow head" was sticking out of the wall of a canyon.

Investigating, he found that floodwaters surging from the high mountain slopes in the spring had cut an arroyo through the old lake bed, uncovering part of the jaw. It had been covered at one time with more than 100 feet of rock and earth—layer piled upon layer—as geological history moved along in its turbulent cavalcade.

Following this discovery, others came rapidly. So many hundreds of gigantic beasts had walked into the murder trap that a few minutes of digging in almost any spot would unearth some fossil.

MR. TATE has launched plans to excavate a good part of this North American "Gobi Desert." Dr. Byron Cummings, dean of archeology at the University of Arizona and distinguished for his achievements with the National Geographic Society at the pyramids in Mexico, is going to advise in the work which will cover several years.

Although the old "Lake of Death" is now sandstone, it remains an unknown world fraught with dangers for those Balboas who dare to trek over its scorching desolate sands. It is one of the wildest mountain regions in the United States. It is a "world gone mad" geologically.

Like the Gobi of Asia, buttes and canyons have been flung together as in some grotesque jig-saw puzzle. Monoliths rise against the skyline, carved by the hot cutting winds into semblances of the obelisks that guard the tombs of the Egyptian pharaohs.

Death is written everywhere. In the long stretches of mesquite, mile upon mile without a drop of water. In the vultures flying overhead waiting for someone to stumble his last step toward some mirage of a lake that always recedes before him. In the blasts of heat that sear one's hands and turn his face from tan to a gruesome black.

This world, though, hasn't always been that way. When the imperial elephants, standing 13 and 14 feet high, roamed the southwest, it was a land of abundance. The animals lived from the foliage of a tropical country. They were mountains of power.

THEY had an undercoat of wool, an overcoat of long hair, tusks eight to 10 feet long that could slay their enemy, the saber-toothed tiger, at one stroke. Scientists know all about them, even to the color of their hair which was a yellowish brown.

Living alongside of this king of beasts was the giant sloth. Some of them, who wandered into a cave near Las Vegas, Nevada, not only are furnishing further support to the belief that man is as old in the Americas as in Europe, but are reconstructing the plant life of that day.

A party of explorers came upon the cave recently. The group included Dr. M. R. Harrington, curator of the Southwest Museum at Los Angeles; Dr. James Scherer, director of the museum; Dr. Chester Stock of the California Institute of Technology, and E. L. Furlong, also of the institute.

They found flint points, carved wooden pieces, bits of charcoal and other evidences of man in layers of gypsum soil underneath the bones of sloths and the fossils of camels and horses which also browsed over the west during the Great Ice Age.

"It was not the discovery of the remains of ground sloths in the cave," Dr. Harrington said, "that set the scientists all agog, nor the discovery of objects of human workmanship, but the fact that these were found associated in such a manner as to indicate that man may have been contemporaneous on this continent with these ponderous, slow-moving beasts, believed to have become extinct in North America before the end of the Pleistocene period."

MANY fragments of darts were found in the underground chamber which stretched for about 300 feet. A band of early Americans probably stumbled upon the sloths in the cavern and a battle to death resulted.

To add further proof that man cut his teeth quite some time ago, Dr. Cummings dug from beneath a mastodon's bones at Sulphur Springs, Arizona, burned bits of charcoal and hand-chipped stones. The mastodon, although he was not quite as large as the circus elephant, lived at the same time as the imperial elephant.

His tribe numbered into the tens of thousands and spread into every part of this continent. The bones of his short massive limbs, low forehead and eight-foot tusks have often been found, but seldom in connection with man.

As though this were not enough for one time, the Museum of Northern Arizona has finished excavations at the site of an old spring near Tuba City, on the Navajo Indian reservation. They found the remains of an extinct camel, similar to the South American llama, a large bison, a big horse and the Columbian mammoth, an elephant somewhat smaller than the imperial one. Mingled with these old bones were dart and spear points.

If you really want, though, to send your imagination skyrocketing into dizzy heights, travel with Dr. Samuel Hubbard into Hava Supai canyon, not far from the Grand Canyon.

The huge jaw of the imperial elephant excavated from sandstone that had adhered to it for centuries.

THROUGH research that he has had underway from 1894 Dr. Hubbard, curator of the Oakland, Calif., museum, discovered high on the walls of the canyon a pictograph of a dinosaur which lived in what is popularly called the Age of Reptiles, some 15,000,000 years ago.

"The fact that some prehistoric man made a pictograph of a dinosaur on the walls of this canyon completely upsets all of our theories regarding the antiquity of man," he declares. "That dinosaurs were in the vicinity is proved by the tracks we discovered in the Painted Desert not over 100 miles from the picture.

"How were the pictograph made? The red sandstone contains a trace of iron. This iron, through the alchemy of unknown ages of time, forms a thin black scale on the surface of the stone, called 'desert varnish.'

"By taking any sharp point, such as a piece of flint, and cutting through this black surface, the red stone is revealed underneath, thus making a picture, without the use of pigment, which is practically imperishable.

"The fact that the animal is upright and balanced on its tail would seem to indicate that the prehistoric artist must have seen it alive."

NOT far from the dinosaur drawing is one of an elephant attacking a man and several of the Arabian Ibex, the true goats which have never been known to inhabit America.

What was the first American like?

Archaeologists picture him possibly not much more than five feet tall, and possessing powerful lower limbs, bulging muscles at the nape of his neck, a broad nose, a receding forehead and a protruding jaw. He sagged forward at the knees as he swung through his tropical paradise.

He lived in a turbulent world. The ice pack was slowly moving southward, driving before it thousands of herds of great elephants, bisons, saber-toothed tigers, sloths, tapirs, armored glyptodons, musk ox, mountain goats, brown bears, camels, llamas and horses—all larger than any living species.

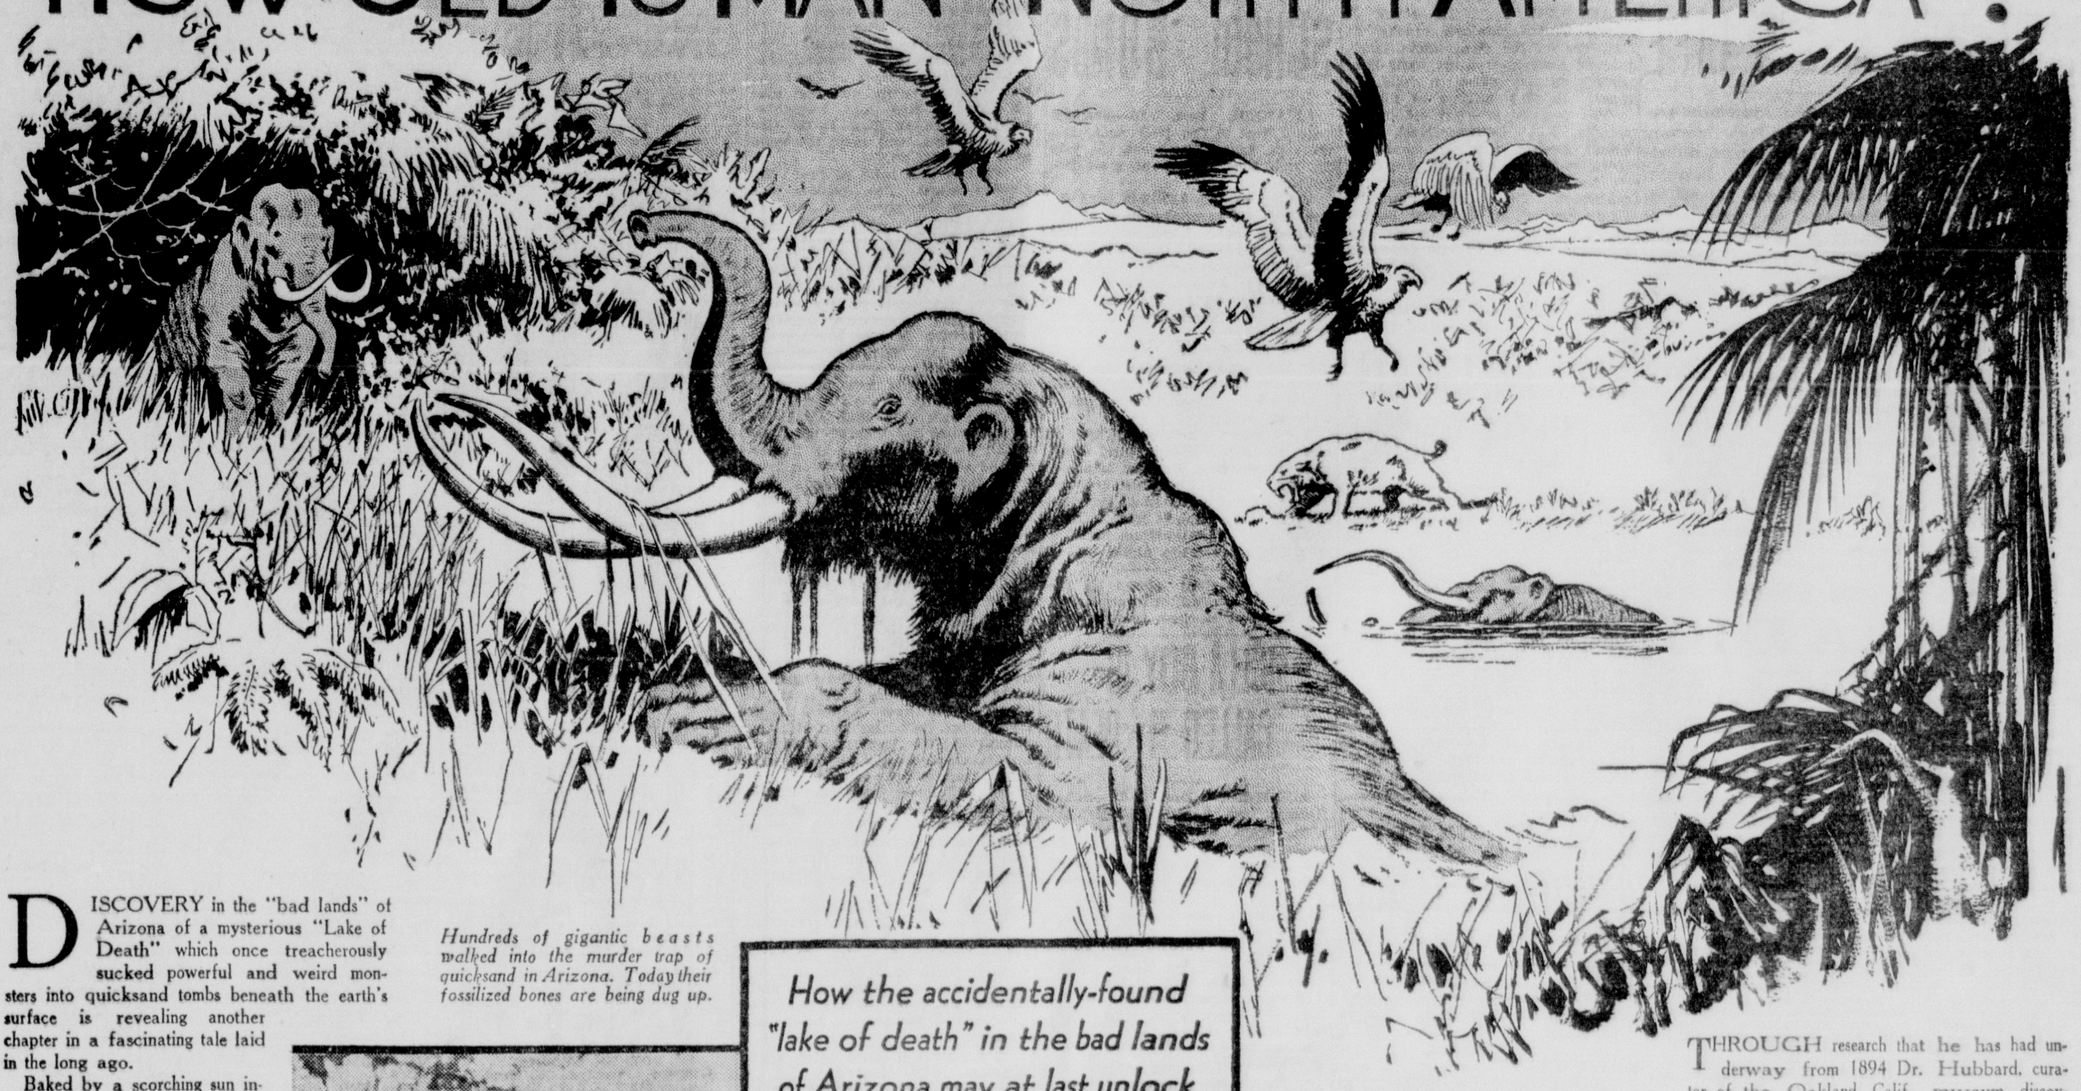

They stampeded into the warm southwest by the hundreds of thousands. And man presumably came with them, fighting the tigers and elephants, eating the smaller animals.

Most of the giant beasts died during the Great Ice Age and disappeared from the earth. What caused their extinction? What kind of a life did man lead to survive such fantastic ogres in this queer animal Land of Oz? What was the world like in that far-off time?

These are the questions that students of prehistoric life are expecting America's newly-discovered "Gobi Desert" to answer in the rocks and crevices of its canyons.

The Discovery That May Answer: "HOW OLD IS MAN in NORTH AMERICA?"

Hundreds of gigantic beasts walked into the murder trap of quicksand in Arizona. Today their fossilized bones are being dug up.

How the accidentally-found "lake of death" in the bad lands of Arizona may at last unlock the secret that archeologists have debated over for years

DISCOVERY in the "bad lands" of Arizona of a mysterious "Lake of Death" which once treacherously sucked powerful and weird monsters into quicksand tombs beneath the earth's surface is revealing another chapter in a fascinating tale laid in the long ago.

Baked by a scorching sun into sandstone after some cataclysmic upheaval thousands of years ago, a land that scientists believe is another Gobi desert is expected to answer a question much disputed, "How old is man in North America?"

Within the last few months, excavators have unearthed evidence at a number of widely-separated places that man's history in North America dates back at least 500,000 and perhaps 15,000,000 years.

The most recent and outstanding of these discoveries, and the one that is expected to unravel more definitely the tangled threads of the prehistoric past, is that of the new "Gobi Desert" in Arizona.

In a country much similar to the great Manchurian wastes where so much of the story of a lost world is written in the rocks, Homer Tate, an Arizona archaeologist, has found an ancient quicksand lake stretching more than 10 miles in length. This vast quagmire lured to death the mastodons, imperial elephants and other Gargantuans of the animal kingdom in the early part of the Great Ice Age, from 500,000 to 1,000,000 years ago.

MANY fossils of the mastodons and imperial elephants have been dug out of the rock since the discovery. But the most sensational development, Mr. Tate points out, is that positive evidences of human beings were found in the same strata of the sandstone as the mammoths.

To the scientists this means that man lived alongside these towering hulks of flesh and was a cousin to the famed Mr. and Mrs. Neanderthal of the Old World, and even the famous "Pithecanthropus Erectus."

The upper jaw of an imperial elephant, a massive block weighing about 150 pounds, led to the finding of the "Lake of Death." Some boys who had been hunting rattlesnakes 120 miles southeast of Tucson reported to Mr. Tate that a "large cow head" was sticking out of the wall of a canyon.

Investigating, he found that floodwaters surging from the high mountain slopes in the spring had cut an arroyo through the old lake bed, uncovering part of the jaw. It had been covered at one time with more than 100 feet of rock and earth—layer piled upon layer—as geological history moved along in its turbulent cavalcade.

Following this discovery, others came rapidly. So many hundreds of gigantic beasts had walked into the murder trap that a few minutes of digging in almost any spot would unearth some fossil.

AUTO CLUB TO GIVE PROGRAM THIS EVENING

"Touring Topics of the Air," a program presented by the Automobile Club of Southern California each Monday at 7 p. m. from KREG, will present the first of a series of sketches of "Pioneers of the Western Frontier," describing the life of a prominent pioneer each week. Tonight's broadcast will tell of Zebulon Montgomery Pike who discovered the peak named for him in Colorado. Cliff-dwellings will also be discussed as will California's most valuable fur-bearing animal, the . . . . well, you'll hear what it is tonight and it's somewhat of a surprise! Listeners will also hear notes on California highways, announcement of the opening of "Christmas Tree Lane" in Altadena, and traffic notes.

KREG SCHEDULE FOR AFTERNOON CHANGED

A rather extensive change in the afternoon schedule of KREG is announced by program officials as follows: The concert program previously scheduled from 1:30 to 2:30 will now be heard from 2:30 to 3:30. The Carnival Hour, for the time being, has been shortened to a half-hour and will start at 12:30 instead of 3 o'clock. The regular half-hour of Spanish music, previously scheduled at 2:30, is now scheduled at 1:30. It was believed that the new afternoon schedules would not be maintained permanently, but it will be in force for several days at least.

KREG NOTES

Otto Jacobs well known Orange county attorney, will be the speaker on the Orange County Harbor broadcast from KREG tonight at 6:55 o'clock.

"Sororitie Shop Syncopations" at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow afternoon on KREG will include a brief resume of up-to-the-minute Christmas suggestions for wise shoppers and how they may save time and money. The musical portion of the program is to present the latest popular tunes of the day.

"Turkey in the Straw," "Springtime in the Rockies," "Red Wing," "Golden Slippers," "Daddy and Home" and other tunes and songs will be typical of the program to be offered by the Arkansas Boys at 7:15 tonight, KREG.

C. B. Baldwin, superintendent of city schools, Huntington Beach, will be the speaker on the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association broadcast from KREG tomorrow at 12 noon . He will speak on "What Is Back of the Christmas Seal." Miss Jean Baldwin, who will be remembered as a most edlightful former KREG artist, will sing.

Vote without fail tomorrow!

CHILD UNINJURED IN FALL OFF TRICYCLE

ANAHEIM, Des. 18.—James Bailey, age three, was greatly surprised, but not injured, when he fell off his tricycle in front of an automobile driven by Mrs. Margurete Jenkins Luth of 218 Mills drive, yesterday afternoon. The latter told police in her report that he was taken to the office of Dr. E. H. Kersten where he was examined and pronounced uninjured.

The small boy was riding his vehicle across the street at Sycamore and Los Angeles, when he saw the automobile and in an effort to turn it quickly, fell of it.

SWITZERLAND

The real story behind the Swiss government's sudden decision to provide strong defenses against a German military invasion has not been told in print. A communication from Storm Troop headquarters in Munich to the Swiss Nazi leader, Colonel Sonderegger, former chief of staff of the Swiss army, was intercepted. It contained copies of German mobilization plans for certain South German units. These went into detailed billeting instructions for the 171st Nazi Storm Troop regiment and the Donaueschingen battalion of the 14th Reichswehr regiment on Swiss Territory.

COPPER

The copper people are getting nowhere rapidly in their effort to frame a code. Anaconda has ideas of its own as to what constitutes fair price competition. NRA authorities are getting a trifle fed up with the endless debate and an imposed code a la soft coal industry is in sight.

ANAHEIM VOTES ON $275,000 SCHOOL BONDS

ANAHEIM, Dec. 18.—Anaheim voters went to the polls today and will go again tomorrow to vote on two bond issues of great importance.

Voting on the $275,000 bond issue for the reconstruction of the Anaheim union high school that was damaged in the earthquake last March, a steady stream of voters was expected to visit the polls today and decide whether or not Anaheim shall have a virtually new plant.

The polls for the Anaheim elementary school district, are open at the Anaheim union high school. They will close tonight at 7 o'clock.

Tomorrow residents will vote on the Newport harbor bond issue, the issue having already been indorsed by the chamber of commerce, Merchants' and Manufacturers' association and various other civic organizations including many of the service clubs.

Let Uncle Sam spend his $1,-200,000 on a good enterprise. Vote for Newport Harbor tomorrow!

LA JOLLA BOY IS CALLED BY DEATH

ANAHEIM, Dec. 18.—Gilbert Retana, age 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Retana, passed away early yesterday morning at his home in La Jolla after a brief illness. His parents have been residents of the Placentia and La Jolla district for nearly 25 years.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Retana, two sisters, Ruth and Olga and three brothers, Manuel, Frank and Rolando.

Funeral arrangements are under the direction of the Hilgenfeld funeral home.

Anaheim Police Notes

ANAHEIM, Dec. 18.—In the garage at his home, Dr. M. M. Henderson, found two women's purses Saturday morning, their contents scattered on the floor. He notified police who found that one belonging to Mrs. Carl Oelke, who had missed the purse but not thought it stolen, and the other to Mrs. Vivian Schuette of 135 Los Angeles street.

Police recovered the Ford automobile yesterday on Dale avenue that was stolen from Fred Bath, Saturday night. The car was stripped of two wheels and five tires. It was stolen from Clementine and Chestnut streets.

Bill Russell of 1632 60th Place, Los Angeles, lost an ear in a fight Saturday night that took place in Anton's cafe. He told police that Guy Floid Overstreet of 51 West Eleventh street, Buena Park, had bitten if off in a fight and that he would sign a complaint against him on Monday.

Overstreet was not arrested as police decided that neither he, nor Russell, were drunk enough. The police were called to Anton's earlier in the evening to stop a fight, but when they get there no one would tell them who had been fighting.

W. J. Curran, 54, a junk dealer, dealer, was arrested Saturday night for intoxication. He was booked and locked up to await his hearing in Judge Frank Tausch's court this morning.

ANAHEIM PERSONALS

ANAHEIM, Dec. 18.—Members of the A. B. Paul Women's club are urged to join the meeting that will be held tomorrow afternoon in the I. O. O. F. hall at 2 o'clock. The president, Mrs. Maude English, has announced that she has a great surprise for the members.

Among the students who have returned home from the University of Southern California are the Misses Helen and Grace Hauck who are spending the holidays with their father.

College Clubs Meet

Press Club

Press club members not only had the experience of being shown through a Los Angeles newspaper plant Wednesday evening but were privileged to meet the Richfield Reporter in the KFI audition rooms and listen to his broadcast of news events.

Those who shared in the evening were James Torrens, Blythe McCausland, Miss Ruth Wood, Gus Gilbert, Miss Farla Nell Clayton, Miss Jeannette Roby, George Farquhar Mr. and Mrs. John McCoy, Miss Mildred Louden, Miss Frieda Sawtelle, Miss Mildred Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Johnson and Valiean McCoy.

Alpha Rho Tau

When new members of Alpha Rho Tau entertained regular members Thursday evening it was with a jolly Christmas party in the home of Fred Eley, West Fifth street.

In exchanging gifts, hosts conceived the plan of exchanging at each table following an evening of bunko. For the refreshments card tables were spread with white linens on which were placed clever candles of candy wrapped in red cellophane.

Guests were Miss Kay Holmes, Ray Archer, Walter Clark, Miss Mildred Johnson, Miss Ilse Hamann and hosts present were Fred Eley, Miss Alberta Sanford, Miss Elizabeth Woods, Harold Dittmer, Tom Cole, Miss Martha Humes, Bill Beeman, Miss Ann Donahue, Harold Christenson, Miss Florence Turner, Dave Sheppard and Rollin Johnson.

Tavern Tatlers

Discussions of the coming publication of the Tavern Post and of early French literature featured the regular meeting of Santa Ana Junior college Tavern Tatlers in the home of Thomas H. Glenn, 2331 Bonnie Brae.

Material already submitted for publication was examined and original essays and poems were submitted by the Misses Eleanor Walter, Celestia Straub, Pauline Flint and Mrs. Ruth McNeil. It was decided that each member would be assessed a certain amount to aid in publication of the Post.

The discussion program of early French literature was led by Miss Ruth Wood and Miss Barbara Allen on Francois Villon; Gene Thompson and Miss Eleanor Walter on Francois Rabelais; Miss Pauline Flint, Pierre de Rousard and Austin Joy, on Michel de Montaigne.

The conclusion of the evening came with the serving of a buffet supper by Mrs. Glenn to the Misses Eleanor Walter, Celestia Straub, Pauline Flint, Susanna Alexander, Carolyn Mueller, Ruth Wood, Josephine Madrid, Barbara Allen, Mrs. Ruth McNeil; Messrs. Gene Thompson, Austin Joy, Blythe McCausland, Harold Dittmer, William Blanchard.

The topic of the next meeting will be on French poets of the romantic period.

"HELL" TOPIC FOR LECTURE BY EVANGELIST

Is the Devil in charge of Hell? was an advertised question. The speaker answered by reading verse 10 of the same chapter, "The Devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, Satan will be as deep in the fire as his victims, and meet the same fate: annihilation."

"What is this lake of fire?" the speaker asked. The answer was read from the screen in Revelation chapter 20 again. "The sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death and hell delivered up the dead which were in them: —Death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death. And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire. (You will notice that these texts say that all this will take place on the breadth of the earth.)"

Where will this lake of fire or second death be located upon the earth? Isaiah 34:8-10 was flashed on the screen for the answer. "For it is the day of the Lord's vengeance, and the year of recompense for the controversy of Zion. And the streams thereof shall be turned into pitch, and the dust thereof into brimstone, and the land thereof shall become burning pitch. When God turns all the water into pitch and all the earth into sulphur, then pours fire down from heaven the entire world will become a lake of fire. No wonder no one will escape. Peter graphically pictures it in 2 Peter 3:7 to 12. You see how literal it is. Everything will be welted and consumed. We know that it has not taken place yet on this earth. How grateful we should be to know that loved ones who missed the way are not in a blistering, non-consuming fire without an end, but rather as Christ taught, waiting for their respective resurrection for annihilation, instead of endless torment.

Cause of Infidels

"The doctrine of endless torment has made more infidels than any other teaching in the Christian world. While it is true that old fashioned hymn books teach such things, the Bible teaches mercy by annihilation instead of misery by torture.

"Now for our last point, annihilation. Both body and soul go into destruction. (Matt. 10:28.) They go up in smoke and nothing is left (Psalm 37:10, 20) and down in ashes under the feet of the saved (Malachi 4:1, 3). There will not be a coal of fire to warm yourself by when the fire burns out (Isa. 47:14 Margin. The soul also). Even their memory will perish, the saved will not remember that they ever existed (Isa. 26: 14). Destructions come to an end also. (Ps. 9:5, 6 Margin). The soul perishes (Ezekiel 18:4) and then it will be as though they had not been. (Obadiah 1:16).

Mr. Spear lectures tonight on the subject, "The Devil. Did God Make Him? Why Did God Permit Sin If All Powerful?" Tomorrow night, "Mr. and Mrs. Adam. Third Party Wrecks First Home. What Was the Sin Adam and Eve Committed?" Wednesday, "The Man God Forgot." Thursday, Women, Wine and Song." Friday, "Lucifer's Hobby."

Let Uncle Sam spend his $1,-200,000 on a good enterprise. Vote for Newport Harbor tomorrow!

Democratic Club To Meet Tonight

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—James L. Davis, Santa Ana attorney, will address the Fullerton Democratic club this evening at the Odd Fellows' hall following a 6:30 p. m. dinner. "Present-day Democracy" will be the topic. The meeting will be the first dinner session of the recently-organized club.

NEW CWA DIRECTOR WILL BE NAMED

Members of the Orange County Civil Works Administration committee today are considering applicants for the appointment of a Civil Works director to succeed B. V. Curry, county welfare director who has been acting in that capacity.

Curry, when relieved as acting civil works director, according to R. B. Newcom, secretary of the CWA committee in this county and the Emergency Relief committee, will continue to direct affairs of the Emergency Relief group. Newcom said that although membership of the two groups is the same, activities of the two organizations would be divorced through appointment of a separate director for the CWA group.

J. K. McDonald, chairman of the joint committee this morning declined to give the names of applicants for the position of Civil works director without full consent of the committee. He said that the group had tentatively agreed to withhold identity of applicants until the committee is nearer a decision. He said that to release the names at this time would be unfair to the applicants.

Be sure and vote tomorrow, and vote for Newport Harbor!

Brea Girls Plan Volleyball Games

BREA, Dec. 18.—Unusual interest is being shown in volleyball, with enough girls enlisting from the junior class to insure two teams from that class alone. Willetta Henderson and Jean Russell have been elected captain and vice captain of the senior team; Marie Crenshaw and Grace Glazierfor, the junior class; Elmaren Epson and Bessie Fujumoto, the sophomores, and Betty Carley and Martha Osborne for the freshmen.

The teams are being coached by Mrs. Rosemary Bennett with interclass games scheduled for January 8 and 10. Junior and senior play day will fall on January 16 at Santa Ana and for sophomore and freshmen on January 18.

Brea Post Plans Christmas Party

BREA, Dec. 18—All members and former members of Brea post No. 181 of the American Legion have been invited to attend the annual Christmas party and supper, which will be given in the Legion hall here Tuesday evening, beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

AUTO CLUB TO GIVE PROGRAM THIS EVENING

"Touring Topics of the Air," a program presented by the Automobile Club of Southern California each Monday at 7 p. m. from KREG, will present the first of a series of sketches of "Pioneers of the Western Frontier," describing the life of a prominent pioneer each week. Tonight's broadcast will tell of Zebulon Montgomery Pike who discovered the peak named for him in Colorado. Cliff-dwellings will also be discussed as will California's most valuable fur-bearing animal, the . . . . well, you'll hear what it is tonight and it's somewhat of a surprise! Listeners will also hear notes on California highways, announcement of the opening of "Christmas Tree Lane" in Altadena, and traffic notes.

KREG SCHEDULE FOR AFTERNOON CHANGED

A rather extensive change in the afternoon schedule of KREG is announced by program officials as follows: The concert program previously scheduled from 1:30 to 2:30 will now be heard from 2:30 to 3:30. The Carnival Hour, for the time being, has been shortened to a half-hour and will start at 12:30 instead of 3 o'clock. The regular half-hour of Spanish music, previously scheduled at 2:30, is now scheduled at 1:30. It was believed that the new afternoon schedules would not be maintained permanently, but it will be in force for several days at least.

KREG NOTES

Otto Jacobs well known Orange county attorney, will be the speaker on the Orange County Harbor broadcast from KREG tonight at 6:55 o'clock.

"Sororitie Shop Syncopations" at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow afternoon on KREG will include a brief resume of up-to-the-minute Christmas suggestions for wise shoppers and how they may save time and money. The musical portion of the program is to present the latest popular tunes of the day.

"Turkey in the Straw," "Springtime in the Rockies," "Red Wing," "Golden Slippers," "Daddy and Home" and other tunes and songs will be typical of the program to be offered by the Arkansas Boys at 7:15 tonight, KREG.

C. B. Baldwin, superintendent of city schools, Huntington Beach, will be the speaker on the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association broadcast from KREG tomorrow at 12 noon. He will speak on "What Is Back of the Christmas Seal." Miss Jean Baldwin, who will be remembered as a most edlightful former KREG artist, will sing.

Vote without fail tomorrow!

MADAME ROSE WILL DISCUSS HANDEL'S LIFE

The last Music Appreciation presentation by Madame Rosemary Rose, noted artist-teacher, for this year, will comprise a discussion of the life of Handel and will tell something of his great, sacred oratorio, "The Messiah." Madame Rose will be assisted by Mrs. Horner, soprano, and Stanley Berkey, baritone, of Fullerton. Mr. Berkey will sing the air: "The Trumpet Shall Sound." Eight o'clock tonight, KREG.

It is probable that the Music Appreciation programs will be continued after the first of the year, studio officials announced. In the meantime, Madame Rose would like to hear from more of her listeners and to receive more comments, whether favorable or unfavorable, upon her presentations.

Be sure and vote tomorrow, and vote for Newport Harbor!

CHILD UNINJURED IN FALL OFF TRICYCLE

ANAHEIM, Des. 18.—James Bailey, age three, was greatly surprised, but not injured, when he fell off his tricycle in front of an automobile driven by Mrs. Margurete Jenkins Luth of 218 Mills drive, yesterday afternoon. The latter told police in her report that he was taken to the office of Dr. E. H. Kersten where he was examined and pronounced uninjured.

The small boy was riding his vehicle across the street at Sycamore and Los Angeles, when he saw the automobile and in an effort to turn it quickly, fell of it.

SWITZERLAND

The real story behind the Swiss government's sudden decision to provide strong defenses against a German military invasion has not been told in print. A communication from Storm Troop headquarters in Munich to the Swiss Nazi leader, Colonel Sonderegger, former chief of staff of the Swiss army, was intercepted. It contained copies of German mobilization plans for certain South German units. These went into detailed billeting instructions for the 171st Nazi Storm Troop regiment and the Donaueschingen battalion of the 14th Reichswehr regiment on Swiss Territory.

ANAHEIM VOTES ON $275,000 SCHOOL BONDS

ANAHEIM, Dec. 18.—Anaheim voters went to the polls today and will go again tomorrow to vote on two bond issues of great importance.

Voting on the $275,000 bond issue for the reconstruction of the Anaheim union high school that was damaged in the earthquake last March, a steady stream of voters was expected to visit the polls today and decide whether or not Anaheim shall have a virtually new plant.

The polls for the Anaheim elementary school district, are open at the Anaheim union high school. They will close tonight at 7 o'clock.

Tomorrow residents will vote on the Newport harbor bond issue, the issue having already been indorsed by the chamber of commerce, Merchants' and Manufacturers' association and various other civic organizations including many of the service clubs.

Let Uncle Sam spend his $1,-200,000 on a good enterprise. Vote for Newport Harbor tomorrow!

LA JOLLA BOY IS CALLED BY DEATH

ANAHEIM, Dec. 18.—Gilbert Retana, age 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Retana, passed away early yesterday morning at his home in La Jolla after a brief illness. His parents have been residents of the Placentia and La Jolla district for nearly 25 years.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Retana, two sisters, Ruth and Olga and three brothers, Manuel, Frank and Rolando.

Funeral arrangements are under the direction of the Hilgenfeld funeral home.

Anaheim Police Notes

ANAHEIM, Dec. 18.—In the garage at his home, Dr. M. M. Henderson, found two women's purses Saturday morning, their contents scattered on the floor. He notified police who found that one belonging to Mrs. Carl Oelke, who had missed the purse but not thought it stolen, and the other to Mrs. Vivian Schuette of 135 Los Angeles street.

Police recovered the Ford automobile yesterday on Dale avenue that was stolen from Fred Bath, Saturday night. The car was stripped of two wheels and five tires. It was stolen from Clementine and Chestnut streets.

Bill Russell of 1632 60th Place, Los Angeles, lost an ear in a fight Saturday night that took place in Anton's cafe. He told police that Guy Floid Overstreet of 51 West Eleventh street, Buena Park, had bitten if off in a fight and that he would sign a complaint against him on Monday.

Overstreet was not arrested as police decided that neither he, nor Russell, were drunk enough. The police were called to Anton's earlier in the evening to stop a a fight, but when they get there no one would tell them who had been fighting.

W. J. Curran, 54, a junk dealer, dealer, was arrested Saturday night for intoxication. He was booked and locked up to await his hearing in Judge Frank Tausch's court this morning.

ANAHEIM PERSONALS

ANAHEIM, Dec. 18.—Members of the A. B. Paul Women's club are urged to join the meeting that will be held tomorrow afternoon in the I. O. O. F. hall at 2 o'clock. The president, Mrs. Maude English, has announced that she has a great surprise for the members.

Among the students who have returned home from the University of Southern California are the Misses Helen and Grace Hauck who are spending the holidays with their father.

College Clubs Meet

Press Club

Press club members not only had the experience of being shown through a Los Angeles newspaper plant Wednesday evening but were privileged to meet the Richfield Reporter in the KFI audition rooms and listen to his broadcast of news events.

Those who shared in the evening were James Torrens, Blythe McCausland, Miss Ruth Wood, Gus Gilbert, Miss Farla Nell Clayton, Miss Jeannette Roby, George Farquhar Mr. and Mrs. John McCoy, Miss Mildred Louden, Miss Frieda Sawtelle, Miss Mildred Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Johnson and Valican McCoy.

Alpha Rho Tau

When new members of Alpha Rho Tau entertained regular members Thursday evening it was with a jolly Christmas party in the home of Fred Eley, West Fifth street.

In exchanging gifts, hosts conceived the plan of exchanging at each table following an evening of bunko. For the refreshments card tables were spread with white linens on which were placed clever candles of candy wrapped in red cellophane.

Guests were Miss Kay Holmes, Ray Archer, Walter Clark, Miss Mildred Johnson, Miss Ilse Hamann and hosts present were Fred Eley, Miss Alberta Sanford, Miss Elizabeth Woods, Harold Dittmer, Tom Cole, Miss Martha Humes, Bill Beeman, Miss Ann Donahue, Harold Christenson, Miss Florence Turner, Dave Sheppard and Rollin Johnson.

Tavern Tatlers

Discussions of the coming publication of the Tavern Post and of early French literature featured the regular meeting of Santa Ana Junior college Tavern Tatlers in the home of Thomas H. Glenn, 2331 Bonnie Brae.

Material already submitted for publication was examined and original essays and poems were submitted by the Misses Eleanor Walter, Celestia Straub, Pauline Flint and Mrs. Ruth McNeil. It was decided that each member would be assessed a certain amount to aid in publication of the Post.

The discussion program of early French literature was led by Miss Ruth Wood and Miss Barbara Allen on Francois Villon; Gene Thompson and Miss Eleanor Walter on Francois Rabelais; Miss Pauline Flint, Pierre de Rousard and Austin Joy, on Michel de Montaigne.

The conclusion of the evening came with the serving of a buffet supper by Mrs. Glenn to the Misses Eleanor Walter, Celestia Straub, Pauline Flint, Susanna Alexander, Carolyn Mueller, Ruth Wood, Josephine Madrid, Barbara Allen, Mrs. Ruth McNeil; Messrs. Gene Thompson, Austin Joy, Blythe McCausland, Harold Dittmer, William Blanchard.

The topic of the next meeting will be on French poets of the romantic period.

"HELL" TOPIC FOR LECTURE BY EVANGELIST

Is the Devil in charge of Hell? was an advertised question. The speaker answered by reading verse 10 of the same chapter, "The Devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, Satan will be as deep in the fire as his victims, and meet the same fate; annihilation."

"What is this lake of fire?" the speaker asked. The answer was read from the screen in Revelation chapter 20 again. "The sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death and hell delivered up the dead which were in them: —Death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death. And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire. (You will notice that these texts say that all this will take place on the breadth of the earth.)"

Where will this lake of fire or second death be located upon the earth? Isaiah 34:8-10 was flashed on the screen for the answer. "For it is the day of the Lord's vengeance, and the year of recompense for the controversy of Zion. And the streams thereof shall be turned into pitch, and the dust thereof into brimstone, and the land thereof shall become burning pitch. When God turns all the water into pitch and all the earth into sulphur, then pours fire down from heaven the entire world will become a lake of fire. No wonder no one will escape. Peter graphically pictures it in 2 Peter 3:7 to 12. You see how literal it is. Everything will be welted and consumed. We know that it has not taken place yet on this earth. How grateful we should be to know that loved ones who missed the way are not in a blistering, non-consuming fire without an end, but rather as Christ taught, waiting for their respective resurrection for annihilation, instead of endless torment.

Cause of Infidels

"The doctrine of endless torment has made more infidels than any other teaching in the Christian world. While it is true that old fashioned hymn books teach such things, the Bible teaches mercy by annihilation instead of misery by torture.

"Now for our last point, annihilation. Both body and soul go into destruction. (Matt. 10:28.) They go up in smoke and nothing is left (Psalm 37:10, 20) and down in ashes under the feet of the saved (Malachi 4:1, 3). There will not be a coal of fire to warm yourself by when the fire burns out (Isa. 47:14 Margin. The soul also). Even their memory will perish, the saved will not remember that they ever existed (Isa. 26: 14). Destructions come to an end also. (Ps. 9:5, 6 Margin). The soul perishes (Ezekiel 18:4) and then it will be as though they had not been. (Obadiah 1:16).

Mr. Spear lectures tonight on the subject, "The Devil. Did God Make Him? Why Did God Permit Sin If All Powerful?" Tomorrow night, "Mr. and Mrs. Adam. Third Party Wrecks First Home. What Was the Sin Adam and Eve Committed?" Wednesday, "The Man God Forgot." Thursday, Women, Wine and Song." Friday, "Lucifer's Hobby."

Let Uncle Sam spend his $1,-200,000 on a good enterprise. Vote for Newport Harbor tomorrow!

Democratic Club To Meet Tonight

FULLERTON, Dec. 18.—James L. Davis, Santa Ana attorney, will address the Fullerton Democratic club this evening at the Odd Fellows' hall following a 6:30 p. m. dinner. "Present-day Democracy" will be the topic. The meeting will be the first dinner session of the recently-organized club.

NEW CWA DIRECTOR WILL BE NAMED

Members of the Orange County Civil Works Administration committee today are considering applicants for the appointment of a Civil Works director to succeed B. V. Curry, county welfare director who has been acting in that capacity.

Curry, when relieved as acting civil works director, according to R. B. Newcom, secretary of the CWA committee in this county and the Emergency Relief committee, will continue to direct affairs of the Emergency Relief group. Newcom said that although membership of the two groups is the same, activities of the two organizations would be divorced through appointment of a separate director for the CWA group.

J. K. McDonald, chairman of the joint committee this morning declined to give the names of applicants for the position of Civil works director without full consent of the committee. He said that the group had tentatively agreed to withhold identity of applicants until the committee is nearer a decision. He said that to release the names at this time would be unfair to the applicants.

Be sure and vote tomorrow, and vote for Newport Harbor!

Brea Girls Plan Volleyball Games

BREA, Dec. 18.—Unusual interest is being shown in volleyball, with enough girls enlisting from the junior class to insure two teams from that class alone. Willetta Henderson and Jean Russell have been elected captain and vice captain of the senior team; Marie Crenshaw and Grace Glazierfor, the junior class; Elmaren Epson and Bessie Fujumoto, the sophomores, and Betty Carley and Martha Osborne for the freshmen.

The teams are being coached by Mrs. Rosemary Bennett with interclass games scheduled for January 8 and 10. Junior and senior play day will fall on January 16 at Santa Ana and for sophomore and freshmen on January 18.

Brea Post Plans Christmas Party

BREA, Dec. 18—All members and former members of Brea post No. 181 of the American Legion have been invited to attend the annual Christmas party and supper, which will be given in the Legion hall here Tuesday evening, beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1933

VOTE AT TOMORROW'S ELECTION

Tomorrow the people of Orange county, as a whole, will be voting upon two propositions, one, the Newport Harbor improvement and completion, and the other, the $170,000,000 enabling act for the San Joaquin valley.

We believe that the vast majority of people have made up their minds, that whatever else may be done, the Newport Harbor project is a first class investment of any man's money in Orange county. In view of the fact that the government is putting up two dollars for each dollar that the people are asked to give, everyone feels that there is more money coming out of it from every point of view, than Orange county will be putting in it.

The project in the San Joaquin valley is that of an enabling act, giving the people there the power to issue bonds. This is permitted if the organization which the bill itself creates, has sold the water and power which the project, when completed, will produce, at such a rate that the government will consider it self-liquidating. These bonds are not backed by the state.

It is urged, by its proponents, that this only relates to their own territory, and that the necessity for a vote is only because a referendum was demanded on a bill that had already passed the legislature. There are many objections raised, the chief one, which will probably affect the voters, is the belief that a $170,000,000 project there, from government funds, might militate against the use of money for other enterprises in California, particularly here in the Southland, that might be much needed.

The City Hall project for Santa Ana is another matter upon which the citizens are asked to vote. The arguments for this are that at this time, out of the $100,000 required, $30,000 can be procured from the Federal government, necessitating only $70,000, which money can be borrowed from the government. The earthquake ruined the city hall, which has been torn down, and the city has been renting offices since that time. The immediate erection of a city hall will add materially to the business and employment in the city, furnish the city with adequate quarters, and add to the down-town section a commodious, sightly and imposing structure.

The reluctance of the citizens to vote bonds where they do not see that they are practically going to take care of themselves in increased valuations, and the desire to see a civic center developed, are the only arguments we have heard against the bonds. Incidentally, we understand it is the plan to erect such a building at the corner of Third and Main streets, if the bonds carry, so that the city can dispose of it at a good price for commercial purposes, to carry out any civic center program later.

A WORD TO THE UNEMPLOYED

We should like to write a word to the unemployed and to those who maybe are in fear of being in the ranks of the unemployed tomorrow.

As we have noted the various efforts put forth by our government, to do its part in working out the problems of meeting your needs, of sharing your burden, we are confident that you will want to meet the challenge by hastening to the polls tomorrow morning. We believe you will vote that at least a part of this vast amount of money, that is being used, shall be used in a permanently beneficial enterprise, namely, the development of Newport Harbor.

When the business men and the taxpayers, and even the ranchers, are joining in, you can do your share by voting and getting your neighbors to vote as nearly unanimously as possible. It will have its effect away back in Washington. Mr. Cotton, who helped put through the $5,000,000 help for the earthquake victims, the man who helped remove the strictures on farm loans, will be there tomorrow night, awaiting the news from Orange county as to the result of this enterprise.

Help us to be able to flash to him, with the speed of light, the joyous news that will give him a happy Christmas, that Orange county has responded by an overwhelming vote, and has fulfilled the slogan of the NRA: "We have done our part."

THE IRONY OF FATE

It is the irony of fate. President DeValera of Ireland is having his troubles, as he made trouble with President Cosgrave. And Owen O'Duffy, under the banner of "United Ireland," whose followers are wearing blue shirts, which have been banned by the government, is carrying on against DeValera.

O'Duffy has been captured, and is subject to a military trial. The President is clothed with autocratic power, even of death, though it is hardly likely he will adminster this penalty on O'Duffy.

One can hardly read the language "United Ireland," as the slogan of O'Duffy, without a smile. Things were pretty well united in Ireland before DeValera took the field. He divided them under the slogan of "union." They were getting fairly well united, when O'Duffy started.

The Irish simply can't stand unity. They are like the fellow who spoke of his horse and said he was like Theodore Roosevelt. "His regular gait was running away." Instead of the motto, "United We Stand," the Irish should have it: "Union We Can't Understand."

As an Irishman in Dublin told us in the midst of Ireland's former civil war, after the British army had departed, and they were fighting among themselves: "We were glad when the British army left us so we could fight it out in peace."

We sympathize with Cosgrave, but we congratulate DeValera and hope for O'Duffy.

The Science News-Letter reports that the Soviet government has bought in this country a loud speaker that can be heard over a radius of thirty miles. This loud speaker is to be used on airplanes for the spreading of news and propaganda from the air.

It is a far cry from the old New England town crier, ringing his bell in the night and crying out, "Midnight, and all is well," to a loud speaker in the air which may be heard over a radius of thirty miles. This is progress, some would say. Others, doubtless, would say that it adds a new terror to living.

We can imagine the terror striking the heart of the primitive man in hearing such a shout from the skies. Nothing recorded in the Old Testament, not even the thunders of Sinai, could be more awful. The primitive man heard the voice of the heavenly hosts only in his imagination. If he were living today, it would be a real voice, and his fright would be maddening.

The wonders of old have become the commonplaces of today. We can all remember here on the Pacific Coast running to the roof or out on the street when an airplane whirred in the sky above. We watched it until it was out of sight. It was marvelous, inconceivable, that a heavier-than-air machine could float like a bird. During the Great War airplanes scattered printed matter from the sky over Germany for propaganda purposes. That will not be necessary in future wars. All that will be necessary will be to fix one of these loud speakers to a scouting plane, and go forth on that traveling platform to speak to a whole nation.

Perhaps we may yet speak to the man in the moon or to the much quoted "man from Mars" if we continue to extend the range of the human voice. Surely, this is an age of wonders.

THE CHANGING SOCIAL REGISTER

A staff correspondent of the Associated Press has been studying the changes in the New York Social Register, and he finds some interesting changes taking place in that book of the socially elect. He finds that many of them have become poorer during the last four years, and are therefore no longer among the socially elect. But what is very interesting is that great changes have come in the lot of those who still survive in this selected group.

It is discovered that 752 of the socially elect of New York have given up their yachts the past year. Many are no longer travelling abroad or sustaining inland, seashore and town houses. In 1930, New York's best people had 1300 floating palaces on the sea. This number has been reduced to about 500. Many of them have given up their exclusive clubs. Strange to say, whatever that may mean, marriages increased greatly during the past year. Perhaps the socially elect are settling down to a greater domestic felicity.

There is nothing in these facts for the average man to grieve about. In fact, there is much for him to be thankful for. It is not wholesome, as Tennyson puts it in Locksley Hall, Sixty Years After, that "City children soak and blacken soul and sense in city slime," while others glory in science and in wealth. A level society is not desirable. But the extremes, which surfeit some and make miserable others quite, if not more, deserving, is unjust and unhuman.

So the study of New York's Social Register is encouraging in that it has shown that the depression has visited the rich as well as the poor with an equal sense of burden.

Why No Nobel Peace Prizes?

Christian Science Monitor

For the second year in succession, the Nobel Peace Prize festival at Oslo has been omitted, because no prize had been awarded. Sunday only the Stockholm ceremony was held to award the prizes in medicine physics and literature. This omission has been criticized in Norway, and echoes of the criticism have been heard in Sweden and other countries. Granted that the international peace situation is precarious enough, the question arises as to why those prizes should be given out and why withheld.

From the point of view of the distributors, the Nobel committee appointed by the Norwegian Parliament, it may be stated that the omission is to be taken as a demonstration against the prevailing unrest in the world—a gesture of despair. That there is ample reason for such an attitude few will deny. On the other hand, peace workers point out that the prize is not to be regarded, to quote the Norwegian daily Dagbladet of Oslo, "as a piece of candy to be given the children when they are good, but as an active factor in the peace propaganda."

On this issue it is instructive to re-read what the donor himself, Alfred Nobel, said in his will. He wrote that the peace prize should be given annually to "whoever during the preceding year had worked most effectively for the fraternization of the nations and for the abolition or reduction of standing armies or for the organization of peace congresses." To be sure, the results of the disarmament work at Geneva this year have not, in truth, been very encouraging, but on the other hand there has not been lack of effort. The fraternization of the peoples goes on, though with other means.

It is evident from the phrasing of the will that Mr. Nobel wished to encourage activities that war on selfish nationalism and that foster a better regard for other peoples. In the past it is true that the prize often has been given to statesmen who have been successful in arranging some treaty in the interest of peace, though in retrospect their life work as a whole may appear to have been anything but irenic, but it was less the laureled victors than the tense and perspiring combatants on the firing line that the Nobel peace prizes were supposed to aid and encourage. In the last thirty-two years the prize has been given out but twenty-five times, and especially today it can hardly be said that the battle for peace stands so well that no such help is needed.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

WHAT'S THE USE?

Astronomers observe the stars;
They know how far it is to Mars,

And that dim halos make a pattern
Around the whirling form of Saturn.

They can, they eagerly aver,
Tot up the moons of Jupiter,

And on their busy finger tips
Count every probable eclipse,

And tell dumb folk, like me and you,
Just when another one is due.

But, on my soul, I don't know why
They keep on studying the sky,

Of which they've learned but little more
Than did astrologers of yore.

If on these bodies there are men
They'll always stay beyond our ken.

They can't come here, we can't go there;
There isn't any thoroughfare.

We cannot even leave the girth
Of this small ball we call our earth.

So why use up good active brains
When these vast, measureless terrains

Must always stay outside the ken
Of even very learned men?

A woman is as old as she looks, but not if another woman is doing the looking.

Some writers use loads of buts, and-yets, on-the-other-hands and one-must-remember-howevers—and some writers know what they want to say.

AMERICANISM: Choosing the best possible mechanic to look after the car; hiring just any dumb oaf to look after the children.

Every question has two sides. When the editor says, "I dislike your fiction because it isn't true to life," the writer could retort, "I dislike life because it isn't true to my fiction."

That magazine scribe says: "Wars Can Be Prohibited." But some one, doubtless, would still be bootlegging them.

The figures show that brunette girls, on the average, marry earlier than blondes. It's easier for a brunette to sneak upon you in the dark.

STILL, IF MEN WERE SOLEMN AS AN OWL, THEY MIGHT NOT HAVE TO EXPLAIN WHEN THEY MIGHT NOT HAVE TO EXPLAIN WHEN THEY GET IN LATE AT NIGHT.

A new high in fantastic spectacles: farmers being paid to refrain from growing things for the want of which millions of people throughout the world are starving.

The present-day business man: a tight-rope walker with a mouse in his pocket.

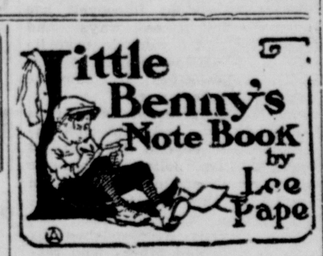

Sample of American humor heard in a street car: "Phooey! I couldn't commit suicide if my life depended on it."

You'll notice, though, that these cynics who say life isn't worth living very seldom commit suicide.

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "MRS. JONES TOLD MRS. SMITH WHAT A FINE WOMAN MRS BROWN WAS, WITHOUT USING THE WORD 'BUT' A SINGLE TIME."

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Me and pop was taking a wawk before supper, and some man came up saying to pop, How about a little helping hand, mister, I'm way down on my luck.

Try one of these, pop said.

And he handed the man a dime, saying, This is charity and it's against my public principles and private beleefs and I want that perfeckly understood.

I understand it perfeckly and I agree with it thurrify, the man said. Every man should have an equal chance to live and prosper by the swett of his own brow and the labor of his own hands, and charity degrades the man that offers it and the man that excepts it, he said.

You never said a truer thing, pop said. There's no room for charity in modern civilization, it eases the conscience of the rich and incourrages idleness in the poor and is contrary to nature's grate rule that all living beings, including man, shall live by his own efforts and not by the efforts of others. Charity is a cerse and there will be no true happiness on earth until it is wiped out, he said.

I agree with that mouthfull, brother the man said. There cant be no real brotherhood of man as long as my class lives off the crumbs thrown to us by your class. Every class awt to feed itself and clothe itself and look every other class in the face and say the hell with you, because that's the ony thing that's going to make all classes equal so there won't be no more classes. Down with charity, that's my motto, he said.

It's a motto to be proud of and until we all subscribe to it the day will never come when man is truly self supporting and self respecting, pop said. Try another one of these, and good luck, he said.

And he gave the man another dime and we kept on going and so did the man.

Being a kind of a red nose man needing a shave and a necktie.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files 14 Years Ago Today

DECEMBER 18, 1919

The people of Alamitos Bay by a vote of 18 to 14, rejected the proposed annexation of their little city to Long Beach.

Messrs F. C. Benjamin, president of Anaheim First National bank, C. E. Holcomb and W. J. Siemen, were dinner hosts to the directors and all employes of the bank,in celebration of the institution having passed the $2,000,000 mark in deposits.

Great developments in Orange county oil fields were predicted for the coming year following announcement that representatives of oil companies were offering large sums for leases on tracts of land in the Yorba Richfield district which two years earlier could have been secured for next to nothing.

The per capita circulation of money in the United States was $55.65, a decrease of 58 cents a person since December, 1918, according to figures made public by the United States treasury.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

BEYOND GOLD

There is one point to which it seems to me important to hold, in all this swirling discussion of monetary policy. It is that the old notion of the external value of a nation's currency as the most important thing to safeguard is not true.

Every month it becomes harder to get the voters to throw their hats in the air by shouting about the fate of the dollar on the foreign exchanges.

To say that this notion overemphasized the one element of gold is not to say necessarily that the gold standard is obsolete and should be thrown into the discard. It is to say—just what it says and no more—that it overemphasized gold.

It is not enough—facts are forcing us to see—to trust to the gold standard as an automatic corrective. We must give more attention to the economic realities that underlie the moving of monetary symbols across the international checker-board. Only so can we make real headway towards establishing and maintaining the all-important condition of economic equilibrium.

Too many nations have gone off the gold standard, gone back on the gold standard, and then gone off it again without experiencing either the disaster or the salvation that varying schools of prophets predicted to leave us with the old naive faith that there is some automatic magic in gold.

The national balance sheet is of primary importance, gold of secondary importance.

It is the problem of statesmanship to use gold without overtrusting it.

It is to be hoped that all parties can come to agreement upon the obvious fact that a new approach to the maintenance of economic equilibrium is needed, an approach that deals with the realities as well as the monetary symbols of the nation's economic life.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

DISCIPLINE

"If I only knew how to make him behave," is the timeworn wail of the grownup struggling to make a child conform to a standard of conduct foreign to his nature.

Children behave according to their lights. They do what they know how to do and what their irstinct drives them into doing. Their ways are not evil. Children know nothing of evil. Their intentions are good because they are unconscious. No self will has touched them. It is only when he comes in contact with an adult will that the child becomes conscious of his behavior and becomes wilful. His will is to be and to do good so if his contacts with grown folk strengthen him in right ways he will continue to be right. If his associations with adult people bring his self will and his latent selfishness into action his behavior will be enough to make his parents and teachers cry, "If only I could make him behave—"

The notion behind this cry is something to the effect that if the right force could be discovered all would be well. "Tell me something to do to him that will make him stop talking back to me." "What ought I to do to him when he tells me a lie!" There is always the idea that something must be done to hurt the child, to make him suffer before he will obey or follow guidance.

That notion works mischief. Hurtful force does not make a child obedient. Obedience comes of a feeling of cooperation or it does not come at all. It is a mistake to think that because a child does what he is bid under the influence of fear that he is obedient. He is of the same opinion still. The first opportunity that offers him a chance to have his own way he will take it. His will and purpose have not been reached by force, painful punishment or suppression under fear.

What we want to do is to train a child so that he will want to do what is best for him and for other people. The will and the purpose belong to the child and they remain his own, uncolored by any other person's influence until affection and cooperation and personal feeling respond to another's appeal. What we want is the personal desire of the child to do well. How can we achieve that?

Set him a good example always. He will be what you are. Manage your dealings with him so that he knows by experience the benign influence of kindness, good will and seasoned common sense. If he finds that your requests are reasonable, that your edicts are founded on a just idea of his rights and feelings, if he learns to know you are a well balanced, practical and understanding person who can be counted on to be the same yesterday and tomorrow and the day after, he will be guided by what you say to a large extent.

There are people who cannot be satisfied with that. They don't want to guide a child. They want to command him. They want to dominate so "he jumps when I speak." They can do that but they will have a child who jumps at the word of command and waits his time to even the account. They can compel some children to obey them literally but they will never know the meaning of a real child and parent relationship nor will they ever have the joy of watching a free soul expand in the family circle. There is a discipline that frees and a discipline that binds and you have your choice. But the child will some day call you to account.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped addressed envelope for reply.)

VOTE AT TOMORROW'S ELECTION

Tomorrow the people of Orange county, as a whole, will be voting upon two propositions, one, the Newport Harbor improvement and completion, and the other, the $170,000,000 enabling act for the San Joaquin valley.

We believe that the vast majority of people have made up their minds, that whatever else may be done, the Newport Harbor project is a first class investment of any man's money in Orange county. In view of the fact that the government is putting up two dollars for each dollar that the people are asked to give, everyone feels that there is more money coming out of it from every point of view, than Orange county will be putting in it.

The project in the San Joaquin valley is that of an enabling act, giving the people there the power to issue bonds. This is permitted if the organization which the bill itself creates, has sold the water and power which the project, when completed, will produce, at such a rate that the government will consider it self-liquidating. These bonds are not backed by the state.

It is urged, by its proponents, that this only relates to their own territory, and that the necessity for a vote is only because a referendum was demanded on a bill that had already passed the legislature. There are many objections raised, the chief one, which will probably affect the voters, is the belief that a $170,000,000 project there, from government funds, might militate against the use of money for other enterprises in California, particularly here in the Southland, that might be much needed.

The City Hall project for Santa Ana is another matter upon which the citizens are asked to vote. The arguments for this are that at this time, out of the $100,000 required, $30,000 can be procured from the Federal government, necessitating only $70,000, which money can be borrowed from the government. The earthquake ruined the city hall, which has been torn down, and the city has been renting offices since that time. The immediate erection of a city hall will add materially to the business and employment in the city, furnish the city with adequate quarters, and add to the down-town section a commodious, sightly and imposing structure.

The reluctance of the citizens to vote bonds where they do not see that they are practically going to take care of themselves in increased valuations, and the desire to see a civic center developed, are the only arguments we have heard against the bonds. Incidentally, we understand it is the plan to erect such a building at the corner of Third and Main streets, if the bonds carry, so that the city can dispose of it at a good price for commercial purposes, to carry out any civic center program later.

A WORD TO THE UNEMPLOYED

We should like to write a word to the unemployed and to those who maybe are in fear of being in the ranks of the unemployed tomorrow.

As we have noted the various efforts put forth by our government, to do its part in working out the problems of meeting your needs, of sharing your burden, we are confident that you will want to meet the challenge by hastening to the polls tomorrow morning. We believe you will vote that at least a part of this vast amount of money, that is being used, shall be used in a permanently beneficial enterprise, namely, the development of Newport Harbor.

When the business men and the taxpayers, and even the ranchers, are joining in, you can do your share by voting and getting your neighbors to vote as nearly unanimously as possible. It will have its effect away back in Washington. Mr. Cotton, who helped put through the $5,000,000 help for the earthquake victims, the man who helped remove the strictures on farm loans, will be there tomorrow night, awaiting the news from Orange county as to the result of this enterprise.

Help us to be able to flash to him, with the speed of light, the joyous news that will give him a happy Christmas, that Orange county has responded by an overwhelming vote, and has fulfilled the slogan of the NRA: "We have done our part."

THE IRONY OF FATE

It is the irony of fate. President DeValera of Ireland is having his troubles, as he made trouble with President Cosgrave. And Owen O'Duffy, under the banner of "United Ireland," whose followers are wearing blue shirts, which have been banned by the government, is carrying on against DeValera.

O'Duffy has been captured, and is subject to a military trial. The President is clothed with autocratic power, even of death, though it is hardly likely he will adminster this penalty on O'Duffy.

One can hardly read the language "United Ireland," as the slogan of O'Duffy, without a smile. Things were pretty well united in Ireland before DeValera took the field. He divided them under the slogan of "union." They were getting fairly well united, when O'Duffy started.

The Irish simply can't stand unity. They are like the fellow who spoke of his horse and said he was like Theodore Roosevelt. "His regular gait was running away." Instead of the motto, "United We Stand," the Irish should have it: "Union We Can't Understand."

As an Irishman in Dublin told us in the midst of Ireland's former civil war, after the British army had departed, and they were fighting among themselves: "We were glad when the British army left us so we could fight it out in peace."

We sympathize with Cosgrave, but we congratulate DeValera and hope for O'Duffy.

The Science News-Letter reports that the Soviet government has bought in this country a loud speaker that can be heard over a radius of thirty miles. This loud speaker is to be used on airplanes for the spreading of news and propaganda from the air.

It is a far cry from the old New England town crier, ringing his bell in the night and crying out, "Midnight, and all is well," to a loud speaker in the air which may be heard over a radius of thirty miles. This is progress, some would say. Others, doubtless, would say that it adds a new terror to living.

We can imagine the terror striking the heart of the primitive man in hearing such a shout from the skies. Nothing recorded in the Old Testament, not even the thunders of Sinai, could be more awful. The primitive man heard the voice of the heavenly hosts only in his imagination. If he were living today, it would be a real voice, and his fright would be maddening.

The wonders of old have become the commonplaces of today. We can all remember here on the Pacific Coast running to the roof or out on the street when an airplane whirred in the sky above. We watched it until it was out of sight. It was marvelous, inconceivable, that a heavier-than-air machine could float like a bird. During the Great War airplanes scattered printed matter from the sky over Germany for propaganda purposes. That will not be necessary in future wars. All that will be necessary will be to fix one of these loud speakers to a scouting plane, and go forth on that traveling platform to speak to a whole nation.

Perhaps we may yet speak to the man in the moon or to the much quoted "man from Mars" if we continue to extend the range of the human voice. Surely, this is an age of wonders.

THE CHANGING SOCIAL REGISTER

A staff correspondent of the Associated Press has been studying the changes in the New York Social Register, and he finds some interesting changes taking place in that book of the socially elect. He finds that many of them have become poorer during the last four years, and are therefore no longer among the socially elect. But what is very interesting is that great changes have come in the lot of those who still survive in this selected group.

It is discovered that 752 of the socially elect of New York have given up their yachts the past year. Many are no longer travelling abroad or sustaining inland, seashore and town houses. In 1930, New York's best people had 1300 floating palaces on the sea. This number has been reduced to about 500. Many of them have given up their exclusive clubs. Strange to say, whatever that may mean, marriages increased greatly during the past year. Perhaps the socially elect are settling down to a greater domestic felicity.

There is nothing in these facts for the average man to grieve about. In fact, there is much for him to be thankful for. It is not wholesome, as Tennyson puts it in Locksley Hall, Sixty Years After, that "City children soak and blacken soul and sense in city slime," while others glory in science and in wealth. A level society is not desirable. But the extremes, which surfeit some and make miserable others quite, if not more, deserving, is unjust and unhuman.

So the study of New York's Social Register is encouraging in that it has shown that the depression has visited the rich as well as the poor with an equal sense of burden.

Why No Nobel Peace Prizes?

Christian Science Monitor

For the second year in succession, the Nobel Peace Prize festival at Oslo has been omitted, because no prize had been awarded. Sunday only the Stockholm ceremony was held to award the prizes in medicine physics and literature. This omission has been criticized in Norway, and echoes of the criticism have been heard in Sweden and other countries. Granted that the international peace situation is precarious enough, the question arises as to why those prizes should be given out and why withheld.

From the point of view of the distributors, the Nobel committee appointed by the Norwegian Parliament, it may be stated that the omission is to be taken as a demonstration against the prevailing unrest in the world—a gesture of despair. That there is ample reason for such an attitude few will deny. On the other hand, peace workers point out that the prize is not to be regarded, to quote the Norwegian daily Dagbladet of Oslo, "as a piece of candy to be given the children when they are good, but as an active factor in the peace propaganda."

On this issue it is instructive to re-read what the donor himself, Alfred Nobel, said in his will. He wrote that the peace prize should be given annually to "whoever during the preceding year had worked most effectively for the fraternization of the nations and for the abolition or reduction of standing armies or for the organization of peace congresses." To be sure, the results of the disarmament work at Geneva this year have not, in truth, been very encouraging, but on the other hand there has not been lack of effort. The fraternization of the peoples goes on, though with other means.

It is evident from the phrasing of the will that Mr. Nobel wished to encourage activities that war on selfish nationalism and that foster a better regard for other peoples. In the past it is true that the prize often has been given to statesmen who have been successful in arranging some treaty in the interest of peace, though in retrospect their life work as a whole may appear to have been anything but irenic, but it was less the laureled victors than the tense and perspiring combatants on the firing line that the Nobel peace prizes were supposed to aid and encourage. In the last thirty-two years the prize has been given out but twenty-five times, and especially today it can hardly be said that the battle for peace stands so well that no such help is needed.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

WHAT'S THE USE?

Astronomers observe the stars;
They know how far it is to Mars,

And that dim halos make a pattern
Around the whirling form of Saturn.

They can, they eagerly aver,
Tot up the moons of Jupiter,

And on their busy finger tips
Count every probable eclipse,

And tell dumb folk, like me and you,
Just when another one is due.

But, on my soul, I don't know why
They keep on studying the sky,

Of which they've learned but little more
Than did astrologers of yore.

If on these bodies there are men
They'll always stay beyond our ken.

They can't come here, we can't go there;
There isn't any thoroughfare.

We cannot even leave the girth
Of this small ball we call our earth.

So why use up good active brains
When these vast, measureless terrains

Must always stay outside the ken
Of even very learned men?

"Men Who Resigned From Brain Trust Will Write Book." Its title, doubtless: "I Am a Fugitive From a Brain Gang."

An optimist is a man who starts out at nine o'clock Sunday morning to play golf on a public course.

Some are born unemployed, some achieve unemployment and some beat their bosses at golf.

Yes, Ethel, that California governor believes in law enfarcement.

A MEMBER OF THE OTHER SEX IS HARD TO UNDERSTAND BECAUSE YOU IMAGINE MYSTERY WHERE THERE IS ONLY DUMBNESS.

When the New York World-Telegram, mentioned a certain golfer's "280-yard drivel" it was not a misprint, necessarily, if you know golf and golfers.

A woman is as old as she looks, but not if another woman is doing the looking.

Some writers use loads of buts, and-yets, on-the-other-hands and one-must-remember-howevers—and some writers know what they want to say.

AMERICANISM: Choosing the best possible mechanic to look after the car; hiring just any dumb oaf to look after the children.

Every question has two sides. When the editor says, "I dislike your fiction because it isn't true to life," the writer could retort, "I dislike life because it isn't true to my fiction."

That magazine scribe says: "Wars Can Be Prohibited." But some one, doubtless, would still be bootlegging them.

The figures show that brunette girls, on the average, marry earlier than blondes. It's easier for a brunette to sneak upon you in the dark.

The present-day business man: a tight-rope walker with a mouse in his pocket.

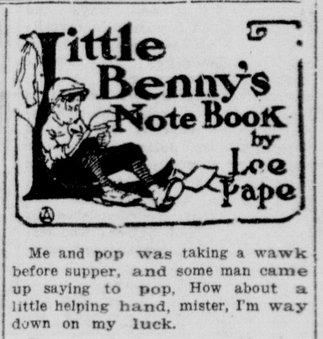

Sample of American humor heard in a street car: "Phooey! I couldn't commit suicide if my life depended on it."

You'll notice, though, that these cynics who say life isn't worth living very seldom commit suicide.

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "MRS. JONES TOLD MRS. SMITH WHAT A FINE WOMAN MRS BROWN WAS, WITHOUT USING THE WORD 'BUT' A SINGLE TIME."

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Me and pop was taking a wawk before supper, and some man came up saying to pop, How about a little helping hand, mister, I'm way down on my luck.

Try one of these, pop said.

And he handed the man a dime, saying, This is charity and it's against my public principles and private beleefs and I want that perfeckly understood.

I understand it perfeckly and I agree with it thurrily, the man said. Every man should have an equal chance to live and prosper by the swett of his own brow and the labor of his own hands, and charity degrades the man that offers it and the man that excepts it, he said.

You never said a truer thing, pop said. There's no room for charity in modern civilization, it eases the conscience of the rich and incourrages idleness in the poor and is contrary to nature's grate rule that all living beings, including man, shall live by his own efforts and not by the efforts of others. Charity is a cerse and there will be no true happiness on earth until it is wiped out, he said.

I agree with that mouthfull, brother the man said. There cant be no real brotherhood of man as long as my class lives off the crumbs thrown to us by your class. Every class awt to feed itself and clothe itself and look every other class in the face and say the hell with you, because that's the ony thing that's going to make all classes equal so there won't be no more classes. Down with charity, that's my motto, he said.

It's a motto to be proud of and until we all subscribe to it the day will never come when man is truly self supporting and self respecting, pop said. Try another one of these, and good luck, he said.

And he gave the man another dime and we kept on going and so did the man.

Being a kind of a red nose man needing a shave and a necktie.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files 14 Years Ago Today

DECEMBER 18, 1919

The people of Alamitos Bay by a vote of 18 to 14, rejected the proposed annexation of their little city to Long Beach.

Messrs F. C. Benjamin, president of Anaheim First National bank, C. E. Holcomb and W. J. Siemen, were dinner hosts to the directors and all employes of the bank,in celebration of the institution having passed the $2,000,000 mark in deposits.

Great developments in Orange county oil fields were predicted for the coming year following announcement that representatives of oil companies were offering large sums for leases on tracts of land in the Yorba Richfield district which two years earlier could have been secured for next to nothing.

The per capita circulation of money in the United States was $55.65, a decrease of 58 cents a person since December, 1918, according to figures made public by the United States treasury.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BEYOND GOLD

There is one point to which it seems to me important to hold, in all this swirling discussion of monetary policy. It is that the old notion of the external value of a nation's currency as the most important thing to safeguard is not true.

Every month it becomes harder to get the voters to throw their hats in the air by shouting about the fate of the dollar on the foreign exchanges.

To say that this notion overemphasized the one element of gold is not to say necessarily that the gold standard is obsolete and should be thrown into the discard. It is to say—just what it says and no more—that it overemphasized gold.

It is not enough—facts are forcing us to see—to trust to the gold standard as an automatic corrective. We must give more attention to the economic realities that underlie the moving of monetary symbols across the international checker-board. Only so can we make real headway towards establishing and maintaining the all-important condition of economic equilibrium.

Too many nations have gone off the gold standard, gone back on the gold standard, and then gone off it again without experiencing either the disaster or the salvation that varying schools of prophets predicted to leave us with the old naive faith that there is some automatic magic in gold.

The national balance sheet is of primary importance, gold of secondary importance.

It is the problem of statesmanship to use gold without overtrusting it.

It is to be hoped that all parties can come to agreement upon the obvious fact that a new approach to the maintenance of economic equilibrium is needed, an approach that deals with the realities as well as the monetary symbols of the nation's economic life.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

DISCIPLINE

"If I only knew how to make him behave," is the timeworn wail of the grownup struggling to make a child conform to a standard of conduct foreign to his nature.

Children behave according to their lights. They do what they know how to do and what their instinct drives them into doing. Their ways are not evil. Children know nothing of evil. Their intentions are good because they are unconscious. No self will has touched them. It is only when he comes in contact with an adult will that the child becomes conscious of his behavior and becomes wilful. His will is to be and to do good so if his contacts with grown folk strengthen him in right ways he will continue to be right. If his associations with adult people bring his self will and his latent selfishness into action his behavior will be enough to make his parents and teachers cry, "If only I could make him behave—"

The notion behind this cry is something to the effect that if the right force could be discovered all would be well. "Tell me something to do to him that will make him stop talking back to me." "What ought I to do to him when he tells me a lie!" There is always the idea that something must be done to hurt the child, to make him suffer before he will obey or follow guidance.

That notion works mischief. Hurtful force does not make a child obedient. Obedience comes of a feeling of cooperation or it does not come at all. It is a mistake to think that because a child does what he is bid under the influence of fear that he is obedient. He is of the same opinion still. The first opportunity that offers him a chance to have his own way he will take it. His will and purpose have not been reached by force, painful punishment or suppression under fear.

What we want to do is to train a child so that he will want to do what is best for him and for other people. The will and the purpose belong to the child and they remain his own, uncolored by any other person's influence until affection and cooperation and personal feeling respond to another's appeal. What we want is the personal desire of the child to do well. How can we achieve that?

Set him a good example always. He will be what you are. Manage your dealings with him so that he knows by experience the benign influence of kindness, good will and seasoned common sense. If he finds that your requests are reasonable, that your edicts are founded on a just idea of his rights and feelings, if he learns to know you are a well balanced, practical and understanding person who can be counted on to be the same yesterday and tomorrow and the day after, he will be guided by what you say to a large extent.

There are people who cannot be satisfied with that. They don't want to guide a child. They want to command him. They want to dominate so "he jumps when I speak." They can do that but they will have a child who jumps at the word of command and waits his time to even the account. They can compel some children to obey them literally but they will never know the meaning of a real child and parent relationship nor will they ever have the joy of watching a free soul expand in the family circle. There is a discipline that frees and a discipline that binds and you have your choice. But the child will some day call you to account.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped addressed envelope for reply.)
